

Grand Prize, Panama-Pacific Exposition, San Francisco, 1915
Grand Prize, Panama-California Exposition, San Diego, 1915

DRINK BAKER'S COCOA

For its Delicious Flavor, its Excellent Quality and its High Food Value.

GUARD AGAINST IMITATIONS: the genuine package has the trade-mark of the chocolate girl on the wrapper and is made only by

WALTER BAKER & CO. LTD.
DORCHESTER, MASS.

Established 1780

SOCIETY

ALINE THOMPSON

TOMORROW will be Primrose day and an array of society matrons and maids will sell bouquets for the benefit of the Pisgah Home, one of the most admirable philanthropies that Salem has been asked to help.

Our governor was the first to buy one of these jolly flowers which will be worn by hundreds of citizens tomorrow, whose generous hearts are always in sympathy with the needy.

As a courtesy to the newspapers, Mrs. Hattie B. Lawrence, or Mother Pisgah, will present them with a handsome bouquet of artificial red rose buds and natural ferns.

The Pisgah Home Colony, with headquarters at Leas, Oregon, is a most worthy and needy institution where men and boys who are physically and morally down and out are cared for and built up into useful citizens. The institution covers a statewide work, and is supported mainly by individual contributions. It is inter-denominational, is endorsed by the Portland Chamber of Commerce, Portland Ministerial Association, A. L. Mills, George E. Chamberlain, Judge John H. Stevenson, of the municipal court, and many others.

Miss Margaret Kay and Miss Caroline Dick with a levy of young girls, will have charge of the sale at the state capital. Mrs. Harry Clay and a coterie of friends will be in charge at the commercial club. Mrs. Melvin Plimpton, with a group of young matrons, will take charge of the booths at the U. S. National Bank and the Ladd & Bush bank. Mrs. Charles E. Miller and friends will have charge of the booth at the Marion hotel.

The Gray-Belle confectionery store has donated a five-pound box of candy for the matron selling the most bouquets and the spa likewise for the successful maid. Charles E. Miller, manager of the Marion hotel, has donated the use of the reception room for the day.

Those in charge are: Mrs. Chauncey Bishop, chairman; Frances E. Goshall, assistant chairman; Mrs. Hattie B. Lawrence, Pisgah Mother; assisted by Misses Thomas B. Kay, Henry Meyer, Benjamin W. Olett, Harley O. White, John Minto, O. M. Elliott, John McNary, T. P. Porter, S. S. East, W. F.

Busmer, W. P. Fowle, Miss Fowler. Others assisting are Misses. Asahel Bush, Melvin Plimpton, William Burkhart, Harry Clay, George Palmer Putnam, George W. Gray, Connell Dyer, George Rodgers, Frederick, Thielson, Charles McNary.

Mrs. Chauncey Bishop will be assisted by Misses. Ernest Hult, Curtis B. Cross, Zedec Riggs, Clyde E. Graham, Elmer Ladden, Misses Gertrude and Margaret Gray, Miss Dorothy Dick, Miss Margaret Goshall, Lottie Rogers, Leta Patterson, Frances Schottboer, Leta Driscoll, Lucy Leonard, Lucile Jones, Helen West, Mary Eckerlin, Helen Deekelmech, Gertrude East, Helen Rose, Kathryn Slade.

Miss Ida Simmons and Miss Ellen Thielson will be assisted by Caroline Dick, Marjorie Kay, Esther Oregon, Catherine Carson, Nancy Skiffe, Edna Jesse, Marcella Byrnes, Edith Byrnes, Elizabeth Lord, Hazel Downing, Margery Marvin, Jessie Holcomb, Marie Holcomb, Florence Hofer, Ila Spaulding, Olga Gray, Jane Fry, Marie Hofer, Lucille Belle, Gene Belle, Gertrude East, Bernice Craig, Irene Curtis, Tara Mortenson, Dorcas Churchill, Alice Baker.

Others who will lend their efforts are Misses. Richard Cartwright, John J. Lewis, Anna Rogers Fish, William Gilway, F. O. Carleton, G. R. Bonnell, Roy Burton, A. H. Kasmarek, Miss Edith Hazard, Miss Mattie Beatty, Misses. E. F. Fargo, E. E. Fisher, F. L. Purvine, Joan Dubois, Miss Margaret Cooper, Miss Begonia Long, Miss Harriett Hagan, Miss Fleming, Miss Hopkins, Miss Jones, Miss Lavonne Copple, Miss Florence Purdu and Miss Pauline Remington.

The W. C. T. U. will be represented by Mrs. S. E. Oliver and Mrs. S. O. Thompson.

Miss Sweeza will be assisted by her camp fire girls.

Miss Velma Myers, of Drain, Oregon, is the guest of her aunt, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Byrnes.

Mrs. F. E. Gearhart entertained the members of the Round Dozen club at a pleasurable afternoon Wednesday. A short business session was followed by a social work and a guessing contest in which Mrs. G. W. Gill was awarded the first prize and Mrs. George Shopper the consolation.

The hostess was assisted in serving dainty refreshments by Mrs. L. W. Potter and Mrs. T. L. Davidson.

Mrs. F. L. Purvine entertained the matrons of the North Salem Woman's club, Wednesday afternoon. A large number of club guests were present and the afternoon was made unusually delightful by a program.

Mrs. Dora Clark's "Care and Culture of Roses" and "How to Register" by Mrs. Rollin K. Page were especially interesting contributions.

Others favoring the guests were: Miss Lucile Rose, who played "Valse Britanna" by Chopin followed by Grieg's "Norwegian Bridal Procession" as an encore. Miss Helen Hogue sang "Violets" by Mildenberg and as an encore gave "A Tiny Tragedy" by Clayton Tammis.

During the business session the following new members were enrolled: Mrs. L. King, Mrs. Guy O. Smith, Mrs. H. W. Elgin, Mrs. L. C. Beers, Mrs. J. B. Shunk, Mrs. E. D. Lamb, Mrs. G. H. Clark and Mrs. Carrie Chapel.

The next meeting will take place at the home of Mrs. J. F. Humphreys, 1135 Shipping street.

Miss Violet Oglesley was the motif of a merry gathering of friends recently when the members of the ninth grade of the Grant junior high school congregated for a surprise party.

The evening's festivities were rounded out by games and dancing, followed by refreshments.

Those enjoying the gayeties were: Violet Oglesley, Vera Wright, Gertrude Tucker, Rose Wildman, Glide Gardner, Esther Miller, Alice Putnam, Beatrice Burton, Gertrude Wilant, Audra Peets, Annie Loftus, Arthur Oldenburg, Edwin Tooley, Joseph Feil, Archie McCulloch, Elwood Tower, Nicholas Orloff, Paul Liplart, Harold Secor, Lawrence Thrapp, Eugene Wheeler, Dobin Arnold, Wilbur Moorman and Carl Minton.

An enjoyable and successful musical entertainment was given at the West Salem school house last Friday evening by twenty of the pupils assisted by local talent.

Mrs. James and Moore assisted in making the costumes worn by the participants.

The rooms were tastefully decorated with vines, evergreen and ferns. The program was as follows:

Piano Duet, Misses Beth and Ruth Bedford.

Vocal Solo, Miss Inez Pitts.

Piano Solo, Miss Edith Tiddle.

Vocal Solo, Miss Bennett.

Operetta "Boy Blues" pupils in costume.

Characters: Boy Blue, Delbert Moore; Mollie, Joanna James; Hay Children, Frank Jarvis, Alice Wood, Archie Swartz, Della Douglas, Willie Beaden; Fire Flies, Claudine Gerta, Juana Wood, Ethel Tammis, Della Douglas; Echo Elves, Mable Ruge, Doretha Douglas, Dorothy Miller; Musical Frogs, Frank Jarvis, Teddie Ward, Ben Beoken, Albert Lamb; Katy-She-Did, Lou Bell; Katy-She-Did's, Esther Sneed; Piano accompanist, Miss Bedford.

Mr. and Mrs. George Palmer Putnam have as their guests, Mr. and Mrs. W. Sawyer, of Bend, Oregon.

Try Capital Journal want Ads.

March Winds....

Make the skin hard and rough. A few of our face treatments will leave it soft and smooth as velvet.

We can cure that nervous headache with an Electric Massage. A well groomed man or woman is shown by the attention given the hands. Try our manicures. Ladies 25 cents, gentlemen 35 cents.

Shampooing, Massage, all Beauty Culture work.

Moles and warts removed without pain, and leaving no scar. Specialist in diseases of the Skin and scalp.

Open Saturday Evenings.

IMPERIAL BEAUTY PARLORS

301 Bank of Commerce Building, Phone 393 Salem, Ore.

PERSONALS

W. L. Skipton went to Harrisburg this morning.

Mrs. F. S. Gannett went to Portland this morning.

State Commander Shewell, of the Macabees, is in the city.

George L. Rose and Frank Brown are registered at Hot Lake, Ore.

Otto Cole, of Crabtree, was attending to business in Salem yesterday.

Mrs. W. Carlton Smith went to Portland this morning to attend grand opera.

Frank J. Miller was in Portland yesterday, registered at the Portland hotel.

Mrs. James Wilson was a passenger this morning for Portland on the Oregon Electric.

Arthur McKee and wife left for Clifton, Ore., where they have been employed on a farm.

John McNary went to Portland this morning to attend to legal matters. He will be absent several days.

O. M. Elliott, superintendent of city schools, went to Seattle this morning to visit the schools and also friends in the city. He will return Monday.

A. M. Macy, of Eugene, brother of City Attorney Macy, stopped off in the city yesterday for a short visit while on his way to Portland.

Harvey Wells went to Portland this morning to attend the annual reunion of the United Spanish War veterans. He is one of the reception committee.

Shackleton Gets Home From Antarctic Trip

Sydney, N. W. W., March 24.—Although Lieutenant Sir Ernest Shackleton has safely returned from his trans-Antarctic expedition, detailed news of his achievements was withheld today.

Shackleton started on his trip shortly after the war began. He intended to sail right through the Antarctic zone on a marlin, thus winning for the British flag the honor of traveling for the first time from sea to sea through the unknown south polar regions.

The expedition was largely financed by private gifts totaling $200,000. The British government appropriated $50,000. Shackleton sailed on a small vessel built of wood, with sides two feet thick to withstand the terrific ice pressure he expected to experience.

THE SOCIALLY ELECT TO SEE GREAT BATTLE

List of Reservations Reads Like a Page From Society Blue Book

New York, Mar. 24.—It begins to look as if the famous "diamond horse shoe" of the old Metropolitan opera house would be thrown into a cold and chilly shade by the array of socially elect who will view the Jess Willard-Frazer 10-round fight through opera glasses at Madison Square Garden tomorrow night.

It leaked out today that the list of ringside reservations might look like a page from the book. Several hundred women will mingle their delicate perfumes with the aroma of ammonia and other well known ringside smells.

Among those who will be on hand to see the heavyweights pummel one another are Geraldine Farrar, the prima donna; Mary Pickford, the motion picture actress; David Belasco's daughter, and many of their friends.

Lindley M. Garrison, former secretary of war, will be there. Also John McCormack, the tenor; Jim Corbett, Robert Fitzsimmons, et al.

Betting continues light. It is evident that when society begins leveling its battery of loggnettes Willard will be a two to one favorite at the ringside. The betters appear to think there is but slight chance of the ladies calling their smiling salts into play when one or the other of the fighters goes crashing to the canvas battered and bloody, for almost no wagering is being done on the basis of a knockout.

Moving picture rights have been sold for $10,000.

In the semi-wrap, Battling Levinsky will box either Savage or Jim Flynn.

BRIDGE AND WIRE DOWN

Laredo, Texas, Mar. 24.—Fire today destroyed the Mexican National railroad bridge at Palo Blanco, interrupting service between Laredo and Monterey. The telegraph line has been cut.

ARRANGE TO BEAUTIFY THE CAMPING GROUNDS

Committee Perfects Plans But Needs $300 to Carry Them Out

The camping grounds at the state fair grounds will be placed in a condition suitable for a permanent camp during four months of the year, if the plans of a committee which met last evening materialize.

This committee, composed of A. H. Lea, secretary of the state fair board, Mrs. Edith Toller Werbered, representing the state fair, Miss Pauline Looney, secretary of the Campers' association, and Judge Galloway, Dr. H. J. Clements and George M. Post, representing the commercial club, met last evening and discussed ways and means of making the camping grounds sanitary and attractive enough to secure campers during the summer months as well as during the state fair.

Dr. Clements was instructed to correspond with Roseburg, Ashland, Medford and Eugene as to their methods of handling camping grounds.

The state fair board is considering plans to bring the city water to the grounds and of also taking up the drainage proposition, placing the grounds in a satisfactory sanitary condition.

It was also suggested that a caretaker be appointed, and the name of F. A. Sutton was suggested as he was familiar with the work required.

As to the expenses, it was the general sense of the committee that the state fair board should pay for the city water during the state fair, but that outside parties would be called upon to stand the expense of water for the other three months and for the caretaker.

To carry out these plans, it will be necessary to raise about $300 and about the only way, as far as the committee could see, was to get it by public subscriptions. The committee felt there was enough merchants and public spirited citizens to make the raising of this $300 assured within the next month.

Mrs. Werbered suggested that as soon as the committee was sure that the money would be raised and that the grounds would be made a suitable place for auto parties as well as those coming to the state fair, she would place advertisements in papers throughout the state calling attention to the camping facilities in Salem and later bring it to the attention of tourists through the various guide and hotel books.

As the matter now stands, it will be necessary to raise the $300 and Judge William Galloway, as president of the combined committees, would be pleased to receive suggestions as to the easiest and quickest way of getting it.

Senators Clash Today Over Mexican Affairs

Washington, Mar. 24.—Senator Lewis is introduced a resolution today denouncing all Mexican aid to Francisco Villa as treason. He asked that these helping Villa be pronounced traitors.

Senator Stone said: "Every man with sense enough to come in out of the wet knows that the situation in Mexico is critical—that an effort is being made by sinister influences, in and outside of Mexico, to excite and inflame the Mexicans, to tell them that the United States contemplates aggression against the whole government and people of Mexico. The president sought to impress the Mexicans with his friendliness, and the senate endorsed needed," asserted Sherman.

Turning to the republican side, Stone said: "If you wish to encourage the administration to have war with Mexico then have the courage to say so like men, openly, boldly, and not surreptitiously."

"Will the senators make the pre-arranged critical condition worse?"

Stone and Borah clashed when Borah and Sheppard of Texas caused telegrams to be read from Douglas citizens, asking help and expressing fear of massacre and invasion.

A debate followed the telegrams and on Senator Lewis' resolution denouncing those who aided Villa as traitors.

Referring to the telegrams, Stone said: "Better comment than that has been presented to the war department. I am unable to understand why any senators desire at this crucial point to present such matters, and thereby give them official dignity."

"I have no apologies to make," snapped Borah.

Stone replied that Borah might have acted with "greater propriety." He added: "When a man becomes obsessed with the idea that he is running for president he ought not to be influenced by one delusion while exploiting another. The senator may do as he pleases, and offer anything he wishes, but just what public good may be accomplished surprises my intelligence and understanding."

Replying to Stone's criticism of his resolution empowering the president to call 50,000 volunteers, Senator Sherman asked what Stone's opinion of the situation was.

"I get my information from the president and from others upon whom we must rely," responded Stone. "If volunteers are needed President Wilson and his advisers will not hesitate to so inform congress."

"My offer was to tender friendly help to the administration should it be

---SHIPLEY'S---

Week-End Specials

Women's and Misses' white cloth coats made of Jersey back clipped chinchilla, full range of sizes. Special at $4.95

Women's Novelty Neckwear Stock Collars, Sailor Collars, Vestees and round lace collars. Special 25c

Infants' and Children's slips and dresses, ages 6 months to 3 years, materials are Batiste, sheer cambric and nainsook. Lot 1, 49c. Lot 2, 98c.

AGENTS PICTORIAL PATTERNS.

U. G. SHIPLEY CO.

his stand.

"But there are influences at work, and we know it, working to create a situation the end of which we could not know."

"Will the senators make the pre-arranged critical condition worse?"

Stone and Borah clashed when Borah and Sheppard of Texas caused telegrams to be read from Douglas citizens, asking help and expressing fear of massacre and invasion.

A debate followed the telegrams and on Senator Lewis' resolution denouncing those who aided Villa as traitors.

Referring to the telegrams, Stone said: "Better comment than that has been presented to the war department. I am unable to understand why any senators desire at this crucial point to present such matters, and thereby give them official dignity."

"I have no apologies to make," snapped Borah.

Stone replied that Borah might have acted with "greater propriety." He added: "When a man becomes obsessed with the idea that he is running for president he ought not to be influenced by one delusion while exploiting another. The senator may do as he pleases, and offer anything he wishes, but just what public good may be accomplished surprises my intelligence and understanding."

Replying to Stone's criticism of his resolution empowering the president to call 50,000 volunteers, Senator Sherman asked what Stone's opinion of the situation was.

"I get my information from the president and from others upon whom we must rely," responded Stone. "If volunteers are needed President Wilson and his advisers will not hesitate to so inform congress."

"My offer was to tender friendly help to the administration should it be needed," asserted Sherman.

Turning to the republican side, Stone said: "If you wish to encourage the administration to have war with Mexico then have the courage to say so like men, openly, boldly, and not surreptitiously."

"Will the senators make the pre-arranged critical condition worse?"

Stone and Borah clashed when Borah and Sheppard of Texas caused telegrams to be read from Douglas citizens, asking help and expressing fear of massacre and invasion.

A debate followed the telegrams and on Senator Lewis' resolution denouncing those who aided Villa as traitors.

Referring to the telegrams, Stone said: "Better comment than that has been presented to the war department. I am unable to understand why any senators desire at this crucial point to present such matters, and thereby give them official dignity."

"I have no apologies to make," snapped Borah.

Stone replied that Borah might have acted with "greater propriety." He added: "When a man becomes obsessed with the idea that he is running for president he ought not to be influenced by one delusion while exploiting another. The senator may do as he pleases, and offer anything he wishes, but just what public good may be accomplished surprises my intelligence and understanding."

Replying to Stone's criticism of his resolution empowering the president to call 50,000 volunteers, Senator Sherman asked what Stone's opinion of the situation was.

"I get my information from the president and from others upon whom we must rely," responded Stone. "If volunteers are needed President Wilson and his advisers will not hesitate to so inform congress."

"My offer was to tender friendly help to the administration should it be needed," asserted Sherman.

Turning to the republican side, Stone said: "If you wish to encourage the administration to have war with Mexico then have the courage to say so like men, openly, boldly, and not surreptitiously."

"Will the senators make the pre-arranged critical condition worse?"

Stone and Borah clashed when Borah and Sheppard of Texas caused telegrams to be read from Douglas citizens, asking help and expressing fear of massacre and invasion.

A debate followed the telegrams and on Senator Lewis' resolution denouncing those who aided Villa as traitors.

Referring to the telegrams, Stone said: "Better comment than that has been presented to the war department. I am unable to understand why any senators desire at this crucial point to present such matters, and thereby give them official dignity."

"I have no apologies to make," snapped Borah.

Stone replied that Borah might have acted with "greater propriety." He added: "When a man becomes obsessed with the idea that he is running for president he ought not to be influenced by one delusion while exploiting another. The senator may do as he pleases, and offer anything he wishes, but just what public good may be accomplished surprises my intelligence and understanding."

Replying to Stone's criticism of his resolution empowering the president to call 50,000 volunteers, Senator Sherman asked what Stone's opinion of the situation was.

"I get my information from the president and from others upon whom we must rely," responded Stone. "If volunteers are needed President Wilson and his advisers will not hesitate to so inform congress."

"My offer was to tender friendly help to the administration should it be needed," asserted Sherman.

Turning to the republican side, Stone said: "If you wish to encourage the administration to have war with Mexico then have the courage to say so like men, openly, boldly, and not surreptitiously."

"Will the senators make the pre-arranged critical condition worse?"

Stone and Borah clashed when Borah and Sheppard of Texas caused telegrams to be read from Douglas citizens, asking help and expressing fear of massacre and invasion.

A debate followed the telegrams and on Senator Lewis' resolution denouncing those who aided Villa as traitors.

Referring to the telegrams, Stone said: "Better comment than that has been presented to the war department. I am unable to understand why any senators desire at this crucial point to present such matters, and thereby give them official dignity."

"I have no apologies to make," snapped Borah.

Stone replied that Borah might have acted with "greater propriety." He added: "When a man becomes obsessed with the idea that he is running for president he ought not to be influenced by one delusion while exploiting another. The senator may do as he pleases, and offer anything he wishes, but just what public good may be accomplished surprises my intelligence and understanding."

Replying to Stone's criticism of his resolution empowering the president to call 50,000 volunteers, Senator Sherman asked what Stone's opinion of the situation was.

"I get my information from the president and from others upon whom we must rely," responded Stone. "If volunteers are needed President Wilson and his advisers will not hesitate to so inform congress."

"My offer was to tender friendly help to the administration should it be needed," asserted Sherman.

Turning to the republican side, Stone said: "If you wish to encourage the administration to have war with Mexico then have the courage to say so like men, openly, boldly, and not surreptitiously."

"Will the senators make the pre-arranged critical condition worse?"

Stone and Borah clashed when Borah and Sheppard of Texas caused telegrams to be read from Douglas citizens, asking help and expressing fear of massacre and invasion.

A debate followed the telegrams and on Senator Lewis' resolution denouncing those who aided Villa as traitors.

Referring to the telegrams, Stone said: "Better comment than that has been presented to the war department. I am unable to understand why any senators desire at this crucial point to present such matters, and thereby give them official dignity."

"I have no apologies to make," snapped Borah.

Stone replied that Borah might have acted with "greater propriety." He added: "When a man becomes obsessed with the idea that he is running for president he ought not to be influenced by one delusion while exploiting another. The senator may do as he pleases, and offer anything he wishes, but just what public good may be accomplished surprises my intelligence and understanding."

Replying to Stone's criticism of his resolution empowering the president to call 50,000 volunteers, Senator Sherman asked what Stone's opinion of the situation was.

"I get my information from the president and from others upon whom we must rely," responded Stone. "If volunteers are needed President Wilson and his advisers will not hesitate to so inform congress."

"My offer was to tender friendly help to the administration should it be needed," asserted Sherman.

Turning to the republican side, Stone said: "If you wish to encourage the administration to have war with Mexico then have the courage to say so like men, openly, boldly, and not surreptitiously."

"Will the senators make the pre-arranged critical condition worse?"

Stone and Borah clashed when Borah and Sheppard of Texas caused telegrams to be read from Douglas citizens, asking help and expressing fear of massacre and invasion.

A debate followed the telegrams and on Senator Lewis' resolution denouncing those who aided Villa as traitors.

Referring to the telegrams, Stone said: "Better comment than that has been presented to the war department. I am unable to understand why any senators desire at this crucial point to present such matters, and thereby give them official dignity."

"I have no apologies to make," snapped Borah.

Stone replied that Borah might have acted with "greater propriety." He added: "When a man becomes obsessed with the idea that he is running for president he ought not to be influenced by one delusion while exploiting another. The senator may do as he pleases, and offer anything he wishes, but just what public good may be accomplished surprises my intelligence and understanding."

Replying to Stone's criticism of his resolution empowering the president to call 50,