the Pattons on Court street. Jennett first made her home with the Pattons February 6, 1916, and they were pleased with her winning ways and sunny disposition that when the opportunity came for legally adopting both of the children, the Pattons decided that it would be good for all if the two could grow up together. According to Mrs. Patton, if one could bring so much joy, two would just double it.

C. Willis, the editor of a paper in Minneapolis, has written to Secretary A. H. Lea, of the state fair board, asking for the dates of the Minnesota state fair. Dr. Hector MacPherson, of the Oregon Agricultural college, will deliver an address next Friday evening at the auditorium of the public library, talking for his subject, "Bural Credits." He is known as an authority on not only rural credits but on the general propositions that are now troubling as well as interesting the farmers. In fact, his specialty is, what shall we do for the farmers.

If there is anything that will bring one back to earth with a sudden jolt, it is at the movies when the hero discovers his hoard of gold has been stolen and the audience is wrought up to a high pitch of interest, to have thrown on the screen, without a second's interruption, "End of Act II." "Coal and Wood For Sale," followed by "Coffee, Three Pounds for $1." It surely is an awful come down.

To whom it may concern. This is to notify you that on and after May 1, 1916 the members of all local, affiliated with the Salem Building Trades Council of Salem, Oregon, and vicinity, will discontinue to work with non-union men of any organized craft. Jonathan Bourne, of the passenger department of the Southern Pacific, is home from a joy ride and business trip that lasted exactly five weeks. Adopting a policy of showing his employees what the rest of the world is doing, the passenger men on tours of inspection. The trip of Mr. Bourne included San Francisco, Los Angeles, New Orleans, Washington, New York and Boston, and the passenger men with Mr. Bourne were kept on the jump inspecting so many places there was very little time for pleasure.

The times surely do change. Girls play baseball now as well as the boys, and they have regular leagues. The girls' playground baseball teams of the three junior high schools are now fully organized and the game is on. A few days ago the teams of the junior high and Washington junior high engaged in a fierce contest, the final inning showing a score of 7 to 2 in favor of Washington. The three teams have organized a regular league and will have the major and the minor series. The dividing line comes on the height proposition, those over five feet in height playing in one league and those under five feet in another.

The girls of the Washington junior high, as well as the boys, will make good shavers workers later in life, as they are now getting practical experience in holding candy sales and sandwich sales, and other sales, to raise money for what is needed. To secure funds for the purchase of playground apparatus, a candy and sandwich sale was held at the Washington junior high yesterday, and the net sum of $18.00 was realized. The materials for making sandwiches were purchased and not donated, out of the usual church method.
