The directors of the Rickreall school district met yesterday and decided to make plans at once for the erection of a new building to take the place of the one that was burned about two weeks ago. The building cost $6,000 and was insured for $4,000. As soon as the insurance is adjusted, work will begin.

At a meeting last evening of the ladies and knights of the Maecabees, a program was given, which included the several numbers by Hebel's Cherrybloss band, and readings by Florence Valentine and Mrs. Curtis. Songs were sung by Mrs. Purdy, Paoche Heath and Mrs. Mountain. Delbert Moore played a violin solo. The evening's entertainment closed with games and refreshments.

The boys of the manual training department of the high school are not only making things, but have taken upon themselves the protection of the building and the repairing of the equipment. The arms on many of the seats and desks have lately been repaired and refinished by the boys and they hope by their influence, to prevent the defacing or marking of the wood work and furnishings of the building.

The meeting of the Mountain View Parents-Teachers' association Friday evening, will be addressed by R. H. Reed who has been a missionary on the frontier for several years. He will tell of his personal experiences with the Indians. A. Nicholson will furnish the music for the evening. Admission is free. The Mountain View district is at Oak Grove, about two miles west of Salem.

The Women of Woodcraft and the Woodmen of the World will hold a social Friday evening, in which everybody takes a chance. It is just like a fair. The Woodmen will furnish the baskets, and the Woodcraft will put the provender within the baskets. Also the name of the lady who provided the baskets for that particular basket. Then the baskets as filled, will be sold at auction, and the Woodman will purchase a basket, will have the pleasure of eating the contents thereof, with the lady who prepared the food therein.

The junior basketball teams are also going about the country looking for trouble. The Albany high school junior team will play the Washington junior high school team of this city Saturday evening at the high school gymnasium. The game will begin promptly at 7 o'clock. This will be the first time these juniors will have taken a look at each other.

FIREBELLS BIG STORM

San Francisco, Jan. 27.—Registering 29.10, the lowest point reached since February 22, 1891, the barometer here today foretold a storm of almost unprecedented severity, according to the weather bureau. The barometer has dropped steadily and rapidly since 8 o'clock last night when it registered 29.80. Storm warnings are being sent up and down the coast.

For the benefit of the Salem merchants who rather enjoy talking business during eating hours, a merchants' lunch has been arranged at the Commercial club and will be served for 25 cents. The hours are from 11:30 o'clock to 1:30.

The quarterly meeting of the members and congregation of the United Evangelical church will be held Saturday evening at 7:30 o'clock. The presiding elder, Rev. S. S. Mamey will be in charge of the meeting. Official business of importance will come before the meeting. The annual conference of the church will be held in Portland the first week of April and at the meeting Saturday night, a delegate will be elected.

A deed for the property on Court street on which Wallace W. Moore is erecting a building, was placed on file this week. Frank W. Durbin is the grantor, and the lot is described as part of lot 5, block 22 in the city of Salem, and is 57 1/2 feet by 39 feet, 10 inches. The lot is deeded to Wallace W. Moore, and the consideration is $9,000. A quit claim is also given by Mr. Durbin to his interest in the wall of the Brewer building.

Hector MacPherson, field agent of the extension department of the O. A. C. writes O. H. Luck, manager of the Commercial club that he will be on hand Saturday to deliver an address at the Commercial club Saturday afternoon. This is a meeting especially for farmers. Market and cooperative marketing will be discussed. G. B. Bouquet, also of the O. A. C. will deliver a short address. The meeting will begin promptly at 1 o'clock. George W. Weeks is chairman of the committee in charge.

The masquerade dance given last evening at the Moose hall by "The El Area Club" was largely attended and brought out all sorts of fancy and interesting costumes. For the most striking costume, the first prize was awarded to Miss Emma Godfrey, who appeared as a "Colonial." The second prize, for the most elaborate costume, was given to Miss Grace Emery, and the third prize, for the most comical make-up, awarded to Miss Leona Peterson, who appeared as a ghost. Ivan G. Martin, was also awarded a prize for a comical make-up.

At the Washington junior high school yesterday, the following officers of the student body were elected: President, Daryl Evans; vice-president, Maude McCoy; secretary, Wayne Allen; treasurer, Earl Shafer; editor, Joseph Albrecht; board of directors, Helen Corey, Dolph Craig and Dolph Domagalla. The football team of the Washington junior high school was presented with their sweaters and letters yesterday. The election of yesterday was to fill all the offices of the student body for the coming semester.

The writer of the play "The Fortune Hunter", to be produced here next Thursday and Friday nights by home talent, for charity, has written Ivan G. McDaniel, secretary of the Salem Social Service Center as follows: "Personally I shall be very glad to donate the use of the play for the charity performance, but it will also be necessary to obtain the permission of the publishers and agents." The letter is dated December 24, written from the home of Winchell Smith, Farmington, Connecticut. As the publishers and agents have also given their usual royalties, the play can be produced without the usual royalty, which in plays of the standard of "The Fortune Hunter" generally amount to $100.

For those who wish information on the Swiss military system of training, an opportunity will be given Friday evening, when the affirmative debating team of the senior high school will meet in debate with the Jefferson high school team. Those in the Salem team are Frank Rosebraugh, Maynard Sylvester and James Walker. Ernest Bile will preside and the judges will be: H. L. Wilson, principal of the McMinnville school, W. J. Peddicord, of the Portland night school, and Prof. J. T. Matthews, of the Willamette university. Miss Ila B. Davis is in charge of the debate and Lyle Bartholomew is student manager. The negative team of the high school will also debate Friday evening, going to Newberg. W. P. Murphy will accompany them. The negative team is composed of Herald Emmel, Ira Meyer and Thomas McGilchrist.

The Willamette Valley Exposition association organized a year ago for the advancement of interests of Willamette valley counties at the Panama-Pacific exposition is holding its final session today at the Commercial club. The business now before the association is mainly that of distributing the exhibits returned from the exposition. They will be sent to the various counties, and also to this state fair and to the Portland Chamber of Commerce. C. H. Stewart of Albany, has acted as president of the association and Fred S. Benton of this city, as secretary. Those present today and taking part in the final business of the association are C. H. Stewart of Albany, W. A. Taylor, of Macleay; Fred S. Benton, Salem; O. E. Praytag, Oregon City; Rev. H. Charles Dunsmore, Independence; E. W. Haines of Forest Grove; E. L. Kaickerbocker, Sheridan, and W. S. Groves of Corvallis.

AUSTRALIANS LAUNCH A WARSHIP

The launching of the Swan. "I name this vessel the Swan," said Lady Cresswell, wife of Rear Admiral Cresswell of Australia, "and may she be as graceful in motion and as fierce in fight as her living namesake. Good fortune to her and to all that sail in her." Such were the wishes as the new Australian warship left the ways in the presence of a great assemblage of federal and state government officials.

POINTS OUT CAUSES OF NATIONAL DECAY

Judge Alden Has Sharp Tongue and Is Considerably of a Scold

Dishonesty in commercial life, rotteness in politics, unhappiness in domestic relations, and indifference to religion, evils of the present age, came under the keen intellectual scalpel of Judge Alden, famous lecturer, humorist, reformer, and jurist, who spoke last night at the armory as the third number in the Salem lyceum course, and the root and cause of the evils laid bare to the public gaze. With keen barbs of humor, he opened the way to the hearts of the audience, and then drove home the steel of his argument, the burden of which was that individuals are shirking their responsibilities to their fellow men, that petty thievery is practiced and graft denounced by the thieves, that a growing indifference toward religion is at the base of all evils, social and political.

He defended the grafter--told why the grafter is here, and plainly said that the man who would cheat in the small deals of life was the foundation upon which the greater graft was based. He declared that back of all this materialism, this worship of the golden calf, was the indifference toward the teachings of Christ, and said that history shows that every nation in the past that turned from God to gold has gone down to ignominious defeat.

Talks About Honesty.

In the ordinary walks of life, he averred that to have friends, a man must be a friend. He pointed out that men will fall upon the neck of one who praised him but walk on his neck if he criticizes or shows up petty foibles and weaknesses. In this regard, he told how the writing and singing in an amateur minstrel show of fourteen verses of biting sarcasm turned his career from a writer of poetry to that of a reformer. The sarcasm was barbed with wit and found its mark; so, in his lecture, he illuminated his points with brilliant shafts of wit and clever turns of phrase, and the audience laughed at the jokes and writhed at the bite.

He showed the inconsistency of the man who sits by the stove in the corner grocery and wails and howls about the grafters in the state and nation and then goes home and mixes the product of the cow with the product of the pump, and still thinks he is honest. He declared men should cease to cast critical eyes on the horizon for the sins of others but should turn the eye inwardly, for the reformation of the state and nation begins with the individual.

Too Many Churches.

And as it was thus in commercial and political life, so it is in domestic and religious life, he averred. It was his opinion that lack of self-respect was the cause of the moral turpitude of grafter and grafted. Men were in-

MRS. MOHR TELLS HER DOMESTICS TROUBLES

She Denies Emphatically All Statements Made by Alleged Accomplices

Providence, R. I., Jan. 27.—Quietly, clearly, though often in tears, Mrs. C. Franklin Mohr in her own defense today denied the state charge that she hired two negroes, co-defendants with her on a murder charge, to slay her doctor husband. She denied, too, that she had intimate business relations with them, or that she financed the alleged plot to kill the doctor.

Relating the events of the fateful night when her husband was shot, Mrs. Mohr continued:

"On the night of August 31, when the doctor was shot, I was home all evening, and retired at 10:20. Later I heard a rapping at the door and went downstairs to answer. I saw a policeman and heard him say that he wanted to see me.

"He said to me, 'I'm sorry to bring you bad news, but your husband has been shot and is in the Rhode Island hospital!'

"Of course, it was a great shock to me, and I am afraid that I collapsed. But as soon as I could dress I ran to the hospital. They wouldn't let me see him because he was unconscious, but I stayed there some time and then went home. At 10 o'clock the next morning the hospital telephoned that he was dead. I was about frantic for a time."

As she told her story, the courtroom listened tensely. In the audience were many fashionably gowned women, who knew both the doctor and his wife. Once or twice, the widow faltered as she talked, but she finished her testimony in an even tone.

WILL BUILD AIRSHIP TO FLY AROUND WORLD

To Be 200 Feet Tip to Tip--Will Have Eight 125 Horsepower Engines

Los Angeles, Cal., Jan. 27.—To fly around the world in a huge aeroplane is the intention of Porter H. Adams, Boston engineer, and Donald W. Douglas, of New York, designer of the Connecticut Air Craft company, of Bridgeport, both of whom are here today making arrangements.

Plans for their big machine have been drawn and the work of assembling it will start soon either here or at San Francisco, according to Adams. He says $100,000 is available for construction. The plans will have 5,000 square feet of wing surface, and will measure 200 feet from "tip to tip." Its motive power will be eight 125 horse power engines. It is to carry a crew of seven.

Adams says he intends to start the voyage from San Pedro, after practice flights up the coast as far as Vancouver. The trip, according to the engineers will take 14 days.

Gluck's air from "Iphigenia on Tauride" was grouped with another founder of French musical art, Monsigny, and contrasted its chaste and eloquent recitative with the more Gallic manner and vivacity of Monsigny's "Air de Dessestour." De Gogorza began and ended with the French school, two centuries apart, in fact, but brought into spiritual relations by the comprehension and the voice of the artist.

De Gogorza sings again next Sunday afternoon at the Columbia. I am happy to say.
