ered by Dr. Nichols Murray Butler, of Columbia university.

Do not throw away your magazines or weekly publications. There are hundreds of folks in the rural districts who would be glad to get them, especially those who cannot afford to buy magazines; yet would be glad to read them. Miss Cordelia Marvin, state librarian, will send them to districts where the people are anxious to read.

Company M will engage in a tactical walk next Sunday, weather permitting. During this walk, problems of patrolling, out posts, out guards, advance guards, rear guards and flank guards will be worked out by different units of the company. An efficient signal squad of the company will also be used. Military sketching and map making will be taken up by those who have studied in this line and are familiar with the work. In fact, all these subjects have been given steady during the winter months and from now on, will be put into actual practice.

At the meeting of the Floral Society last evening it was decided to arrange for a clean-up day in April, when the society hopes to interest not only the people in the city but the business men as well. The cleaning up of parkings and vacant lots was also discussed and Ivan G. Martin was appointed with others to bring this before city officials. The membership of the society is growing as shown by the additional names secured at each meeting. Twenty new members last night were Mrs. William P. Lord, Miss Elizabeth Lord, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Elliott, Mrs. W. F. Ferguson, Mrs. Emma J. Pherrington, Mrs. Lloyd Wilson and J. B. Chenoweth.

When the public schools open for the semester next fall, Margaret J. Cooper will begin her 32nd consecutive year as teacher in the Salem public schools, as she was re-elected for another year as superintendent of the primary grades. She may now be termed the dean of the teaching corps, as according to statistics prepared last fall, no teacher in the city schools has as many years of their credit. Erlina E. Bushnell was credited with 19 years continuous serv-

COURT HOUSE NEWS

The grand jury finished its regular business today and this afternoon made a tour of inspection of a number of the state institutions, including the feeble minded institute, the tuberculosis hospital, the asylum, the reform school and the girls' industrial school. The grand jury was advised by the county physician to be vaccinated before they visited the penitentiary and they scratched the pen off of their calling list as they did not desire to carry sore arms for a few weeks. Judge Perry R. Kelly arrived this afternoon and will convene court to receive the report of the grand jury this evening after the return of the juryman from their tour of inspection.

A suit was filed in the circuit court today by Christine Paull against Mary Paull, an executrix of the estate of Josef Paull, deceased. The plaintiff states that she was the wife of the deceased and that she is entitled to an undivided one-half interest in personal property valued at $10,000 and that unless the administratrix of the estate is restrained she will administer upon the estate and divide it according to the terms of the will. She claims that half of the personal property was hers but that it was held in her husband's name for convenience. Smith & Shiel and White & Boyington are attorney for the plaintiff.

A marriage license was issued at the office of the county clerk today to Hugo Hasland, a Silvertown shoemaker, and Marie G. Hamre, also of Silvertown.

W. H. Walker today filed a suit in the circuit court against Mary J. McNeel, M. Pauline McNeel and Maggie W. McNeel, doing business as the firm of McNeel Sisters. The plaintiff claims that there is due and owing to him $537.18 on a stock of military goods and seeks judgment in this amount together with the costs and disbursements of the action.
