NANCE O'NEIL TALKS OF HER PHOTOPLAY WORK

screen just as it is possible upon the speaking stage. This wonderful new art—for it is now—appeals to me with singular power. It appeals for this reason: That dramatic artists now have a medium of expression different and far broader than the so-called legitimate stage. So intensely do I live every moment that I work for the screen, that it becomes a saying in the William Fox studios that 'Nance O'Neil has lost her voice playing for the pictures.' Seriously speaking, though, continued Miss O'Neil, 'I think I may lay claim to being the first actress to discover that sincerity is the most important thing upon the screen just as it is in real life and upon the stage. The screen, however, is quicker to detect hypocrisy and what I may term, for want of a better word, 'faking' than is the speaking stage.'

SNOWBOUND TRAIN ARRIVES IN FRISCO

Transcontinental Travel Is Badly Delayed by Winter Storms

San Francisco, Jan. 15.—Covered with snow and 24 hours late the Overland Limited pulled into the Oakland mole at 11 a. m. today, with eight other transcontinental trains strung out behind it, due to arrive at intervals of 45 minutes.

One track of the double track line between Sparks, Nevada and Sacramento was cleared of snow today. East of the Sierras, the rails are still blanketed with snow and traffic is demoralized.

Local Southern Pacific officials stated that all delayed passenger trains have been released. They expect that the other track west of the mountains will be cleared in a short time. All available snow plows with gangs of men are working incessantly.

Four trainloads of freight, due to move this morning are being held up between Sacramento and Sparks, but will be released tonight. The freight trains are being held at Lovelock and Sparks, Nevada and Minden and Truckee, California.

All Sacramento valley rail lines are in good condition today, officials of the Southern Pacific stated, except the Sterling branch. An engine was derailed at the Sterling yards, and another engine sent to relieve it, also went off the tracks.

JOE CANNON FIGHTS ALASKAN RAILROAD

Assisted by Senator Nelson He Will Oppose Appropriations

Washington, Jan. 15.—"Uncle Joe" Cannon and Senator Nelson, of Minnesota, are leading a fight against appropriations necessary to the continuation of this year's work on the government Alaska railroad.

They have affidavits alleging that faults have already occurred in the work and that, too, there are mistakes in the selected route.

Notwithstanding the opposition of the two republican warhorses, friends of the enterprise said today that they have reason to feel sure that congress will authorize the emergency fund by February. They declare that the emergency appropriation is necessary because the work is progressing more rapidly than had been expected.

The $5,000,000 first installment out of a total of $35,000,000 was intended to cover work up to July. But, because of favorable weather, Secretary of the Interior Lane said, this portion has already been completed. Now the government desires to go ahead. Lane's information from the house appropriations committee is that the house will not delay matters.

Friends of the project say that its enemies prepared the Cannon-Nelson affidavits to serve selfish interests and the holding up of one year's appropriations might wreck the whole plan.

While Cannon and Nelson have not yet taken their fight into the open, it is known that they are in charge of the materials gathered by opponents of the railroad.
