The Old Chief Was Loyal to England

London, Jan. 6.—(By mail.)—The British war office, will not take advantage of its latest offer of aid from one of its overseas possessions. This offer comes from the heart of Burma where British officers administer law for the natives. Coming out of his bungalow one morning recently, an officer found the ancient Burma chief of a village 50 miles away squatted on his heels and ready to talk. After the customary diplomatic greetings the chief stated his mission as follows: "My villagers wish to make some return for the favors bestowed upon us by the British government. The government has lessened the taxes, killed the leopards, given us good water and policemen. Now I have come to tell you that we have eight guns, ancient and true; four pounds of excellent gunpowder in a bottle, and a bag of bullets; these being no more of less than the honorable British government has permitted us to hold.

PUT CREAM IN NOSE AND STOP CATARRH

Tells How To Open Clogged Nostrils and End Head-Colds.

You feel fine in a few moments. Your cold in head or catarrh will be gone. Your clogged nostrils will open. The air passage of your head will clear and you can breathe freely. No more dullness, headache; no hawking, snuffing, mucous discharges or dryness; no struggling for breath at night.

Tell your druggist you want a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm. Apply a little of this fragrant, antiseptic cream in your nostrils, let it penetrate through every air passage of the head; soothe and heal the swollen, inflamed mucous membrane, and relief comes instantly. It is just what every cold and catarrh sufferer needs. Don't stay stuffed-up and miserable.

As to "army" the chief offered two of the best village trackers to handle the "artillery and munitions." He went away satisfied that the honorable British government should hear of the generous offer and he should know it all in due time.

The war office is understood already to have replied that if the situation becomes worse it may accept the generous offer.

ALICE BRADY STARS IN "THE RACK"

World Film Corporation presents the five-part photoplay "The Rack," based on the great William A. Brady stage success of the same name.

Blanche Gordon, impersonated in the photoplay by Miss Brady, is an indiscreet young lady. She is married, but she flirts with men. One of them, a disreputable admirer, inveigles her to a roadhouse of questionable character and there makes ardent love to her. He is mysteriously shot dead, and Blanche is accused of, and tried for, the murder. The tortured girl confesses that she shot the man in defense of her honor. She is about to be sentenced, when the real murderer, who is secretly present in court, comes forward and avows himself guilty of the crime.

Alice Brady is supported by a very powerful cast, which includes Milton Sills, June Elvidge, and Chester Bar nett.

"The Rack" will be exhibited at the Bligh Theatre, today and tomorrow.

The Indian String Quartet which is to be presented to the Salem public at the First Christian church tonight, will give a class of music seldom heard outside of the largest cities, because such an organization requires long and constant practice together. A string quartet is quite uncommon and few people know how beautiful is the music written for these instruments by the great masters. The Indian themes composed by Mr. Turney, leader of the quartet, are striking features of the program. They preserve the characteristic wildness of Indian music in a beautiful harmony and always delight in by their weird charm.

The (Portland) Oregon Journal said: The music of the quartet revealed to the public that a unique work is being done at Chemawa by Mr. Turney as a composer, as well as leader of the orchestra. He has made a careful study of Indian music, and has the ability to put its spirit into a melody that is pleasing to modern ears.

In the "Indian Solilo," which was played with fine effect, he has given a beautiful expression of the spirit of the early Indian people in their joys, in their sorrows and in their ceremonies. The first movement, "Dawn," opens with the first appearance of the light in the east. Earth and nature throbb as they struggle to awaken from sleep and meet the new day. Then we hear the first call of the bird to its mate, and the mate's response. As the sun rises above the horizon and tints the mountain peaks with gold the earth throbs cease, and awaken nature responds with life everywhere.

The second movement, "The Dance, a Tribal Ceremony," reveals the spirit of the men around the campfire as they unite in the simple rites that express their joy and hope and gratitude.

"Lamentation, or the Death of a Warrior," is weirdly solemn and pathetic. Some years ago, Mr. Turney was crossing the Cascade mountains and near the summit he met a funeral procession. The body of the dead was strapped to a pony, and the men who rode before and behind were chanting the death song, while the rocks and hills gave back the sound and solemn echo. The music made an impression on the composer which he has never forgotten. He gives it in this movement.

The last movement is "The Hunt, or the Braves on a Chase." After the excitement of preparation and departure you hear the galloping tread of the horses and the rush and movement of the braves pursuing the buffalo fleeing over the plains; then the feeling of victory as they care for their prizes and return to camp.

all over the territory north of Anaheim ranch between there and the Dominguez ranch. The filled-in ground of the harbor district is safe from the ravages of the high water, but the Golden State Wooden Mills, the city pound and other places north of Anaheim road are inundated.

Bankers in the river bed of the Los Angeles river are flooded out of their homes, many of them seeking refuge on the higher ground, taking their stock with them. Some were unable to get away before the water began to rise and are being rescued by police in skiffs, while others are marooned in their homes.

Central California Hit.

Sacramento, Jan. 18.—Storm conditions approaching those in southern California existed in some sections of northern and central California today, and the swollen streams are being turned into roaring torrents by melting snow.

Train service is badly demoralized, and at some places traffic is completely halted. Thousands of acres of grain lands in the Tulare lake basin and vast fields of alfalfa and lowland orchards adjacent to Kings River, north of Hanford, are seriously menaced. Workmen were rushed to the levees in anticipation of their going out.

The state highway in the vicinity of San Luis Obispo is impassable, and train service in that vicinity is badly demoralized.

Creeds down the peninsula from San Francisco are swollen beyond their banks and the business district of Burlingame was inundated early today.

In the vicinity of Menlo Park, where are many large country estates, many wealthy residents were marooned.

Three Are Drowned.

Santa Ana, Cal., Jan. 18.—Three persons, a man, woman and baby, were drowned between Anaheim and Fullerton this morning when the flood swept their buggy from the state highway. Their bodies have not been recovered and their identity is unknown. The Santa Ana river has burst its banks and is rushing through the eastern part of Anaheim.
