Seattle, Wash., April 7.—Odds today favor the Stanford crew to win over the University of Washington variety eight this afternoon when the two institutions meet on Lake Washington. The winner of the race will be awarded the championship of the Pacific coast.

"Just before the battle" interest is at a high pitch in anticipation of the grandest regatta of the Pacific coast. From all indications it will be the finest exhibition of rowing that has ever been staged on the old Lake Washington.

The two crews declared this morning their crews were in splendid trim for the event.

As far as the coaches are concerned, it will be a case of a veteran against a novice.

Experienced men will hold down the positions on both squads and the weights are about even.

It is understood that the Stanford boys are cracks at getting away to a fast start. They will be expected to take the lead at the start.

Washington will jump into the start with a stroke of about 36 to the minute. The second minute the stroke will be lowered to 31.

This is the local's usual stroke. Stanford rows slower, about 28 to the minute.

The southerners won the toss and will row on the inside.

The course is from Leschi park to Madison park, a distance of three miles. A clear view of the race is to be obtained the entire length from the shore.

A number of star buoys have been used in marking the course.

This is the tenth meeting of the crews. Out of the nine previous encounters the locals have been returned the victor six times. Stanford won in 1909, 1912 and 1915.

Thorpe Babcock will act as referee and starter. He is a former Yale oarsman. The weather today was a bit cool although the sun promises to appear at any moment.

Women To Play Golf

San Francisco, April 7.—The golfing class among the women of California will be well represented when the invitational golf tournament for women of the Sequoyah country club begins April 12. Mrs. A. R. Pommer, Miss Edith Cheabrough and Mrs. Max Rothchild are the favorites.

Used Willard's Mitt

Kenosha, Wis., April 7.—The mitt that has met the mit of Jess Willard proved the undoing of Lee Nelson here last night.

Jack Hemple, the heavyweight champion's sparring partner knocked out Nelson in the seventh round of their scheduled ten round bout with a terrific right smasher to the jaw.

Big Match Tonight

Portland, Or., April 7.—Frank Vance and Eddie O'Connell, rival wrestling instructors of Seattle and Portland, will grapple to a finish before the Rose City Athletic club tonight. Their match has been called a "grudge match" and either meaning—business or hoping to swell the box office receipts, the promoters have ordered special policemen to prevent too much "rough stuff."

Mike Butler was agreed upon last night as referee.

All Ready for Big Auto Race Tomorrow

Corona, Cal., April 7.—The stage is set here today for the start of the 300 mile Grand Prize auto race tomorrow. With 101.7 miles per hour credited to Bob Burman in practice as the fastest lap, every arrangement is completed for the $1,500 race.

Hughes in his 12 cylinder English Sunbeam has also hurried around the circular course at more than a hundred miles an hour.

Five favorites are conceded an even chance of winning first place. They are Earl Cooper, Stutz; Eddie Puleo, Mover; Barney Oldfield, Dodge; Bob Burman, Peugeot; and Hughie Hughes, Sunbeam.

Preparations have been made to receive 100,000 race fans at Corona.

Not since the famous Santa Monica course races, has there been such interest as is being manifested in the Corona Grand Prize. It is estimated 20,000 motorists will park inside the track at Corona.

Boys Start Long Hike With Only a Will and a Yellow Dog

With nothing but determination and a yellow dog and six three bars of Emmett and Raymond Dieker, of Monroe, Benton county, were picked up yesterday afternoon by Officer Varney on the first leg of their long hike to Utker, Oregon, where their mother resides. Elmer says he is 14 years of age but looks younger and Raymond is 16. They arrived in Salem two days ago and have been camping in the brush across the river in West Salem. The Salem police were notified yesterday to be in the lookout for the boys and an investigation showed the smoke from the fire where they were camping in-truck hobo style.

When they were brought to the city hall they 154 Chief Welsh that they were mist-taken by their father who was a partner from their mother and they decided to leave and go to their mother who has since married and is now Mrs. Ida A. Jones, residing at 17-1/2 Church street in Baker.

The boys exhibited no concern when they were told that they would be locked up except the younger who asked the chief if he might take the dog along.

"I couldn't do without my dog, chief, damn could," said the young wanderer and under the circumstances the chief allowed the dog to accompany his master to the jail. The boys asked for their deck of cards and proceeded to play a game of seven-up on the jail floor. Their father sent tickets for their return to Monroe today.

Anything To Beat Roosevelt for Them

Washington, April 7.—Clinkhorne talk at the capitol indicated today the republican presidential nomination fight is between Theodore Roosevelt and Justice Hughes. Senators Warren, Curtis, Nelson and Gallinger are openly for Hughes.

"A dozen men who have at heart no use for Hughes," said Senator Poinsett, "told me they were for him. They see the trend of sentiment toward Roosevelt, and will do anything to beat it."

Those intimate with Bois Coursoe said he was likely to declare himself for Roosevelt very soon.

No One But Roosevelt.
New York, April 7.—Political significance was seen today in the conference between Theodore Roosevelt, Victor Murdock and George W. Perkins. Murdock was reported to have told the colonel that progressives would consider no other presidential candidate.

Price of Rags Drop Into the Basement

San Francisco, April 7.—That old shirt which you discarded last week and other castoff garments are figuring largely in the financial world today.

The bottom has fallen out of the rag market and junk dealers who were talking about buying diamonds last week are looking for ready money to pay the rent. When the war broke out rags boomed. Wood pulp paper became scarce and rags were needed in the paper mills. Copper and iron junk was in great demand for munitions works, so the man who used to chant, "Any rags, any bones, any bottles today" became affluent.

Now the rag boom has burst. Mills, knowing that spring would cause a big influx of discarded flannels and other rags, ceased buying and waited for the prices to fall. They did.

The junk men had to sell for anything they could get because there are no warehouses available for the indefinite storage of rags.

Wiest and wife left for Seaside last night upon receipt of the news. The funeral will be held in Portland.

High School Notes

The seniors are in bad luck once again for the juniors have defeated them in still another feature of the inter-class rivalry contest.

At the contest held Thursday afternoon the juniors, by a three to nothing decision, taking the negative of the question, "Resolved, That the president be elected for a single six year term," won out over the seniors.

The line-up was as follows: Seniors—Carleton Savage, Oral Lemmon, and Mary Findley. Juniors—Paul Pierce, Harold Aspinwall and Glen Ackerman. The judges were: Rev. R. N. Avison and Professors J. O. Hall and R. E. Staffer, of Willamette.

The sophomores have challenged the juniors as winners to a debate to decide the school championship.
