UNIQUE ACCOUNT OF RING BATTLE

Speculation Long Prediction Short

Chilean Sporting Journal Describes Bout for Benefit of English-Speaking Fans

Much Talk Concerning Probable New Champions Indulged In

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 17.—The following account of a prize fight in Santiago, Chile, was received here today by Pat Higgins, formerly pugilist coach of U. S. C. and Santa Clara university. It was written by a Chilean sporting journal scribe for the benefit of the English speaking fight fans there.

"According to announcement, the match de box between the boxadors Jack Murray and Ferdinand Pirano, disputing the championship of South America, was realized last night at the Casino.

"From an early moment the house was full, so that not a single place remained. Terminated the preparations which the case required, the pugilists were appeared and introduced.

"Round 1.—After some brief moments, Murray, with a straight from the left, touched the mandibula of his opponent. Separated, Murray entered again with a new straight of the left, also on the mandibula.

"Round 2.—Murray directed a straight of the left and an invitation of the fight (point). Pirano attempted to attack on the estomago, which was sidestepped with disdain by Murray, who then entered with a straight of the right, which touched Pirano very seriously.

"Round 3.—Pirano is attacked of left and right very simultaneously many times.

"Round 4.—Pirano received various straight and fell twice, lifting himself with difficulty.

"Round 5.—Pirano received several straight and crosses until he fell knockout. The regulation 10 seconds were enumerated, thereafter Murray was proclaimed champion of South America.

"The encounter in general was devoid of interest which it merited. The conqueror during the whole time demonstrated the most gentlemanly feeling, even at times to the extent of refusing to strike his opponent. He was applauded with great heat by the public. I did not applaud for the tired feeling they engendered."

Golf Tournament.

Chicago, Jan. 17.—The mooted question of free transportation to the western golf championship tournament at Del Monte, Cal., next July, will remain in abeyance for at least a month. Directors of the Western Golf association, with whom the decision rests, will not meet within that time. The opinion prevails among local golfers that no objection will be placed in the way of California's offer.

Resume Old Relations.

San Francisco, Jan. 17.—Resumption of athletic relations between Stanford university and the University of California will be settled one way or the other definitely tonight when the agreement committees of the two universities will meet here. If they fail to reach an agreement, peace negotiations will be off permanently, it is thought.

High-jumper Retires.

San Francisco, Jan. 17.—George Horine, the sensational former Olympic club and Stanford high jumper, has quit athletics permanently for the pastoral life. Horine is on a farm in Merced county and is bending his efforts along agricultural lines.

He is present national champion in the running high jump and former was world's record holder. He was a member of the American team at the Stockholm Olympic games, finishing third.

OREGON NEWS TODAY

Tank Exploded.

Woodburn, Or., Jan. 17.—Mayor Steelhammer is lame today, but he has learned something about frozen water pipes.

Shortly after he had built a fire in the kitchen range yesterday the water tank blew up, tearing a huge hole in the kitchen roof and completely demolishing the stove. A piece of the steel range struck the mayor's leg, severely bruising it.

Pendleton 20 Below

Pendleton, Or., Jan. 17.—Pendleton is shivering today after the second coldest night in her history. The mercury dropped to 20 degrees below zero last night. Colder weather is predicted for tonight.

Old Horse Brought $93.50.

Baker, Or., Jan. 17.—Old horses here bring a higher price than the glue factories can pay. From one ancient nag J. C. Oliver, rancher, realized $93.50, he announced today. The money was paid in bounties for coyote scalps. The old horse was used as bait.

Thrown Through Window.

Hood River, Or., Jan. 17.—When the pilot of a long bob sled turned his speeding coaster into a sidewalk snow bank to avoid collision with another sled, his party of ten young people was piled in a heap. After counting noses it was found that Miss Katherine Stewart was missing.

She was found injured in the basement of a nearby business block. She had been hurled through the window, landing on a pile of coal.

Capitalist Dead.

Rood River, Or., Jan. 17.—John Otten, capitalist, is dead at his home here today. He had been engaged in business at Snohomish, Washington; Salem, Oregon; Boise, Idaho, and Santa Barbara, California. Otten was born in Germany, in 1852 and came to America when two years old.

CALIFORNIA FLOODS

Block Rail Lines

Southern Part of State Covered With Water—Cities Are Flooded

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 17.—With more rain forecasted for tomorrow, the storm which has deluged southern California raged without intermission today, while streets became torrents, residence districts were flooded and the interurban railway system demoralized by numerous washouts.

At 8 o'clock this morning the weather bureau announced that 3.90 inches had fallen during the storm, making 1.65 this time last year.

The southeastern residence section of Los Angeles was reported partially under water. At some places the flood threatened to lift light bungalows from their foundations and squads of police rushed to rescue the inmates. Broad streets became brawling rivers, littered with floating debris. Outfall sewers were choked and huge lakes formed at intersections, covering the sidewalks. Many local carlines were tied up.

The lowlands between Venice and Sawtelle were entirely inundated. Washouts on the Venice, Venice, Santa Monica, Ocean Park and Redondo main lines stopped all traffic. Troubles were reported on the Long Beach line. An effort was made to bring cars into Los Angeles from Venice via Del Rey, but this failed after one car had essayed the trip. The Glendale line was knocked out. Thousands of commuters were isolated in their homes.

Washington boulevard, the main automobile road between Los Angeles and Venice, was covered with water. Detectives were sent to the home of Mrs. A. T. Lane on Russell avenue to rescue her when the flood threatened to lift her bungalow from its foundations. Other residences in the neighborhood were menaced.

Borne on the crest of a wave, several trucks came bobbing down Figueroa street in the early dawn. Nobody knew where they came from, but they continued their voyage toward the city limits without pause, while small boys eager for salvage aplashed along the sidewalks waiting for them to strand.

Serious Southern Pacific washouts were reported from Pomona.

Flood At San Diego.

San Diego, Cal., Jan. 17.—Police automobiles, loaded with blue coats were rushed to Old Town, four miles north of this city today, to rescue residents from second story windows following the sudden rise of the San Diego river at that point. Homes were abandoned as the waters swept over the oldest settlement in California.

The present storm is breaking the records in the back country. Billions of gallons of water are being impounded, and at points the mountain streams have left their banks, flooding ranches and drowning stock.

At Morena dam, on the city water system, where Charles Hatfield, the "rain maker," is at work under contract with the city, all rainfall records for years have been shattered. Over three inches of rain fall in less than 24 hours there.

Several streetcars jumped the tracks in the city today, and traffic was tied up. It was still raining today, with no indication of a letup.

Schools at San Bernardino were closed, pupils being unable to get to them. Southern Pacific washouts on White Water and Indio stopped continental traffic. On the Riverside line of the Pacific Electric a washout was reported near Colton. The Santa Fe had a tieup near Pasadena.

The Pacific Electric line is reported to be washed out at Baldwin Park and at Alta Loma, and the track bed damaged at many intervening points necessitating slight repairs before traffic can be resumed.

Trains Are Stalled.

Riverside, Cal., Jan. 17.—Southern Pacific Overland train Number 38, westbound, is stalled at Cabazon and two other overland passenger trains are held up at Indio by washouts occasioned by heavy rainfall on the desert.

The train at Cabazon cannot get either way and the passengers face famine. An attempt was made from Banning to rescue them by automobiles but the highway is also washed out and the machines could not get through. Eight feet of the railroad is gone to White Water, between Cabazon and Indio, and another washout at Owl, between Cabazon and Banning, prevents them coming into the latter city.

All overland traffic is tied up until repairs can be made.

Campers Caught by Flood.

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 17.—Hearing that a party of 12 campers, including several women, was marooned on an island in the San Gabriel wash, in danger of drowning, Sheriff Cline today rushed a posse to the rescue.

The party had "wig-wagged" a message to the shore, saying the waters were rapidly rising and that they were in danger of being swept to death.

As no boat could live in the flood, the posse planned to send a line over to the island, and make an effort to bring the imperiled party to safety in improvised "bo'sen seats."

Water Up To Eaves.

Colton, Cal., Jan. 17.—Eighty houses in South Colton were surrounded by a swirling flood reaching to the eaves of some structures shortly before noon today. The water rose rapidly, while families fled to roofs and upper floors. Police and fire departments were called out for rescue work. With the aid of improvised rafts, many were taken to safety. The damage is heavy.

Pomona Deluged.

Pomona, Cal., Jan. 17.—With over three and one half inches of rain during the past twelve hours, morning dawned today with the streets and roads running torrents of water and the city isolated from the transportation standpoint from the outside world.

Floods in Arizona.

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 17.—Three inches of rain fell here during the past 24 hours. Streams are rising, and floods are probable.

Little News of the Day

(By United Press.)

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 17.—David Altizer, veteran baseball player of the Minneapolis club of the American association, today took a job with an oil company, traveling Northern Minnesota. He says he will retire permanently from baseball.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 17.—Eastern horsemen were well represented at the opening of the national horse show here today. Local business men gave $10,000 to pay for getting and staging exhibits and for the entertainment of visitors.

St. Paul, Minn., Jan. 17.—One of the features of the electrification in Montana of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad is that a train dispatcher has control over the flow of electricity in the overhead. He is able by his knowledge of the grades and the location of trains, to supply extra current where it is needed and cut it off where it is not needed. Trains going down grade generate electricity.

Daredevil Birdboy
Would Serve Country

San Francisco, Jan. 17.—Art Smith, "dare devil bird boy," who thrilled thousands with his daring flights at the Panama-Pacific exposition, stands ready to serve his country in preparing men to fly in war.

He has notified Secretary of War Garrison and he believes that if the latter accepts he will be able to revolutionize the teaching of aeronautics in this country. His plan calls for construction of steel towers from which would be suspended a steel cable. Aeroplanes would be suspended from these cables, with enough play so that the aviator could execute a number of maneuvers, but at the same time having a feeling of absolute security. Smith believes that elimination of fear and danger during the training period would tend to speed up the teaching.

Smith's accident in indoor flying with a miniature machine at the civic auditorium Saturday night has failed to dampen his ardor and he expects to start at once on construction of another machine with which he can give demonstrations in interior aviation.

YOUNG GIRL ESTABLISHES WORLD'S RECORD ON RIFLE RANGE

Elizabeth Dean, a sixteen-year-old high school girl in Cambridge, Mass., by shooting thirty-one consecutive bull's eyes on a 300-yard rifle range with a regulation army Springfield rifle has set a world's record for a girl. The slip of a girl went on to the Massachusetts rifle range at Wakefield, Mass., with her uncle, Lieut. Harry J. Dugane of Company A, Eighth Massachusetts regiment, and without a shoulder pad, thrice fired the ten shots allowed her for each round and scored perfect bull's eyes. The thirty-first shot was a hit, but on the next she just touched the ring nearest the center of the target and thus stopped. She was surrounded by an admiring crowd of soldiers and marines who watched her work with bated breath.

WOULD KILL PARENTS

Chicago, Jan. 17.—Charged with plotting to murder their parents, Irving and Herbert Uptike were held by the police today. According to the story the police wrung from them, they intended the murders because they believed the father Farman D. Uptike, millionaire, was about to change his will to their detriment. The elder son, Irving, aged 38, was said to have forced his 21-year-old brother to join in his plan. The murders, it is claimed, were to have been committed last night.

The change in the father's will was slated for today. The younger son is said to have agreed to plans to poison the parents, but intended to thwart the elder brother.

From the younger man, the police got wind of the alleged plot. The younger son is understood to be held merely as a witness.

TODAY'S ODDDEST STORY

San Francisco, Jan. 17.—The bow-wow came into its place in the son; also the daughter and all the rest of the family during the rain. On a hundred and fifteen miles of 'em "with plenty of mustard" were devoured by exposition visitors, according to figures made public today. That means about 2,500,000 frankfurters.
