

SHERWOOD

Some of the Leading Characters, and a partial group of the cast who appear in "Sherwood," the Theatrical event of the season. Grand Theatre, Friday, May 5, 8 p. m.

Noyes' "Sherwood," the play which the junior class of Willamette university will present at the Grand theatre, is one of supreme interest. The events center around the tales of Robin Hood, which are familiar to every one. The beauty of its romantic setting in the forest of Sherwood, the famous retreat of Robin Hood, gives the play the fascinating atmosphere characteristic of the age of chivalry. The forest is peopled with true knights, ladies and beautiful fairies who fill it with play and gladness. It is a play which has the power not only to please and interest but to exalt and lift one beyond himself into the land of beautiful thought and the realm of fantasy.

There are many beautiful passages in the play which reveal the depth of meaning and the inner beauty of its structure. Titania, Queen of the Fairies, in the first act, states the condition which will open the gates of fairyland, "only love and love's kind sacrifice can open them. For when a mortal heart himself to help another, then he thrusts the gates wide open between his world and ours."

Shadow-of-a-Leaf, the wise fool, is the one who makes the sacrifice which causes the gates of fairyland to open and in that sacrifice he loses his chance to enter Dreamland.

The sacrifice is the outcome of events which center around the crusade of Richard the Lion-Hearted. While Richard is away on the crusade Prince John attempts to seize the throne in order that he may strengthen the claim for the hand of Maid Marian, the heroine of the play. Maid Marian is in love with Robin Hood an outlaw, who has been reduced from the rank of an earl by the mandate of Prince John so that it will be impossible for him to seek the hand of Marian. Queen Elinor aids Prince John in his plans, while Shadow-of-a-Leaf befriends Robin Hood and reveals to him the danger of Marian. In the revelation of this secret Shadow-of-a-Leaf, in a speech filled with pathos, forgoes his right to enter Dreamland.

Robin Hood, the gates are open for you and Marian! All I had to give I have given to thrust them open, the dear gates of fairyland which I shall never pass again."

Robin Hood answering the call of Shadow-of-a-Leaf finds Marian dying and in his sorrow dies.

That scene darkens gradually as his life goes out and the voice of Shadow-of-a-Leaf is heard singing the fairy song, "The Forest Has Conquered." As he sings the gates swing open to receive the souls of Marian and Robin Hood and then close before Shadow-of-a-Leaf can enter. Oberon, king of the fairies, speaks these words as the notes of the song die away.

"But these may dream their happy dreams in death before they wake to that new lovely life beyond the shadow; for poor Shadow-of-a-Leaf has given them this by love's eternal law of sacrifice, and they shall enter in to dream their lovers' dream in fairyland. For Shadow-of-a-Leaf who will come to reign in a kingdom of justice. We fairies have not known or heard what waits for those who, like this wandering fool, throw all away for love. But I have heard there is a great King, not beyond the world, not Richard, who is dead, nor yet King John but a great King who one day will come home clothed with the clouds of heaven from His crusade."

"It is a play so beautiful in its theme and so artistic in its treatment that it merits only the highest praise from critics and lovers of the drama."

Short Term Enlistments
In United States Army

"Action by congress providing for short term enlistments would be of great service to the United States army in obtaining volunteers to handle motor equipment," says President Walter Davidson, of the Harley-Davidson Motor company, which has been co-operating closely with the war department in the big task of training soldiers to handle motorcycles in Mexico. "In my opinion it is impossible to train inexperienced soldiers to make motorcycle riders of them in the required time and the same thing is true of augmenting the number of men required for army motor trucks and aeroplanes."

"If congress would make it possible for the army to receive enlistments for shorter periods than the three years now required, a call for motorcycle volunteers would not only quickly supply the companies now contemplated but would bring forth regiments of experienced men. As the law now stands the army is forced to attack the problem the wrong end to. Men who have had experience with motors are needed quickly. The way to get them is to enlist them to serve during the period of the Mexican expedition."

Three years is too long a time of enlistment for anyone who does not intend to remain permanently in the army. If the period of enlistment were six months, or even a year, it would bring good results.

Brig. Gen. J. J. Pershing, in charge of the American advance in Mexico, Brig. Gen. George Bell, Jr., in charge of the troops in and around El Paso and all the other officers on the Mexican job will testify to the same thing. There is great need for men with motor experience and it is a big task to train soldiers to handle motorcycles and trucks in army service. Of course we desire to do everything possible to assist the army in training soldiers to use motorcycles efficiently but I am firmly of the belief that the best way is for congress to authorize the army to recruit civilians with special training and obtain them quickly through the attraction of a short enlistment with promise of immediate service in the work of dispersing Villa's bandits in Mexico."

SCHOOL RALLY DRAWS
CROWD AT AUMSVILLE

The school rally held here last Saturday, April 22, was well attended by the surrounding schools, and Aumsville itself seemed to have turned out for a general holiday. The hall was profusely decorated with apple blossoms, and pots of purple lilies.

Superintendent W. M. Smith acted as chairman and opened the program by introducing County Superintendent J. W. Smith, the first speaker.

After Mr. Smith's address the contents in songs and recitations began. Those taking part in these contents were:

Thelma Delzell, of Turner, prize winner for recitation; Kenneth Lewis, of Shaw, recitation; Leta Patton of Shaw, recitation; Selmer Brown, of Aumsville, recitation; Grace Von Behren, of West Stayton, recitation; Lee Crawford, of North Santiam, recitation; Harry Seefeld, of North Santiam, recitation; and Turner high school, song, also winner for song.

The afternoon session was opened by Superintendent Smith delivering the prize to Thelma Delzell, of Turner, for recitation prize. Next the judges gave the name of the prize winner in the map of Oregon contest. Opal Bilyeu, of Aumsville, was winner in this contest.

The program for the afternoon was a recitation by Lee Crawford, of North Santiam, son, "Mother," by twins, Edith and Ethel Fresh, of Rocky Point, and a recitation, Olive Craus, of Aumsville. Miss Maybelle Wagner, the Boy Point teacher and one of those who are serving warm lunches at noon each day, told in her address the way in which she does it.

The next song "Easter Song" and "Robin and Blue Bird" by the primary grades of Aumsville was very bright and prettily acted out.

A dialogue, "Lawyer and Book Agent," by two boys of Rocky Point.

Song, "The Bird's Ball," by Aumsville primary pupils, of which Miss Anna Roming is teacher.

H. C. Seymour, of Corvallis, state leader of Boys' and Girls' Industrial club, addressed the Industrial club members especially and also gave good information to non-members on the work the club is taking up, what it is for and what it is doing.

The last number on the program was a wreath drill by a number of girls of the intermediate grades trained by their teacher, Miss Ole Grier, of Aumsville school. They were dressed in white carrying wreaths of apple blossoms.—Record.

from there to continue their trip into California before returning home.

M. B. Kromling was operated upon for appendicitis at the hospital Tuesday morning. Mr. Kromling had been ill for several days, relief from ordinary treatment being only temporary. The operation was advised and since Tuesday morning the patient has been getting on nicely, and barring the unforeseen will be about in due time.

C. B. Parry, who recently moved to Portland from east of Hubbard, was in Hubbard on business last Tuesday. He reports the family in good health excepting his daughter, Mrs. Mae Armstrong, who is in the hospital recovering from a delicate operation performed last week.—Enterprise.

"An onion eaten raw will clear the head," remarked the old fogey. "Yes," agreed the grinch, "and it will also clear the room."
