Plans Have Arrived for New Battleship

Marine Island, Mar. 9.—New plans for battleship No. 41, to be built here, arrived today and showed many changes. Naval officers said they were not at liberty to divulge details of the changes in construction. It is known that the vessel will have two smokestacks instead of one.

The changes are the result of reports from naval experts who have inspected European warcraft. The ship's hull is to be made torpedo proof.

Finishing touches are being placed on the new federal building at Madford and it will be ready for occupancy between March 15 and April 1, at least a month ahead of contract time.

RAISING RAILROAD RATES

Washington, Mar. 9.—Proposed increases of freight rates in western classification territory west of the Mississippi river were justified today in a decision by the interstate commerce commission. The increase will affect grain products and coal.

CARRY STOMACH JOY IN YOUR VEST POCKET

Daniel J. Fry Has Such Faith In This Dyspepsia Remedy That He Guarantees It.

One of the greatest successes in the sale of medicine has been achieved by Mi-o-na, the standard dyspepsia remedy, and its sale is increasing so rapidly that Daniel J. Fry, the popular druggist, has had work to keep a stock on hand. It is very popular with bankers, ministers, lawyers and others whose business or profession keeps them closely confined, while those who have brought on indigestion through irregular eating, worry, or other causes, have found relief in this reliable remedy.

Mi-o-na comes in tablet form and is sold in a metal box especially designed for convenience in carrying the medicine in the pocket or purse. It is pleasant to take, gives quick relief and should help any case, no matter of how long a standing. This remedy has been so uniformly successful that Daniel J. Fry will in future sell Mi-o-na under a positive guarantee to refund the money if it should not prove entirely satisfactory. No other dyspepsia medicine ever had a large enough percentage of cures so that it could be sold in this manner. A guarantee like this speaks volumes for the merit of the remedy.

There is no time like the present to do a thing that ought to be done. If any one has dyspepsia, today is the best time to begin curing it.

COLORED DOES NOT WANT PRESIDENTIAL NOMINATION

New York, Mar. 9.—Colonel Roosevelt says the "Joes" with the presidential nomination and "won't consent" to the use of his name as a primary, according to cablegram today from Port of Spain, Trinidad, British West Indies, where Roosevelt has arrived on a vacation trip.

The statement was made by Roosevelt to Henry Stoddard, correspondent of the New York mail. It makes clear, however, that despite his wishes Roosevelt recognizes his services are subject to draft in case of a crisis.

Rural Credits Convention Is Ready should take any part in any development plan at this time.

Committees Named.

A. L. Mills, of Portland, was elected president of the Irrigation, Drainage and Rural Credits conference which convened at the state house this morning and Fred N. Wallace, of Tumalo, was chosen secretary.

The election of Mr. Wallace was unanimous but there were two candidates in the field for president and Mr. Mills was opposed by J. D. Brown, of Arlington, but the final ballot showed 35 to 31 in favor of Mills.

The temporary president, J. W. Brown, was authorized by the conference to appoint the committee on credentials and the committee on permanent organization and order of business. On the former committee were named J. D. Brown, E. E. Brodie, A. B. Cradley, R. D. Hetzel and C. E. Spence, and the latter committee is composed of W. Lair Thompson, T. H. Burgess, C. L. Hawley, C. G. Chapman and B. C. Leedy.

F. G. Deekelach, in behalf of the Salem Commercial club, extended the courtesy of the club to all of the visitors and delegates and expressed the hope that all would sample Salem's hospitality.

While the permanent organization of the club was in the hands of the committee, L. E. Bean, of Eugene, was called upon to deliver a short address upon "Drainage." Mr. Bean outlined the present drainage law which is in force in this state but was opposed to state aid for drainage and irrigation projects. Mr. Bean favored the plan of self help that is followed in Germany where whole communities are taken as a drainage district or a unit and bond themselves to promote drainage systems, the state only guaranteeing the genuineness of the bonds which are issued with the land under the project as security.

Governor Withycombe then delivered his address of welcome to the delegates as the first speaker on the regular program.

The governor's address in part follows:

Governor's Address.

Public discussion of public problems is always eminently desirable. Oregon is peculiarly fortunate in the ability and willingness of its citizenship to assemble in representative gatherings to consider matters of state-wide interest. Much of the past development of New England hinged upon the man-to-man discussion of the old time town meetings, and it has always seemed to me that this town meeting principle, this community gathering, is a proper fundamental basis for all kinds of community development and betterment.

In a measure our conference here is a great big state-wide town meeting. We have come together to discuss certain problems which confront us today and to consider plans for the best upbuilding of our state.

You gentlemen who are contributing your time and thought in this gratifying public service deserve the gratitude of Oregon's people. For myself, I am deeply pleased to note the high type of citizenship represented here, and I feel that the various interests and localities especially concerned with the problems to be considered are remarkably well and ably represented, and that the entire commonwealth is fortunate indeed when its biggest and its busiest men will take time to lay aside their own burdens and put their shoulders to the public wheel.

I confess that I have no definite and pre-conceived plan to place before you. I am here, too, as a delegate of the taxpayers and laborers, and land owners of Oregon, to listen to your deliberations and to learn what I may.

I am aware that Oregon's credit today is unimpaired and that there is therefore a specially great opportunity to realize upon it. On the other hand under no pretext must we abuse that credit, nor do ought which would jeopardize the state's economic interests.

Oregon today has a very serviceable form of rural credits in the existing administration of our school fund loans. The state holds something over $6,000,000 of gilt edge mortgages which are absolutely safe and sound. The administration of school fund loans has been wise and highly satisfactory. The losses have been next to nothing. The profit to the treasury has been ample and the advantage to Oregon farmers, so far as the funds have been available, is praiseworthy in the extreme.

In connection with these school fund loans, might it not be desirable to utilize the mortgages already outstanding as a basis of credit for securing further loans? If, for instance, new loans of the face value of these present

An Old, Family Cough Remedy, Home-Made

Essally Prepared—Cures Very Little, but is Prompt, Sure and Effective

By making this pint of old-time cough syrup at home you not only save about $2, as compared with the ready-made kind, but you will also have a much more prompt and positive remedy in every way. It overcomes the usual coughs, throat and chest colds in 24 hours—relieves even whooping cough quickly—and is excellent, too, for bronchitis, bronchial asthma, hoarseness and spasmodic croup.

Get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a small bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in half an hour. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the inflamed membranes. It also has a remarkable effect in overcoming the persistent lough cough by stopping the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes.

The effect of Pinex on the membranes is shown by almost every one. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway spruce extract combined with guaiaicol and other natural healing pine elements.

There are many worthless imitations of this famous mixture. To avoid this appointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and do not accept anything else.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

loans could be secured, utilizing the mortgages themselves as collateral, with a state guarantee, it would mean that another $6,000,000 would become available for rural credits. This of course would not meet all the needs of Oregon agriculture for money at low interest, but it would at least be a considerable step in the right direction and would be a material enlargement of the state's activity in this direction, and have a tendency to lower interest upon farm loans.

In this connection I am still hopeful that the school fund the existing administration. And of course the school fund loan business could be increased vastly with volume with comparatively slight addition to its administrative cost.

I estimate there are about $47,000,000 worth of farm loans in this state, and to my mind perhaps the most serious detriment to the upbuilding of Oregon has been the necessity of paying high interest rates. My most sincere ambition is to assist in the economic advancement of the state, which means more and better farms and more and higher paying jobs for our people. I am sure that a conservative, workable, and thoroughly safe system of rural credits, even on a larger scale than contained in the suggestions above outlined, will receive my support.

I may say frankly that I confess to some doubt as to the feasibility of direct state aid to irrigation and drainage projects. I personally would be opposed to placing a financial obligation upon posterity through a large bond issue and in fact would rather have the state refrain from bond issuance at all if possible. However, I fully realize the importance of better irrigation development, and I fully appreciate the excellent agricultural and economic opportunities of eastern and central Oregon.

I would like to see drainage and irrigation districts formed where the land is improved, water rights are perfected, and the basis of credit—which is to say the acreage involved—can bear the most careful examination. If only the most valuable and best improved projects should be involved, the proposal to have the state guarantee the bonds of these districts would, I think, be meritorious. The most strict safeguards, however, should be thrown about any legislation to prevent the possibility of this bond guarantee being overdone. In other words, in my opinion it should be undertaken only on a very limited scale and should involve only the very best and safest of all the projects that might be considered.

I believe that the people of Oregon realize the vital necessity of a bigger and broader state development. And I think we are coming to understand that in a great measure we must look to ourselves for assistance. We must stand upon our own resources, and Oregonians should be proud of the heritage of natural wealth and almost limitless possibilities with which our state has been blessed, and of which it is for us to make the most.

UNITED STATES WANTS TO HELP CATCH VILLA

Will Ask Permission To Send Troops to Mexico to Capture Bandit

Washington, Mar. 9.—Secretary Lansing will telegraph General Carranza asking permission for American troops to cross the border and hunt Villista bandits who raided Columbus, N. M., it was learned at the state department this afternoon.

The message probably is to be sent tonight. With it will go representations with regard to the raid.

State department officials pointed out the Columbus attack was worse than the Santa Ysabel massacre, because Columbus is a peaceful American town.

Announcement of the raid caused great surprise to official circles.

The state department advises with regard to American troops crossing the border into Mexico are probably based on unofficial accounts. Colonel Shoups' failure to report an invasion of Mexico led the state department officials to believe the story untrue.

Administration circles believe Carranza's prompt authorization of an American invasion would enable American soldiers to round up the Columbus raiders. By doing so it is believed that intervention agitation now practically certain of breaking afresh, would be checked before it could gain any headway.

STATE NEWS

Silver Lake Leader: E. N. Sundquist, of Viewpoint, was in town this week making final proof on his homestead. It developed while here that he was formerly a sash and door manufacturer. He became wearied of the wear and tear of business life with the close margins to the manufacturers, and tried out a few years of homesteading and freedom. In Lake county, it develops that there are homesteaders who are expert mechanics, artists, school teachers, bankers, and naturalized remittance men, all out to free themselves from cares and worries and to commune with the great Nature and live in God's blessed open.

Rogue River Courier: Two bricks of gold, weighing 290 ounces and valued at $5,510, were brought to market Friday by Jas. T. Logan as the harvest of Waido for the month of February. The mine was not operated until the first of February this year because of the necessity of making extensive repairs and improvements.

Tillamook Ore: Tillamook county sustained its reputation again last year as being the great cheese-producing county of Oregon, for 4,500,000 pounds of Tillamook cheese was manufactured, which sold for $630,503.23. To produce that amount of cheese it took 4,751,241 pounds of milk. This is a gain of six per cent in the amount of milk produced over the preceding year, but a decrease in the amount of money received for cheese of five per cent, the previous year's product selling for $654,374.36.

tion with the rest of the world. Geo. Moulton, who is just rounding out his first half century in Coos county, says that when he was a small boy his father sold goods to a surveying crew who were laying out a railroad line to Roseburg—and those goods have not been paid for yet.

The great problem next to be solved at Enterprise, the Record Clinician says, is that of a new school plant. "The town must prepare its mind to lay out probably $40,000 in the next year or so on permanent school buildings and grounds," is the opinion of the Record Clinician.

The East Oregonian rejoices that though Pendleton has had many would-be harvester factories, "It now looks like we are to have a real one."

A movement has been opened at Klamath Falls looking toward the planting of shade trees throughout the city, particularly along the street parkings.
