STOPPED THEIR CHATTER

Portland, Ore., Feb. 15.—Elite society in Portland hadn't fully recovered today from the shock given them yesterday by Waldemar Lind, violinist.

Lind played yesterday at a fashionable tea. While he played the ladies chattered, according to custom The talking distracted the violinist His playing began to sound wobbly. The chatter continued. Suddenly Lind stopped playing, tucked the violin under his arm and walked out in high dudgeon.

A sudden hush fell on the 100 or more ladies. They haven't quite recovered today.

GASOLINE GOES UP

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 14.—Gasoline jumped another cent here today, the bulletin boards in front of oil stations registering the glad news "18 cents." Less than a week ago it leaped from 16 to 17.

HUNTERS CAN'T SHOOT DUCKS

(By United Press.)

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 15.—The spring duck shooting season opened in Illinois today but the waterfowl are passing over the Sucker fields, rivers and lakes unmolested because the federal law prohibits the killing of ducks except in the fall.

Illinois hunters are awaiting anxiously and somewhat impatiently for the decision of the supreme court of the United States in the Kansas case which tests the validity of the law eliminating the spring shooting season. In Kansas the order was held constitutional and the government appealed to the supreme court, where it has been pending since 1914.

TO MAKE YOUR HAIR LOOK NATURALLY CURLY

If milady of the straight, lank hair will adopt the simple silmerine method, she will have as pretty wavy tresses as she could wish to own. The curliness will look so natural, and the hair so beautifully soft and glossy. Quite different from the obviously artificial curls and the parched, dead appearance of the hair produced by the heated iron.

Liquid silmerine can of course be obtained at any drug store and a few ounces will keep the hair in curl for many weeks. Being perfectly harmless and neither sticky nor greasy, no one need have the least hesitancy in using it. It is best applied with a clean tooth brush, drawing this through the hair from crown to tip just before retiring. The effect next morning will be all that any one could desire.

New York Republicans Choose Delegates Today

(By United Press.)

New York, Feb. 15.—The keynote of republican national principles in the presidential campaign this year was expected to be sounded in the state platform to be adopted by New York republicans in state convention at Carnegie hall here today. The so-called Big Four delegates to the national republican convention in Chicago are to be named today and ratified at the April 4 primaries. Elihu Root opened the convention as temporary chairman. Senator Wadsworth and Governor Whitman have been mentioned as possible delegates at large. Root and William Berri, of Brooklyn, and David Jayne Hill, of Rochester, have also been mentioned as possible delegates. William Barnes, of Albany, has declined to be a delegate. The delegation is expected to go to Chicago uninstructed. The convention today is expected to commend Governor Whitman's state administration. Whitman has abandoned his presidential aspirations for this year, he has announced.

A DRUNKEN MURDERER

Macon, Ga., Feb. 15.—Stupefied by drink, J. W. Branam is in the local jail today and ignorant of the fact that last night he fired several shots from his automobile, one of which killed Rosa Eubanks. Branam's family said he is unbalanced.

Salem Camera Artists Display Their Work at Salem Public Library

By Molly Runcorn.

The third exhibit to be made by the Oregon Photo Art association was placed Sunday, in the children's library and will be open to the public during the coming fortnight.

While the exhibit is the smallest yet shown, it is withal the best. Those who have work on display are Mrs. Anna Rogers Fish, Mrs. R. Monroe Gilbert, C. E. Barbour, Horace Sykes, Evans Houston, Herman Barr and Robert Paulus.

The work of Mrs. Fish and Mrs. Gilbert, possessing as it does a certain feminine quality, is all the more interesting, and forms at the same time a delightful balance for the exhibit as a whole.

Both of Mrs. Fish's pictures are barines, and remind one immediately of the canvasses of Winslow Homer. They have the same breadth, the same depth and the same atmospheres of the sea, that the work of America's great marine painter possesses.

Mrs. Gilbert's pictures are eastern views, one a marine, the other a snow scene. The latter a miniature gem is developed in the tones of ivory and brown, that one connects with the beauty of the late twilight, when the snow is on the ground. There is a row of shadowy elm trees, with ghostly, slender trunks and branches, with a larger trunk reaching across the picture forming a clever composition.

With the exception of Mr. Sykes, each member has exhibited two pictures. He has but one, a mountain panorama. He has mastery of detail and design. A studious love of nature combined with the beauties of our own mountains, perhaps explains his exquisite sense of design, and an ability to express himself sincerely.

The studies of the east portal of the state house and the front of the supreme court building, by Mr. Barbour, are the work of a genius. It is doubtful if an artist, with a camera, anywhere could surpass him in the artistic treatment of architectural subjects. Both are snow scenes, taken at night with the dazzling electric lights throwing into exquisite relief the Grecian columns and facade of the buildings. In the handling of the supreme court building one gets a glimpse of the state house and snow-covered trees in the background, which while subordinate in character are doubly interesting, forming as they do a perfect composition.

Grace of line, and a subtle atmospherical charm are predominant features of Mr. Houston's pictures. In one a pastoral landscape with a strong Corot tendency one feels all the quiet beauty of late September. The other a sparkling mountain stream with two figures in the foreground embodiys all the alluring freedom, of the great out-of-doors. In the latter he has portrayed splendid heights, and distances, and has also been imaginative enough to absorb a story, without being in the least sentimental.

Mr. Paulus has a river scene and a larger landscape, that have a refinement of line and arrangement that is delightful. The happy combination of producing spirit as well as substance is the gift of few, but looking at Mr. Paulus' pictures one wonders if he has not this endowment

A view of the Grand Canyon and another of the Yosemite valley are Mr. Barr's offerings. Both are typical of his own style—soft, poetic and artistic in the fullest sense of the word. His pictures hang as testimonials of the possibilities that the photographic art offers to one who is able to see beauty in the simpler things of nature.

Even a casual interest in art warrants a trip to see the display—and not only one trip, but several. An art exhibit revisited after the space of a week confirms sober judgment, shatters first impressions, indeceives and reveals new beauties—and the unfolding of new beauties is the pleasantest sensations imaginable.

Mrs. Matilda Eaton, 92 years old, who walked 14 blocks at Baker to register, ought to make some of the younger generation ashamed of themselves.

How the First Draft of Derby Volunteers Answered the Call

By Wilbur S. Forrest.

(United Press Staff Correspondent.)

London, Feb. 1.—(By mail.)—The first drafts of England's Derby army mobilized today. Youths of years ranging from nineteen to twenty-two who weeks ago answered Lord Derby's group system of enlistment, gathered throughout England to get into khaki. They came from workshops, bank desks, department stores and other walks of life. They are now being distributed in scores of training camps learning to form fours, salute their officers properly and wield the shovel and rifle.

There were remarkable scenes in London today. Recruits had been instructed to come in shifts at two hours intervals. They flocked to the great Central recruiting depot in Whiteshall. The first recruit was a little early. He came from a big banking establishement where he had just bade fellow clerks farewell. He had been instructed to appear in his oldest clothes in order that they could be thrown away when he donned his suit of khaki.

The boy followed instructions. His coat and trousers might have been worn by a Weary Willie. His shoes were run down at the heel. Yesterday he wore a morning coat and shiny silk hat to the bank. He had borrowed today's togs. A brief medical examination followed his arrival in Whitehall. Ten minutes later he left for a railroad station to join a regiment to which he had been assigned.

Six months from now the boy will be a full fledged soldier ready to go to the front. He will be bigger and broader and healthier. It's a ten to one chance that he'll never go back to the bank after the war. It's a one to ten chance that he'll go to Canada, or Australia, where he can keep his lungs full of fresh air.

Hundreds of youths followed the bank clerk. Some were medically unfit and were immediately excused. The majority however, quickly shed their rags for the olive green uniforms which they'll wear until the dawn of peace.

Hundreds of thousands of the Derby army men will be equipped at regular intervals from today on. They are more than enough to fill Kitchener's gaps, Lord Derby has announced.

TO PEEL OFF BLOTCHY, ROUGH OR CHAPPED SKIN

To remove roughness, chaps, freckles, blotches, or any complexion difficulty, the best thing to do is to remove the skin itself. This is easily, painlessly and inexpensively done by the application of ordinary mercolized wax, procurable at any drug store in the original one-ounce package. The wax absorbs the defective outer skin, a little each day, gradually bringing the second layer of skin to the surface. The pores are unclogged and the face breathes in the life-giving oxygen. The new skin is beautifully soft and spotless, bearing the healthy glow of youth. Just apply the wax as you would cold cream, only not rubbing it in. In the morning wash it off with warm water. It's the most effective complexion treatment known.

To remove wrinkles it is a good plan to bathe the face once a day for awhile in a harmless solution made by dissolving an ounce of powdered saxolite in a half pint of witch hazel. There is nothing that will so surely erase the hateful lines.
