ALINE THOMPSON IN LEADING ROLE
Clever Salem Girl Promises to Add to Laurels Won by Dramatic Work

Miss Aline Thompson's cleverness as an actress will be remembered by hundreds of Salem people who saw her as Bonita in "Arizona," last winter, and her friends will be glad to know that she is now to play the part of Betty Graham, the lead, in "The Fortune Hunter," which the Social Service Center of the Salem Commercial club will produce here for the benefit of charity on February 3 and 4.

Miss Thompson herself, of course, needs no introduction to the Salem public. As a matter of fact her principal occupation at the present time is that of introducing others to the Salem public through the society columns of the Capital Journal. You will be interested, however, in knowing what kind of a part she is to play in "The Fortune Hunter." If you have seen the play, of course you already know. If you have not seen it you won't recognize her, until several minutes after she has made her first appearance as Betty Graham.

Betty is the daughter of old Sam Graham, the village druggist, (Rev. B. F. Fischer). She is 18 years old, and is a regular little spit-fire. She enters upon her opening scene with her face dirty, wearing an old and faded calico dress, and carrying a pail of hot water and a scrub brush. The first thing she does is to call down the two village gossips (E. Cooke Platten and Wilson Howard). She then proceeds to scrub the drug store—and the drug store, by the way, certainly needs it. During the vehement dressing down at the hands of Betty, How Winebell Smith, the author, ever managed to write all the things that Betty says, and still steer entirely clear of profanity, is a miracle.

Finally "The Fortune Hunter" (James Mott) appears, and Betty, who in the meantime has worked herself up into a hysterical rage, jumps on him with both feet. The scene which follows is one of the finest ever written into a comedy. Betty is not only tamed down, but straightway falls in love with the good natured young sennepet who has come to the village with the idea of marrying the banker's daughter (Miss Hazel Erickson). Miss Thompson's work in this scene goes far beyond what anyone would expect in an amateur player. In fact it is right up to professional level, and her winsome little speech at the end of the act is a little speech in its effect that it will keep the curtain puller busy for several minutes.

This is the end of Miss Thompson in rags. In the next act she comes back from boarding school, and, wonder of wonders, she has become the most beautiful and sweetest little girl in the village. Even her father don't know her at first, and as for Tracy Tanner, the Everyman's son (Carl Grieberson)—all he can do is to stare at her and say, "Gosh, how 's it do 'er!"

Well, a whole lot happens after that. You see, the play is only half over, and the remaining two acts are full of surprises. See "The Fortune Hunter" by all means. The best seat in the house will only cost you six bits, and there are lots of good ones for 25 and 50 cents.

WHAT CAUSES COLDS?
 This question is asked every day. A cold is really a fever, not always caused by the weather but often due to disordered blood or lack of important food-elements. In changing seasons fat-foods are essential because they distribute heat by enriching the blood and so render the system better able to withstand the varying elements. This is the important reason why Scott's Emulsion should always be taken for colds, and it does more—builds strength to prevent sickness. Scott's Emulsion contains Nature's rare strength-building fats, so skillfully blended that the blood profits from every drop. It is free from harmful drugs or alcohol. $6,000,000 Worth of Salmon Taken Last Year By Oregon Fishermen

In the report presented to the Fish and Game commission by Master Fish Warden H. L. Kelly, it is brought out that more salmon were taken from Oregon waters in 1915 than ever before, the value of the catch probably exceeding six million dollars. Mr. Kelly also called attention to the development of deep sea fisheries adjacent to the Oregon coast, and the desirability in this connection of making surveys for the better utilization of this industry by Oregon fishermen.

It was also stated in the report that the present bounty of $1 on seals, sea lions and pups is of little value in accomplishing their destruction and in view of the fact that it is estimated will destroy probably 25 per cent of the total run of fish. It is recommended that an investigation be made with the view of having the bounty raised or some special appropriation to help exterminate the pests.

The bounty is so small, and they are so hard to get, even when killed, owing to the fact they sink if shot while in the water, that it does not pay one to make a business of hunting them.

Club Wants Suggestions About Oregon Products

A complete list is under preparation at the Commercial club, articles that are obtainable in this valley, which might be used as raw material for manufacture.

The object is to suggest to local as well as outside capital opportunities that are to be found in this country and especially this part of the state. As T. B. Kay said about a year ago in an address at the Commercial club, what this state needs is more manufacturing plants, and in the suggestion of the various articles that can be manufactured from Oregon products, it is hoped that parties with the capital and experience may be induced to see the matter in the right light.

The Commercial club invites suggestions, not only regarding what might be manufactured from raw materials produced in the state, but also ideas that may be of benefit to the city and club.

Suggestions have been offered to the club that a factory would find plenty of sheep skins for the manufacture of book binding, and an abundance of leather for the manufacture of shoes. Just at present the hides go to the far east, and are returned to us manufactured in footwear, and the people as the ultimate consumers, pay a profit, going and coming.

The utilization of the various woods of Oregon may eventually save the state money, as almost all the furniture is shipped here from the eastern manufacturers.

Clay products will eventually be manufactured in Oregon, and plants to utilize the paint clays found in the valley. Limestone may come in time to handle the flux which will eventually be one of Oregon's leading products.

Suggestions have been made to the club that our fruits and vegetables should be manufactured into jellies, jams, products for the soda fountain, etc.

STAYTON NEWS

Ed Blakely is suffering from an attack of appendicitis, but at present it is thought an operation will not be necessary.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Richards were in town yesterday. Jack is still traveling with crutches.

Mrs. A. D. Gardner, who has been seriously ill for several days, is reported considerably improved.

Uriah Whitney has been quite sick the past week with the prevailing malady, but is reported improving.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Foster and Mrs. Kate Preston, who is living with them, are all down with the grip. The entire household being sick, outside help was made necessary.

Mrs. W. W. Eder and Miss Grace have both been on the sick list, but are improving.

Miss Frances Kirch, of Howell, had charge of Miss Crabtree's room in the Stayton schools during her recent illness.

E. C. Titus will this season have the agency for Ford and Dodge cars in northeastern Linn county and Chevrolet and Studebaker for southeastern Marion county.

Frank Rohwein, of Jordan Valley, was a caller Saturday. He was in to see Dr. Korinek regarding his condition. He has about 100 head and some of them are sick.

After a visit with his parents and his sister, Mrs. A. Neithing, August Weirich left yesterday for his home in Canada. He will also visit with his sisters in Portland.

P. C. Fries was down from Pen Ridge Thursday. He said a person could get some good pictures of an Oregon winter at his place, the snow having drifted above the fences.

Joe Korinek was a Salem visitor Tuesday. He was accompanied home by his brother, Dr. C. J. Korinek. They report that they see very little change in their father, who is in the Salem hospital.

A young man named Brotherton had a hip dislocated last Wednesday by being thrown from a horse, at Lyons. Dr. Beauchamp was called and attended the injury. The injured man was taken to his home in Salem and is reported doing nicely.

The social meeting of the Rebekah lodge was held last night and the lodge was presented with a fine new altar, which was made by Grant Murphy and presented by him to the lodge. The Rebekahs are very much pleased with Mr. Murphy's gift. Other features of the evening were "500" and an excellent lunch. The Rebekahs are a growing order and for a great part of the social affairs of our city.—Standard.

High School Exhibits Overlooked by Judges

Through a misunderstanding of the Panama-Pacific exposition officials, the exhibits sent by the high school of the annual training departments of the Oregon schools was not judged or awarded prizes.

The exhibits sent from the Salem schools have been returned, arriving in the city this week. They will become the property of the boys who made the different articles.

The furniture was used by the officials in the Oregon building in their offices and were also shown in the high school exhibits. The boys in the high school are refurbishing them, before taking them to their homes. The exhibits, 14 in number, are as follows:

Chiffonier, Roy Barker; study table, William Johnson; Morris chair, Douglas Walker; desk table, John Bayne; chair, Ed Robinson; chair, Mark Skiff; chair, Don Bradford; chair, Adolph Greenbaum; side table, Frank Prince; side table, Ed Rowland.

The annual training boys contemplate the forming of an industrial club, to study manufacturing methods and raw materials. This club will also include members from the Commercial department.

In order to be really practical and accustom themselves to business methods while working, the boys of the annual training class have installed a tool room, from which all the tools and materials used in the shop are checked. Their plan is in accordance with the best business methods followed in the larger shops.

Walker Whiteside Tonight at Grand Theatre In Great Production

Booked for an engagement of only one night in this city, Walker Whiteside and his splendid company will be seen at the Grand theatre tonight in "The Typhoon," a play that has set new records for attendance wherever it has been disclosed, and which has been declared the most remarkable success the American stage has known for 20 years. This is the play that has for its theme the insidious invasions of the Japanese, not merely in this country but throughout the world. It is a drama of entralling interest, every character of which is practically new to the stage. Mr. Whiteside appears as Tokeram, a young Japanese diplomat, engaged upon a secret mission in Berlin, who becomes involved in an affair with a Berlin beauty who endorses his destruction but at the sacrifice of her own life at his hands. A complete and beautiful production is enticed by Mr. Whiteside whose leading woman this season is Miss Lillian Cavanaugh.

FRUITLAND NEWS

(Capital Journal Special Service.)
 Fruitland, Or., Jan. 28.—The grain crop in the neighborhood is promising and though this present snow is in some respects unpleasant, yet in the words of Walt Mason "it is good for the wheat."

I do not believe the cold weather has as yet hurt the fruit trees nor the berry bushes, as little or no damage is done at a temperature above zero. At least the mercury has not gone lower than 10 or 12 above.

Some of the neighbors have been joy riding on improvised motor boats.

A. B. Clark is again our road supervisor.

Mrs. B. J. Egger is visiting friends this week in Salem. P. J. is thus left to the various household duties—making beds, sweeping out and cooking. Possibly he may even wash the dishes once or twice. It takes a man to drop the dish cloth, set the tea table on the floor and step on the cat while playing cook and house maid, as I have done all this and more.

Word received from relatives in Washington, state the snow is three feet deep on the level with very cold weather and the postoffice twelve miles away.

In yesterday's Capital Journal a contributor pets after the preachers for ignoring the "awful fact" that men and women are dying and going into "eternal agony—everlasting fire." It is to be hoped that the said preachers will be admonished and at least try to escape themselves.

And this reminds that a Salem pastor states through the press that he could have his "way" he would install billiards and dancing in the church! Well these useful aids along the way to heaven are among us already as social and moral uplifts and why should the church bother. Yet it might be asked if Jesus endured the horrors of foetusness and the agony on Calvary the punching of billiard balls and flinging of heads might be uplifting factors in his religion.

Turner Public School Organizes Industrial Club

Turner, Or., Jan. 28.—The meeting was called to order in the assembly room of the Turner high school, at 1:00 p. m. by Professor Wilson. The business brought before the meeting was to organize an industrial club for the benefit of the pupils, and surrounding community.

The motion was made and seconded that an industrial club be organized. The election of officers were as follows: Mrs. Wallace Riches, president; Mr. Earl Bear, vice-president, and Miss Hazel Edwards, secretary. These officers were elected by a unanimous vote of the entire student body. The choosing of an adviser was not decided but will be at next meeting of the student body.

HE PREACHED THE GRIP

Hackensack, N. J., Jan. 27.—Himself chilled and feverish, his wife ill with tonsillitis, his kids with whooping cough, his furnace out and 300 parishioners down with the grip, Pastor Von Schiller preached on the text, "As grippie grips all Hackensack, so God grips the world."

They are planning at Washington to make large incomes pay the money cost of preparedness. Small incomes will do the fighting, should it come, so the arrangement seems to be fairly equitable.

Course of True Love As Usual Runs Crooked

Portland, Or., Jan. 28.—After a series of adventures that served to dampen her enthusiasm, Margaret Link, aged 29, is not sure today whether she wants to marry Vere Cabell, aged 22.

Wednesday the couple tried to elope. Margaret's brother didn't approve of the match. He stopped the lovers, beat the youth, and took his sister before the authorities where he swore that she was insane. She spent the night in jail.

Last night county physicians pronounced her mentally sound and said the whole affair was nothing but a family row. Margaret threw herself into her lover's arms. While her family vainly sought to prevent it, the pair started off a second time to be married. Then they learned for the first time that their religions don't match. Reluctantly they separated over this question. It is still unsettled.
