SOCIETY wears its Lenten sack cloth with becoming dignity these days, creating a sense of detachment from the usual pastimes. The old fashioned manner of spending Lent in retirement has gone absolutely, for even though there has not been any large social affairs, matrons have not suffered greatly from ennui, as there have been many this year who have been disposing of their time very differently and the freedom from entertaining enables them to carry on a vast amount of charitable work.

Looking ahead for a few days the most brilliant function scheduled in the calendar and one that will re-open the social gates is the last subscription dance, which will be an event of Easter Monday night at the Moose hall. Tonight society will flock to the Grand theatre to attend "A Mid-Summer Night's Dream." The drama class of the Salem Women's club is presenting the pageant which will indeed be a rare treat, and a worthy memorial to the English author for whose honor the entertainment is being given.

Visitors in the city have been showered with numerous attentions during the week, many bridge parties and small informal affairs being given in their honor. Among the most attractive was the bridge for which Mrs. John Minto was hostess in honor of her house guest, Mrs. Otto Metehan.

Charming and artistic in every detail was the dinner for which Mr. and Mrs. Curtis B. Cross were hosts Wednesday evening. The rooms were aglow with shaded pink candles and also the dinner table which had a center of lovely pink sweet peas and lacy ferns. Covers were placed for Mr. and Mrs. George Gray, Mr. and Mrs. Mack Hofer, Dr. and Mrs. Harry Clay, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Spears, Mr. and Mrs. Connell Dyer, Mr. and Mrs. David Egre, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ludden, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Graham, and the hosts. The evening was devoted to bridge and the honors were won by Mrs. Mack Hofer, and Harry Clay.

Mr. and Mrs. George Palmer Putnam returned Thursday from a brief visit to Portland, the former going down with Governor Withycombe to attend the opening of the baseball season.

While in Portland the Putnams were the house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph N. Teal, who entertained them Wednesday evening with an informal dinner and party at the Hotel Theatre to see "Robin Hood."

One of the smartest and most delightful affairs of the week was the bridge for which Mrs. John Minto was hostess Thursday afternoon to honor her house guest Mrs. Otto Metehan of Portland. The card honors fell to Mrs. Fred Stewart and Mrs. L. F. Griffith. The drawing room where the card table was arranged was charming with spring blossoms, while yellow toned daffodils and huge airy tulle bows adorned the artistically appointed tea table. Dainty Easter favors marked the places. About a dozen prominent matrons were asked to greet the visitor including Mrs. John D. Sutherland, Mrs. Thomas B. Kay, Mrs. Fred Stewart, Mrs. Ben Olcott, Mrs. R. E. Lee Steiner, Mrs. George Gray, Mrs. L. F. Griffith, Mrs. Harry Olinger, Mrs. Milton Meyers, Mrs. George Brown, and Mrs. Sherwood.

Mrs. Henry Meyers writes to friends from California and recounts of the wonderful time she and Mr. Meyers are having. They are devoting much of their time to motoring, having recently driven from Del Monte to Pasa Robles where they will remain until the arrival of the Frank Jordans of Seattle, who are en route. Next week the Meyers and Jordans will motor to Los Angeles, Pasadena, San Diego, and other places of interest.

Mrs. Margaret Rodgers who is home for the Easter vacation is entertaining as her house guests over the week end a group of charming belles and several beaux of the younger set of Portland who are Miss Fannie Chamberlin, Miss Cora Tevis, Miss Dorothy Kerns, Miss Helen Jones, Dan Marley, Jr., Bob Stewart, Wayne Stewart, Edward Shay and Gerard Graham. Tonight Miss Rodgers will honor her guests with an informal dancing party at the residence of her parents Mr. and Mrs. George Rodgers. Besides her house party Miss Rodgers has asked a few of the younger contingent including Miss Barbara Steiner, Miss Paula Linn, Miss Caroline Dick, Miss Marjorie Kay, Miss Lip Spaulding, Lewis Griffin, Frank Durbin, Jr., George Croisan, Allen Carson and Franklin Miller.

Miss Ellen Thielsen has as her house guest Miss Helen Whitney of Portland. Miss Whitney motored to Salem with Mr. and Mrs. Winton Hammond in their new car.

ALINE THOMPSON

Mrs. Gordon McGilchrist entertained today with a charming luncheon and silver shower in compliment to Miss Regina Long, fiancée of Lloyd Rauch who is starting in many of the attentions with which his bride-to-be is being honored. An array of fragrant sweet peas in tones of pink and lavender adorned the pretty luncheon table. Tiny baby chicks were used to mark the places. Mrs. McGilchrist's honoree including Mrs. Donald Miles, Miss May Rauch, Miss Laura Grant, Miss Marguerite Miles, Miss Ann Sweeney, Miss Emily Palmer and Miss Ruby Ramsdell. Luncheon was followed by an afternoon of sewing.

Mrs. Harry Olinger gave a small informal bridge Monday afternoon in honor of Mrs. Halib Watson and Mrs. Otto Metehan, who were the inspiration for numerous social courtesies during their visit in this city. Matrons were asked to make up three tables of the game and the attractive card favor was won by Mrs. L. F. Griffith.

Singularly charming though informal was the luncheon with which Mrs. E. Cooke Patton honored Mrs. Watson on Tuesday afternoon. A huge crystal bowl of bleeding hearts centered the unusually artist luncheon table. In addition to the honor guest covers were placed for Mrs. William Dancy, Mrs. James Wilson, Mrs. John Conghill, Mrs. Ramp and the hostess. Tea afternoon was devoted to bridge.

Mrs. William Lytle went to Portland Tuesday and was accompanied by Master Chet Olcott who joined his aunt and uncle Mr. and Mrs. Oswald West for a several weeks sojourn at Cannon Beach.

Salem friends of Mrs. Thomas G. Halley of Portland will be interested to know that she and her daughter, Miss Elizabeth, are domiciled in apartments at the Steiway. Mrs. Halley returned last week from an extended sojourn in San Francisco, where she went to attend the exposition, acting as joint hostess for the Oregon building. Miss Genevieve Halley, her clever daughter, who accompanied her has remained in the south to study art.

Six happy rose checked playmates revelled at the delightful third birthday party given little Charles Kay Bishop Thursday afternoon at the residence of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chaney Bishop. Mrs. Bishop planned the most artistic decorations and appointments for the table which was centered with yellow and white spring blossoms. There was a wonderful birthday cake, and tiny baby chicks were suspended from the chandelier. Favors, pretty story books marked places for the young guests. Mrs. C. D. Gabrielson and Mrs. Clifford Brown assisted in serving these happy little belles and beaux.

Miss Mary Shultz is the week end guest of Miss Marie Churchill at the Delta Delta Delta Sorority house in Eugene.

Charming Miss Helen West, of Portland, who is the guest of her aunt Mrs. Ben Olcott, was honoree for a small informal luncheon given by Mrs. Thomas C. Smith Jr., Friday. Sunday this dainty bud will be honored with a delightful and happy Easter dinner given by Mrs. Olcott. The affair will be most informal, the guests being a few school chums of this young visitor who with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oswald West, formerly lived in Salem.

Dr. and Mrs. R. E. Lee Steiner and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel J. Fry, have returned, after a fortnight's sojourn at their beach cottages at Nesqueh.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Spaulding's "300" party Thursday evening was one of the largest and most attractive affairs of the week. Ten tables were placed for cards and the rooms were a bower of dogwood, Oregon grape and willow rose bushes, with rabbits and Chinese peonies here and there, making an airy, pretty out door setting for the players. The honors were awarded to Mrs. Robert Downing and John Campbell. Assisting the hostess in the serving were Mrs. Roy Mills and Miss Zoe Stockton.

The guests included Mr. and Mrs. Milton Meyers, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Downing, Judge and Mrs. Lawrence T. Harris, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Hartley, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dick, Mr. and Mrs. John Soughell, Mr. and Mrs. David Egre, Mr. and Mrs. George Post, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Lijquist, Dr. and Mrs. C. H. Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. James Chinack, Mr. and Mrs. A. I. Hoff, Mr. and Mrs. Claude K. Spaulding, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Burton, Mr. and Mrs. F. S. Gansett, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Myers, Mr. and Mrs. William McGilchrist, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Craig Marvin, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Cox, Mr. and Mrs. Merilla Harding, Miss Zoe Stockton, Charles Wilson of Oregon City, Walter Keyes, and W. A. Noon of Corvallis.

Spring time and unusually good music was undoubtedly responsible for the exceptionally gay dance at the Hotel Marion last night. These dances which are given by the string orchestra are premier over any informal parties of the kind that have ever been given in Salem and each one shows a large throng of merry-makers. Lovers of the art are eagerly anticipating the next dinner dance which is scheduled for next Friday evening. As usual the hotel will show a generous sprinkling of hosts presiding at various dinner parties.

A small informal dinner party was given last night by Mr. and Mrs. Fredric Thielsen.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Mills will entertain with an informal supper party at their residence Easter evening. The table decorations and appointments will all be in harmony with the season. Covers will mark places for Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Spaulding, Miss Zoe Stockton, Charles Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Mills.

A delightful pre-nuptial attention to Miss Regina Long was the shower and Kensington for which Miss May Rauch, sister of the groom-to-be, was hostess last Saturday afternoon. About fifteen of the closest friends of the bride-elect were invited and she was literally showered with beautiful bath towels. The prettily-appointed tea table was all carried out with Easter decorations. Tiny nests filled with eggs marked places for the honoree, Mrs. Donald Miles, Mrs. Gordon McGilchrist, Mrs. Harry Wiedmer, Miss Marguerite Miles, Miss Laura Grant, Miss Jessie Miller, Miss Bizzazi, Miss Gertrude Walling, Miss Ruby Ramsdell, Miss Emily Palmer, Miss Cox, Miss Ruth Rauch, Miss Smith, Miss Ann Sweeney, Miss Jones, and the hostess.

One of the prettiest of the week's dinners was that given by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Schmidt, in celebration of the second anniversary of their wedding. The table decorations were pink carnations combined with lovely orange blossoms which were sent to the Schmidt by Mrs. B. B. Houston who is sojourning in California. Covers were placed for ten. Dinner was followed by an evening over the bridge tables.

Mr. and Mrs. Clyde G. Rice were hosts Tuesday evening for one of the most attractive card parties of the week. The card rooms were fragrant with spring time flowers, white lilies and yellow blossoms forming an artistic background for the players. The score honors fell to Mrs. Douglas Minto and John Craig.

Mrs. John D. Sutherland and Miss Florence Cunningham assisted the hostess in the serving. Besides the members of the Cherry City club, Mr. and Mrs. Bice asked Mr. and Mrs. John D. Sutherland, Judge and Mrs. W. L. Galloway and Mrs. Lenton Westcott, Mr. and Mrs. Rollin K. Page, Mr. and Mrs. Carey Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Busselle, Mr. Elliott and Dr. W. H. Byrd.

Mr. and Mrs. James Chinack were among those motoring to Portland last Sunday. They drove home Monday evening.

Mrs. George Waters will entertain informally Thursday with a few tables of bridge, her guests will include the matrons of the Thursday afternoon card club.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Livesley were hosts for an informal dinner party Monday evening.

The handsomely appointed table was centered with pink sweet peas mingled with heavy ferns. Covers were placed for Mr. and Mrs. John J. Roberts, Mr. and Mrs. Guy Sargent, Dr. and Mrs. Harry Clay and the hosts.

With the balmy spring days, indoor affairs suffer for the lure of the great outdoors is too vivid not to have a ready and eager response from all. The golf links are more attractive every day to the members and their friends and this week small groups of devotees motored out for practice almost every day.

Next Saturday night Salem society will be much occupied with the prominent club and society women of the East and their messages on the Susan B. Anthony federal amendment.

A committee will be appointed to entertain these distinguished visitors and sponsors will meet them with automobiles upon their arrival in their private car Saturday evening. They will be taken immediately to the house of representatives where their various interesting addresses will be delivered. Among the prominent club and society women who are giving their time and energy to this valiant and volent work are Mrs. O. J. P. Belmont, who is a member of the national executive committee of the congressional union. Her high social position in New York city has led to the conversion of the suffrage of many women in the most exclusive circles who are now among the most valiant workers of the cause.

Mrs. W. D. Ascougn of Hartford, Conn., is state chairman of the union's branch organization in that Commonwealth. Before her marriage Mrs. Ascougn was a prominent actress. She is a very wealthy woman and an indefatigable worker for suffrage.

Mrs. Walter M. Smith was made the motif of a delightful surprise party Wednesday afternoon when a number of matrons gathered at her residence for an informal Kensington. The affair was planned by a few close friends of the honoree, who was showered with bouquets of beautiful spring blossoms. Among the matrons calling were Mrs. George Burnett, Mrs. B. J. Miles, Mrs. Eber La Fore, Mrs. Paul Hauser, Mrs. Churchill, Mrs. Ida Babecek, Mrs. Loren Wise, Mrs. Ida L. Niles, Mrs. W. V. Johnson and Miss Hazel Biscope.

A genuine and delightful surprise party was given Miss Beatrice Shelton last evening by a coterie of her friends, who gathered to honor her natal anniversary. During Miss Shelton's absence the guests entered the house and decorated it in tribute to the honoree with lovely blossoms. The table which had covers for nine was bedecked with exquisite Easter lilies and appointments in harmony with the season. Those honoring Miss Shelton were:

Mrs. Carl Abrams, Mrs. William Foster, Mrs. Ray Baker, Mrs. A. Russey, Mrs. Duncan, Miss Beetha Duncan, Miss Gertrude Faulk and Miss Mendemier.

FROM the view point of a musical entertainment "A Midsummer Night's Dream" which the Women's club will give at the Grand theatre this afternoon and evening, promises to be quite unique. Those who will interpret the Mendelssohn musical setting to the comedy have been working faithfully during the past week, and it is predicted that a real treat is in store for Salem music lovers.

A feature of the musical program will be Oberon's song, "I Know a Bank" which is set to the quaint, well-known air so long associated with the words, and which is sung as a duet by Mrs. R. M. Hofer and Mrs. George Palmer Putnam. The Fairies' Lullaby, "Ye Spotted Snakes," is arranged as a quartette, to the old tune which was probably the one used when Shakespeare himself acted in the play. This man, Mrs. J. J. Roberts, and Mrs. T. H. Galloway.

At the piano Mrs. Wm. Burghardt, Jr., and Miss Sadie Ford will render the stately Wedding March, the Overture, the Bergomask, or clown dance and the other Mendelssohn compositions which have become almost as well-known as the play itself. A number of graceful young girls will give an artistic interpretation of the dances, including Miss Margaret White, solo danseuse, and Josephine Atchison, Durrell Anderson, Lenta Baumgartner, Rosalie Boren, Jeanette Plimpton, Jeanette Sykes, Constance Yantis, Margaret Stoltz, Prudence Patterson and Marie Schullerman. Mrs. Anna Bogers' Fish will read the play, interpreting all the characters.

Mrs. Richard F. Tinsler asked about twenty-two ladies of the Unitarian church to her residence on Friday afternoon. The affair was planned as a courtesy to Mrs. Milton Meyers on the occasion of her birthday anniversary. The afternoon was made unusually enjoyable by several interesting readings, one being a biographical sketch of Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, authoress and minister of the Unitarian church, whose natal day was also being observed. Other readings were given by Mrs. W. M. Hamilton, Mrs. A. S. Kazmarek and Miss Ethel Fletcher.

Those present were Mesdames, M. L. Meyers, C. S. Hamilton, E. L. Beal, A. P. Adams, W. M. Hamilton, A. S. Kazmarek, J. M. Culver, Wm. Skinner, L. Forstner, E. Tyler, B. Taylor, J. R. Pollock, J. W. Cox, G. Steiner, W. A. Denton, L. Smith, M. Howard, A. E. Dinmore, A. H. Moore, Miss Ethel Fletcher, Miss Gertrude Savage.

Mrs. B. E. Reinha gave a most enjoyable Kensington Thursday afternoon having a score or more matrons of the Brode Club as guests. The rooms were airy and artistic with jars and vases of apple blossoms. Mrs. Joseph Reinhart assisted the hostess with the refreshments.

A very pleasant surprise party was given Miss Mary Simon, at her home in West Salem, on Wednesday evening when a coterie of her friends gathered to honor the anniversary of her birthday. Games and music were enjoyed until a late hour when a dainty lunch was served. Miss Zeta McLean assisted Miss Simon in serving. The guests were the Misses Esther Spitzbart, Beth Bedford, Zeta McLean, Mary Simon, Alice De Lapp, Ruth Bedford, Inez Gittis and Moore, Raymond Rex, Leo Spitzbart, Arnold Krueger, Frank Simons, Ira Fitts, Beryl Birch and Harold Smith.

Mrs. A. A. Stewart was hostess for an informal afternoon Wednesday. Her guests included the members of the South Central Circle of the First Methodist church. During the afternoon the hostess favored the guests with a book review on "Fur Awa."

Daily refreshments closed the delightful afternoon. Mrs. White assisted Mrs. Stewart in the serving. About sixty members of the Ladies Aid Society of the Womens Relief Corps were entertained at an enjoyable sewing at the home of Mrs. Ben West Thursday afternoon. Other matrons sharing the honors as hostess for the affair were Mrs. I. L. McAdams, Mrs. Charles Cameron, Mrs. Anna Simons, and Mrs. Peterson. They were assisted in serving a dainty collation by Miss Mabel West.

Mrs. F. A. McIntyre has as her guests Mrs. A. E. Keon and children, Sedra Jane, and Allison, Jr., and Mrs. W. D. Hoover and daughter, Julia, of Aberdeen, Washington.

Mrs. Charles M. Fuller was hostess for a pleasurable informal afternoon Thursday, the guests included the members of the W. A. E. club and several visitors. A merry diversion of the afternoon was a guessing contest. Mrs. W. R. Kane won the first prize and Mrs. Laurence Greene was awarded the consolation. The rooms were effectively arranged with huge bunches of fragrant apple blossoms and Easter decorations. Mrs. James A. Mason assisted the hostess in serving a dainty luncheon.

The club members present were: Mrs. W. O. Assely, Mrs. W. B. Munier, Mrs. Warren Poble, Mrs. W. B. Kane, Mrs. I. Mikelson, Mrs. A. A. Gueffroy, Mrs. Harry Elgin, and Mrs. Laurence Greene of Portland.

Additional guests were, Mrs. Charles O. Wilson, Mrs. Homer E. Ingray, Mrs. J. A. Masses, and Mrs. Emma Fuller.

Mrs. E. O. Moll entertained with an informal afternoon Wednesday at her suburban home on the Wallace road. The members of the Sweet Bear club shared the charming hospitality of the hostess and were happy to welcome their president Mrs. M. C. Pettys who has been ill for several weeks. The afternoon was rounded out by dainty refreshments served by the hostess and Mrs. J. C. Ferguson. Mrs. A. DeLap of Polk county was a guest of the club.

The matrons of the Marigold club enjoyed an informal afternoon Wednesday as the guests of Mrs. J. W. Cox, bidding adieu to Mrs. F. S. Scaraman, a member of the club who leaves soon to make her home in Marshfield. During the afternoon the honor guest was the recipient of many charming farewell gifts and tokens. Blossoms of the spring time were used effectively about the rooms.

Mrs. Olmsted assisted the hostess in serving dainty refreshments. Over one hundred members of the Silver Belle Circle enjoyed a social meeting in McCarnack Hall Friday evening. Following a short business session a programme was given as follows: Songs, Woodman quartet, instrumental solo, Mrs. Roy Campbell; readings, Miss Grace Babecek; instrumental solo, Miss Marie Leise.

A feature of the evening's gayeties was a penit race which created much merriment. Among the out of town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Wright, Mrs. George Burke, Mrs. Mitchell and son of Dallas. Mrs. D. D. Olmsted, captain of guards, and the guards composed the committee in charge of the affair. They were assisted in the serving of refreshments by the young men of the Woodmen.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Young of Albany will be guests of the Chaneyville Bishops for the subscription dance Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. E. T. Busselle entertained as their guests during the week, Captain and Mrs. George Taomas of Portland.

On Wednesday and Thursday evenings the St. Paul's Episcopal church will give an excellent benefit entertainment at the Oregon theatre. One of the delightful features of the evening programmes will be the singing of "The Palm Branches" by the double quartet, which is composed of Mrs. Carlton Smith, Mrs. E. B. Choape, Miss Margery Marvin, Miss Myrtle Knowland, William McGilchrist, Sr., Dan Langenberg, George Snyder and George Doust.

Of interest to musical lovers and theatre goers, will be Richard Strauss' strange new opera "Die Frau Ohne Schatten" (the woman without a shadow) the "Musical Courier" gives the following interesting account of the opera:

"It has a strange, fantastic libretto, one that offers ample opportunity for magical stage effects. The action is briefly as follows: 'The Emperor of the Seven Islands, an imaginary empire of the Far East, while on a hunting expedition, comes across a white gazelle, which he chases and catches with the help of his falcon. As the gazelle dies, a lovely maiden emanates from its body—a fantastical fairy-like being in human form and yet not human, although filled with a longing to become a real woman. The light shines through the strange being as through glass. She has an shadow. She is the daughter of the magician Kikobad, who had conferred upon her by means of a talisman the power to assume whatever form she desires. In the arms of the Emperor she becomes a woman, but loses thereby her talisman.

Now there is a curse connected with that talisman. He who should loosen the girdle of Kikobad's daughter is doomed to turn to stone, unless he succeeds in giving her a shadow within one year.

"In the East the shadow of a human being is the symbol of fruitfulness. Kikobad is aware of his daughter's longings to become a human being, and he does not stay the process. The Emperor is a very ordinary type of man—a hunter and a lover, nothing more. In strong contrast to him is a spooky nurse, who has charge of the woman without a shadow, who has now become the Empress. This nurse is a sort of female Mephisto. The Empress begs her nurse to provide her with a shadow, and the nurse promises her help. In search of a shadow the two women go out among the poor people, where they have some fantastic experiences, and where the Empress learns to know what pity is. Meanwhile the Emperor has already been turned nearly to stone but when the Empress returns to him she has acquired a shadow earned through the human experiences which she had among the people. She comes back in time to save her husband from changing entirely into stone and transforms him into a human being again.

Strauss has played on the piano the principal themes of the score for some friends. Broad and majestic is the theme of the Emperor's love. The motive of the falcon soars aloft—even the bird's bristling feathers are illustrated in tones. He played also the fantastic motive of Kikobad, the themes of the maiden and the nurse, numerous ensemble numbers, etc. The premiere of the "Frau Ohne Schatten" will occur at the Dresden Royal Opera, which has for years been so closely identified with Strauss' premieres.

Among the interesting benefit entertainments scheduled in the calendar is that to be given Wednesday evening May 3 by the Menometonks Campfire girls in the Presbyterian church. An enjoyable programme is being prepared for evening and a number of favorite local talents will contribute numbers including Miss Louise Benson, Miss Ruth Fugate, Miss Lucile Barton, Dr. Chace, Edwin Aekerman, Frank and Richard Barton and several others. Mrs. John Dubuis is guardian of the club and Mrs. E. G. Smyth assistant guardian.
