How Londoners Are Dressing This Spring

Cut of white gaberdine with set-in sleeves slit pockets and a V neck, this one-piece gown of English demureness is smart, with its slash of crimson silk heavily tasseled. About the armholes and neck is a bit of hand embroidery in crimson, and the trim is white corduroy.

SEVENTY-SEVENTH BIRTHDAY

The home of Gen. X. Gooding near Aurora was the scene of a happy family reunion last Sunday when eight children and 21 grandchildren celebrated the seventy-seventh birthday of Mrs. Nicklas Gooding of St. Paul, Ore.

Shortly after arrival of the guests a sumptuous dinner was served in the spacious dining room amid profuse decorations of flowers and greenery. Present as additional guests, Mrs. Carl G. Doney and Mrs. Green, wife of the Methodist pastor at Brownville.

School Children Will Collect Exhibits for Coming State Fair

After three days' work encouraging and instructing the industrial club workers in the schools of Polk county, Field Worker N. C. Maris, reports that he found a keen interest along this line of work. In company with Superintendent W. L. Reynolds, Mr. Maris visited 14 schools in three days. Each of these schools had an industrial club and nearly all pupils were taking an active interest.

At the suggestion of Superintendent Reynolds, instead of hiring a man to collect exhibits and decorations for the county display at the state fair, the county court will pay the children for doing this work. They propose to pay them 25 cents for each bundle of grain or grass furnished as per specifications. For the best 10 bundles, a prize of $5 will be given and for the second best 10 bundles $2.50 will be the prize. Aside from stimulating the children's interest in their county and state fair and giving them an opportunity to earn a little money, Mr. Reynolds believes they will collect the county exhibits more economically than it would be done by the method generally followed.

The Auburn interest continues and the good work of the boys in building bird houses was in evidence all over the county. Some boys reported having made as many as 10 bird houses already this spring.

Another Record Is Broken for Week's Accidents in State

Each succeeding week has been a record breaker for accidents at the office of the State Industrial Accident Commission and for the week ending May 11 the high record was established at 298 accidents of which one was fatal. Of this number six were reported from Marion county as follows: C. A. Dodge, Salem, sprained knee, back and the works; Lester Swartz, Salem, lacerated knee, trespasser; Mrs. D. P. Pilkerton, Salem, cut lip, traveler on highway; J. W. Smith, Silverton, bruised head, logging; Dennis Murphy, struck in stomach, logging; Earl Ellis, Silverton, injured eye, sawmill.

Of the total number reported, 233 were subject to the workmen's compensation act, 40 were from firms or corporations who have rejected the provisions of the act, 25 pere from public utility corporations.

Spring Valley News

(Capital Journal Special Service) Spring Valley, Ore., May 13.—Eva Newberry took the eighth grade examination on Thursday and Friday, Mrs. W. N. Crawford assisting in giving it. Miss Carrie Dahm of Lower Spring Valley was elected at a recent board meeting to teach the Zena school next term.

MAY DAY FESTIVITIES WAITED FOR WEATHER

Program Drew Largest Crowd Ever Seen On Campus On Like Occasion

Miss Frances Gitting, Queen of the May

The May-Day Festivities at Willamette University were held today on the campus, west of Kimball College. The weather which had previously been the cause of its postponement was ideal and the largest crowd that ever saw a May-Queen crowning in Salem was present. In order that every one might be able to see the coronation a large court was roped off and in the center of this court the royal throne was erected, it was graced with fir branches and purple streamers, while the throne chair bore the coat-of-arms of the two ladies' societies of the school; the Philadelphians and Adelantes. Queen Frances I. and her retinue began their procession at Lausanne hall, going to State street, then across the campus to the throne.

The campus bore an air of life that is seldom seen, showing that May Day had the power to cause everyone to forget for a time all their cares and troubles.

Promptly at 1 o'clock the dances of the season began. The first one, representing summer was portrayed by a group of high school girls. Those who took part were: The Misses DeWitte, Gookins, Hall, Bedford, Brown, Capa, Claerrington, Coppock, Dick, Helzel, Jones, McDonald, H. McInturff, Miller, Reid, Rogers, Smith, E. St. Pierre, Taylor and Thompson. It was a graceful and spirited dance illustrating the gladness and joy of summer. The next, the dance of autumn was given by the following young ladies, who were dressed in brown and had their flowing hair bedecked with autumn leaves: Misses Howell, M. Maclean, Cooksey, Wiemer, Anderson, Garrett, Arnez, Baker, Collier, Nichols, Moore, Hogue, Carpenter, Jones, E. Emmel, Wood, Mulligan, Perkins, C. Haines and H. Haines. The music for the dance, "Song," by MacDowell, was such as would intimate the approach of the autumn season.

The winter dance was given by the Misses M. St. Pierre, E. St. Pierre, McKennon, Fuller, Harris, Sherwood, Paranoagian, Fern Wells, Fay Wells, Edmiston, Williamson, White, Mark, King, Stewart, E. Tebbins, C. Tebbins, Paine, Thompson and Goitra.

The next and last dance was the sprightly tripping dance of spring, to the music, "To Spring," by Grieg. Those who took part in this dance were: The Misses Ada Ross, Green, Wiggins, Spoor, O. Rosche, Cathy, Davenport, McCully, Sterling, Bagley, Jaskowski, Tobie, Witham, Springer, McCaddam, Mallory, E. McInturff, Garrison, Teel and Helen Westell.

In this dance the young ladies came tripping in with graceful movements suggestive of the arrival of gentle spring. Immediately after this dance the queen's procession arrived with heraldic singing, "Behold She Comes! Hail to the Queen of May!" following came the daintily clad flower maidens, Mary Elizabeth Kightlinger, Maxine Glover, Maxine Myers and Virginia Holt, strewn gay flowers before the approach of Queen Frances I. The queen wore a gown of white satin with overdraps of yellow chiffon and a robe of white satin with cream lining. Her crown was bejeweled with pearls and also her scepter. Little Charles Kay Bishop and Edwin Cross were the train bearers, they were dressed in white with large yellow satin sashes.

The cushion bearer, little Miss Audrey Mathias, of Amity, was dressed in white. The queen's attendants, Miss Laura Ross and Mrs. Florence Page Steeves, followed her at a close distance, the pages following her. When the queen neared the throne all of the dancers bowed to the ground to do homage to her.

James Crawford, '12, was lord high chancellor and master of ceremonies, reading Queen Frances' proclamation following her coronation by Queen Lela.

Some of the pretty things seen at the May Day festivities on Willamette Campus this afternoon.

OPENING EXERCISES AT BRUSH COLLEGE

Salem As Well As Dallas and Other Towns Send Hay-Racks Full of Visitors

Brush college had all the appearances of an institution of learning that the same would apply, last night when the crowd had assembled for the opening exercises. The occasion was the serving of a chicken dinner by the ladies of that place, over 200 tickets were sold for the supper, which realized about $75 for the school. The crowd consisted of people from Dallas, Independence, Perrydale, Salem and all of the surrounding country. Four big hay-racks were necessary to carry the crowd from Salem in addition to a dozen autos. The Artisan ladies occupied one wagon and Willamette students another. The ride to and from was an enjoyable one as it was bright moonlight and all of the several crowds vied with each other singing songs. The chicken supper was one that all present agreed could not have been duplicated anywhere else. After the supper had been served a program was given in the main auditorium of the building, also lantern slides of local places. The program given was as follows: Music, by the Brush College Orchestra. Reading, by Mrs. L. G. Curtis. Vocal solo, by Miss Emily Luce. Violin duet, by Arsel Smith and Berle Baell. Vocal solo, by Miss Grenell Van de Vert. Trombone solo, by Miss Wyke Swart. Vocal solo, by the little Miss Margaret Flower; she was encouraged and responded to the applause with a light tripping spring song.

Many Dublin Citizens Released by Asquith

London, May 13.—A number of Dublin citizens arrested on suspicion during the Irish riots have been released as a result of Premier Asquith's visit to the scene of the disturbances, according to today's dispatches. They include several government employees suspected of provisioning rebels while the troops were besieged, and persons in whose houses snipers were concealed. Asquith planned to continue the civil conference today. A delegation of citizens today was waiting to plead with the prime minister to be lenient in his treatment of deported rebels. It was reported that Asquith would soon issue a proclamation addressed to the Irish.
