Grangers Conference Will Be Held Feb. 14, To Aid Hog Industry

How greater prosperity may be realized by Willamette valley farmers through improving the hog production on small farms, as well as large ones, is the topic of a granger's conference called at North Portland, for Monday, February 14th. A general excursion of livestock raisers of the valley counties will be run to Portland for the occasion.

An urgent invitation is extended to members of granges and farmers generally to attend this meeting. The visitors will be the guests of the Portland Union Stockyards at a luncheon to be served at 7 o'clock that day.

Actual demonstrations of sow stock is handled and graded, weighed and accounted for when received at the yards, discussions of the problems of cooperative community shipping and marketing questions followed by addresses by experts on livestock matters will make up a day of instructive entertainment. There will be a trip of inspection through the meat packing plant.

It is planned to have all visitors at the yards before eleven o'clock as Monday is big market day. An opportunity will be provided those unfamiliar with the processes of community shipping to study comparisons of the stock offered for market at 6 a. m. The visitors will understand the why and the how of what governs prices. With the average price of live pork in the entire United States higher than it has been and the tendency upward the future looks favorable for the swine producer.

The Oregon Electric Railway Co. is co-operating in arranging the program and looking after the welfare of visitors. Several granges and other farmers' organizations are expected to, or have, appointed delegates to attend the conference and report back their observations and information gained. A round trip rate of one and one-third fare has been placed in effect from all stations on the Oregon Electric and United Railways providing fifty attend.

Granges of Linn and Lane counties have taken hold of the proposition and may have a sufficient number of farmers and their wives or members of their families to fill a special train. The tickets are on sale from 10th to the 14th, with return limit to the 16th.

Mrs. Mohr's Murder Trial Nears Its Close Providence, R. I., Feb. 3.—The defense in the trial of Mrs. C. Franklin Mohr, accused jointly with two negroes, of murdering her doctor husband, rested today.

In closing, rebuttal testimony was offered by the state to bolster its claims that Mrs. Mohr had told a housemaid to "go ahead and shoot the doctor" after the girl had accused him of attacking her.

In making final arguments to the jury, the cases of the two negroes were first considered.

"The hand of fate guided the concealed assassin and thus ended the illicit relations of the doctor and his companion," said Attorney Lewis.

"The wages of sin is death."

Fortune In Diamonds Stolen at Los Angeles

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 3.—Confusing reports today increased the mystery surrounding an alleged theft of diamonds worth $50,000 from Mrs. Clara Baldwin Stocker, one of "Lucky Baldwin's heirs.

Private detectives and representatives of the local police force are known to have gone to St. Paul to question a man and a woman under surveillance there, and to hunt for some of the jewels said to have been disposed of in that city.

Meanwhile a Los Angeles jeweler is holding 51 loose diamonds, which were left with him to be placed in rings. He is holding them on orders from the police. Other stones are reported to have been sold in San Francisco.

The necklace contained 160 diamonds. It disappeared from Mrs. Stocker's possession when she was in San Francisco just before New Year's, according to the police. Although Mrs. Stocker has made no statement, her representatives have said she did lose the necklace, but subsequently recovered it. Favin McNab, her attorney, is in San Francisco.

Strange Circumstances. San Francisco, Feb. 3.—Out of the strange string of circumstances surrounding disappearance of jewels belonging to Mrs. Clara Baldwin Stocker, heir to "Lucky Baldwin's millions, only a few facts were absolutely established today.

Her attorney confessed she had lost jewels here at the holiday season, when she created a stir by appearing with several hundred thousand dollars worth at a social function. Estimates of the value of the missing gems ranged from $25,000 to $70,000. Reports varied as to whether the alleged thieves had been captured. One story was that they are being watched in St. Paul, and that they were friends of the woman. Another story went that a man and woman had been captured there and were being brought west.

Girl Who Shot Father Allowed to Go Home

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 3.—Zita Moore, aged 17, who shot her father to protect her mother from his beatings, was back at her old task of washing dishes and taking care of her little brothers and sisters today.

After having been held at police headquarters four days, she was released without any complaint being sworn out. Some time was held out today for the man, James Moore. Although at first pronounced mortally wounded, he rallied and county hospital surgeons say he may live.

GASOLINE MANIPULATED Washington, Feb. 3.—"Manipulation" caused a rise in the price of gasoline from 13 cents to 21 cents between January 1915 and January 1916. Secretary of the Interior Lane reported to the senate today.

Lane pointed to the 50 per cent dividend of the Standard Oil company of California and the 100 per cent dividend of the Imperial company, limited, of Canada as probably having an effect on the situation. At the same time, he declared that the larger manufacturers met increased profits with increased stock issues, which would make the actual dividends have a lower percentage basis.

STANDARDIZE OLIVES Berkeley, Cal., Feb. 3.—No longer will the housewife buy olives under a variety of trade names such as "Mammoth," "Extra Large" and "Large" only to find them all the same size.

Professor Frederic T. Bioletti, of the University of California college of agriculture, is urging a standard of size. It all happened when the professor went out to buy some olives and found it took 68 of one kind, 74 of another and 106 of another kind to make a pound. All were labeled "extra large" or "mammoth."
