The gripe has not exactly made its headquarters at the postoffice, but there is an ample evidence today that it took a look in on its travels around the city. George Hatch is staying at home, Frank Baker, city carrier No. 4, is off duty, and Silas Howard the collector of mails and driver of the famous white horse were not to be seen on the streets today. And even the clerk at the general delivery window, U. S. Ryder, was among those present when the gripe picked out its victims.

The new scenery arrived today, and now everything is ready for the entertainment to be given at the high school auditorium Friday evening by the Snikpo dramatic society, under the direction of Miss Hopkins. With the enlarged stage and additional lights, the dramatic society, after weeks of rehearsing, is prepared to put on an exceptionally fine show. While it has been announced that the public will have the privilege of paying ten cents admission, the impression has been general that the students body tickets. According to the latest information, the students of the high school have been placed on a standing basis with the rest of the world and will be permitted to hand in their dime for the evening's show. The show will begin Friday evening at 8:00 o'clock.

The girls of the domestic science department of the high school will entertain Friday evening Superintendent of Schools Elliott, Principal Nelson and the school board and their wives. This is an annual event when the girls have been studying how to cook, demonstrate to the school board and their wives just how fine a meal they can cook and serve.

The heavy snow fall is a fine thing for the fruit, according to county fruit inspector, C. O. Constable. It is also good for the soil, and fruit men should be well pleased, although it makes traveling rather difficult. Warm weather and warm rains causes the growth of fungus and keeps alive germs of all kinds in dead leaves and fruit on the ground. Cold and freezing weather will do much toward killing off the fungus and also destroying many forms of germ life.

The Salem fire department was called out yesterday afternoon to an alarm turned in from the residence of Al Jensen at 373 North Winter street. It appears that the tank of the steam heating plant is located in the attic and the escaping steam was mistaken for smoke. This is the second time that this mistake has been made from the same residence. A chimney fire at the residence of G. P. Powers, at 720 North Commercial street also called out the fire department at 7:30 last night. No damage was done.

There seems to be some difference of opinion as to the entertainment given at the opera house last evening. Judging from the repeated encores, the audience doubtless felt that it was well repaid. Others were not of the same opinion. But as the number of encores that a violin player receives is often a measure to some extent of the pleasure given the audience, then should the playing be said to have been satisfactory. Anyhow, the audience was in an encouraging mood, and for this reason, the program was rather longer than was expected.

"Treat the radiator of your car as carefully as you would your horse in cold weather, and cover it with a blanket," says George Vick. Anyhow, it would be a good investment from a standpoint of the pocket book to take proper care and see that the radiator is kept warm, as it does not take long for the water to freeze in some of the pipes that are barely one fourth of an inch thick. All the repair shops are now working overtime and many auto owners are having the pleasure of paying for broken pipes as well as paying 17 1/2 cents for gasoline.

An exhibition checker and chess contest will be given at the Commercial club this evening by Harry Lieberman, who ranks the fourth highest checker player in the world. Lieberman will play at the same time 14 of the best checker players in the city and two of the champion chess players. He will also give an exhibition of blindfold playing. The play will begin promptly at 8:00 o'clock, and the public is invited to be present. Mr. Lieberman was recently in San Francisco and in conversation with the champion player of the world, Mr. Jordan, learned that Isadore Greenbaum and other champion players lived in Salem. Hence, on his way to Portland, he decided to stop off tonight and give the local champions a sample of real checker and chess playing.

In 24 Years on Supreme Bench, Chief Justice Moore Has Written 1200 Opinions

Chief Justice Frank A. Moore.

Chief Justice Frank A. Moore, whose term on the supreme bench expires this year, has declared his intention to seek a re-election. Judge Moore has been on the bench since 1892, and it is no disparagement to the many able men who have sat there, to say that no one has made a better record. He has written over 1200 opinions, in which he has touched every phase of the law. His industry is proverbial, and his vacations very few. During the past year he averaged at his desk full nine hours a day for eleven months of the year. He is careful in the preparation of his opinions, and while he always tries to follow the law and the precedents as laid down, his sense of justice is so keen that in order to accomplish that he sometimes smashes a precedent.

Judge Moore was born in Maine, but moved to Iowa while in his minority. In that state he was educated, studied law, and married. In 1877 he came to Oregon, where he worked for a time as a carpenter, taught school, and then commenced practicing law at St. Helens, where he still claims his legal residence. While in St. Helens he served the county as county judge for four years, was a member of the state senate for the same time, and in both these positions he gave great satisfaction to his constituents and friends. Judge Moore is a walking encyclopedia of the decisions of the supreme court and is strong in mind and body. He ought to be re-elected unanimously.

A stay of execution was granted to give his lawyers time to perfect their appeal. On January 24 David Caplin, alleged Schmidt accomplice, will be brought into court for trial on a murder charge.

Who wouldn't kick on this kind of weather? Even the town clock in the court house tower went on a strike today and tolled its tale of woe by striking 12 at 1 o'clock today.

The men of the Congregational church of Salem will meet Friday evening at the First Congregational church in the interest of the layman's missionary movement. Addresses will be made by the Rev. P. E. Bauer and a missionary just from Turkey.

The Six o'clock club of the First Methodist church will meet next Tuesday evening in the church parlors. The address of the evening will be given by Superintendent O. M. Elliott, talking for his subject, "The Moral Training of Boys."

While the residents of Salem object to the snow on general principles it is safe to say that none of them are missing any meals on account of it. It is another matter with the birds, however, and the feathered hosts that flit about the state house lawn have been tightening their belts, figuratively speaking, for the last few days. This morning they found a square meal awaiting them on the state house lawn. A. C. Barbour of the Insurance department, purchased a sack of wheat and a few packages of bird seed which was distributed about the lawn for the birds. It was soon located and in one spot, 200 robins were chattering and scratching and pecking in a few minutes while the smaller birds were served in other spots.

Poultry Show Draws Large Crowds Daily

Despite the big snow storm and cold weather, the poultry show is drawing its crowds of bird fanciers, and even those who are not in the business, but just have a few of the laying kind at home. The subject of better birds now interests the farmer as well as the man who is in poultry as a business.

C. W. Wilcox, who has charge of the poultry department of the Oregon state hospital continues to give his demonstrations of capitalizing. These demonstrations have been attracting much attention from those who are in the poultry business.

DIRECTORS' MEETING REVEALS LARGE PLANS Packing Plant In Prospect--Other Matters Under Consideration

The monthly meeting of the directors of the Commercial Club held yesterday developed the fact that the directors have under consideration several plans, all for the good of the city.

The industrial department, through August Huestein, director, will bring before the city council at the meeting Monday night, the proposition of extending the sewer in the southeastern part of the city to the property owned by Steusloff Bros., where they propose to erect an abattoir. It is understood that the cost of building the sewer to this property would be close to $5,000, but if this is done, Steusloff Bros. agree to erect an abattoir at a cost of $30,000. Without sewer connections, the abattoir will not be erected.

The manager of the Commercial Club has been instructed to outline to the city council plans for an electric inspector, in order that all wiring may be done to conform to rules of the Board of Underwriters. This matter was brought before the Commercial Club by property owners. At present when an inspection is to be made, inspectors for underwriters must come from Portland, and inconvenience as well as often a delay.

The board of directors instructed C. L. Dick to attend a meeting of the Willamette Valley Commercial organizations soon to be held in Albany. Invitations to organize such an association have come from Albany, the object being to bring the entire valley together on subjects of mutual interest.

The matter of drainage is now receiving special attention from the Portland Chamber of Commerce and a letter from them to the Salem club suggests that the matter be mutually discussed. The board voted to refer the matter to director W. L. Staley of the agricultural department.

In order to secure the services of a government expert to make a study of brown rot in this valley, Director W. L. Staley of the agricultural department asked for the endorsement of the Commercial club in his petition to Congressmen Hawley and Washington authorities. This endorsement was given, and the matter of securing an expert will be taken up at once through Congressman Hawley.

All inquiries regarding real estate received by the Commercial club will be referred to the real estate dealers of the city. It is thought that by this means, those who really wish to get information will receive it from those posted on the subject.

A special meeting of the board of directors has been called for this evening to further discuss the business of the club.

Lewis' Resolution To Force Intervention

against a repetition, are satisfactory to the administration, Secretary of State Lansing announced this afternoon.

Lansing declared no "note" would be sent to Carranza regarding the indemnity for the massacred men unless developments prove that the de facto government was criminally lax.

The secretary reiterated the state department's previous warnings that Americans should leave Mexican districts where the rebels are active, including parts of Chihuahua, Sonora and Durango.

President Wilson stands squarely behind Secretary of State Lansing's statement that Americans who have entered Mexico did so at their own risk.

While General Carranza has been urged to round up the murderers who shot down 18 Americans at Santa Ysabel Monday, the White House today made it plain that the president has not deviated one whit from his policy of letting Mexico work out its own salvation while America watchfully waits, without intervention. The victims of the Santa Ysabel outrage were specifically warned not to enter Mexico. While deploring their deaths, the administration held that they had taken the risk of their own violation, at a time when the Washington government counseled that there might be danger in so doing.

SHOVEL SNOW IN PORTLAND

Portland, Ore., Jan. 13.--Every unemployed man in Portland was put to work shoveling snow in the streets this afternoon. The city will pay them. The mayor issued this order at noon today. The snow will be dumped into the river.

KILLED BY BROTHER

Eugene, Ore., Jan. 13.--Because his brother mistook him for a deer, Perry Lowe, a body lies in the morgue here today and Coroner Veatch is tramping through the McKenzie valley hills on a tour of investigation.

Berry and Alden Lowe were hunting and were separated in the woods. Alden declares he saw something move.

FRED G. BUCHEL TO SEEK NOMINATION FOR SERVICE COMMISSION

Deputy State Sealer of Weights and Measures Announces Candidacy

Fred G. Buchtel, deputy state sealer of weights and measures, has announced his candidacy on the republican ticket for public service commissioner for the western district. Formerly the title of this office was railroad commissioner, but the last legislature changed it to Public Service commissioner.

Deputy State Sealer Buchtel is the son of Joe Buchtel, the pioneer photographer and fire chief of Portland, and is 38 years old. After graduating from the common schools he completed his education in the high school of Portland. His public career began as clerk for the county board of relief of Multnomah county, when Judge Lionel R. Webster as county judge, and Frank Barnes and W. L. Libbner present county commissioner, constituted the board of county commissioners for the county.

After passing a rigid civil service examination he was named sealer of weights and measures for Portland in May, 1905. He has been identified with weights and measures work ever since, and is regarded as an authority on the subject. Recognizing his ability State Treasurer Kay appointed him deputy state sealer when the weights and measures law passed by the 1911 legislature became operative, and since then he has been in active charge of the state department. He is the author of the comprehensive weights and measures law passed by the last legislature, which in addition to reducing the cost of the administration of his department, put the state on an equal basis with any state in the weight and measure world. Because of his wide experience with weights and measures he is regarded as excellently qualified for public service commissioner, the duties of the two offices being in many ways alike.

A. L. Clark Wants Fraud Indictment Dismissed

A. L. Clark, of Portland, who was indicted last year in connection with the alleged election frauds in the election of the county sheriff of Multnomah county, petitioned the state supreme court today for a writ of mandamus to compel Judge Kavanaugh to dismiss the indictment against him. Clark was tried in the circuit court and the first time the jury disagreed. He was tried again and this time convicted. He moved for a new trial and his motion was granted. Before the third trial was called the district attorney petitioned the court for the dismissal of the indictment on the grounds that material witnesses had moved away and it would be impossible to secure a conviction. Judge Kavanaugh denied the motion of the district attorney and Clark asks the supreme court to compel Kavanaugh to dismiss the indictment against him.
