COMMERCIAL CLUB ASKS FOR NEW DEPOT

Calls Attention to Present Disgrace to the Landscape, But Does It Nicely

June 3, 1916. Southern Pacific Company, Portland, Oregon.

It has been the consensus of opinion in Salem for several years now, that your company should have a passenger station building in this city, appropriate for the Capital City of the great state of Oregon.

you realize that the present building is short of that requirement many years ago, and is extremely inadequate and unsuitable at this time. We also believe that you would have provided Salem with a proper building before this, if it were not for the depressed financial condition of recent years and the heavy demands upon your treasury for funds for the necessary improvements in roadbeds, tracks, etc., that you have made.

FOR DISTRICT ATTORNEY Marion County

GRANT CORBY 204-205 U. S. Bank Bldg., Salem, Ore.

To the People of Marion County: The principal function of the District Attorney's office is the preparation and trial of criminal cases.

I am opposed to the painless method of prosecution of criminals and lawbreakers. Grifters, parasites and confidence crooks thrive on the fumes of fulsome and pretentious prosecutions; good citizens are often black-mailed and libeled by the sporadic efforts of the advertising crank who begins his case in the newspaper, and ends it in the waste basket.

Newport citizens wish to thank the people of the northwest for the interest shown in the efforts of Newport in their efforts to secure a governmental survey of Yaquina bay and harbor. Announcement has been made that the board of engineers for rivers and harbors, sitting in Washington has granted the request for the survey and the Newport folks feel that this was only made possible through the united efforts of friends in the Willamette valley, as well as the entire northwest. The committee at Newport wishes conveying its heartfelt thanks and promises that Yaquina bay will from now on begin to take a place in the world's commerce to which its friends aspire.

You need glasses if you find it necessary to hold reading matter at an unusual distance from your eyes, more or less than 12 inches. If eye trouble compels you to say "hold on" newspaper, magazine or book after reading only a short time, if you don't desire to run your eyes in circles to get from smearing and burning sensation, if you find work getting on your nerves, if you headaches. All of the above is a sure sign you need eye attention. If after making examination I find you do not need glasses I will frankly tell you. I guarantee satisfaction in every respect. I do not use drops or drops in making examinations as they are dangerous. Dr. M. P. McDonelson, rooms 218-211, E. S. Hall Bank Bldg.

FRENCH FRONT IS AN INFERNO OF BATTLE

World's Most Dreadful Battle Reaches Climax of Dreadful Slaughter

Paris, June 3.—Fort Vaux and the lines on each side to Fort Donnouton west and Dainloup east, is now an inferno of artillery fire, with alternating infantry attacks. The Germans in the main are the aggressors in one of their greatest efforts to take Fort Vaux, the "key to Verdun," according to the French official statement.

The 103 days of the fighting in the world's greatest battle reached its climax of violence in the infantry attacks on the north slopes of the hill on which Fort Vaux stands. Columns after columns of German troops rolled up the hillside only to meet agony in the hot fire of French machine guns. The attacking Germans, according to the statement, were constantly reinforced by fresh soldiers from the rear.

On the west bank of the Meuse, along Dead Man's hill to Cunieres, heavy artillery attacks were reported with but few infantry attacks and practically no change in positions.

German Attack Fierce. Paris, June 3.—The Germans made several of the most violent attacks of the entire battle at Verdun on Fort Vaux during last night and early today, but each time were driven back with heavy losses, the French command stated today. The action is continuing with the greatest fury all along the line from Fort Donnouton to a point south of Vaux.

MONEY KINGS GET

(Continued from page one.) —that anybody the republicans nominated could win in November, has been altered considerably in the throbbing out of opinions by men from all over the country now assembling here. The old guard has been three years on the side lines now; some time within the next four years the European war will cease and then will come America's biggest business opportunity—therefore, the old guard wants to win. It frankly hates Roosevelt; admires Hughes because of his anti-organization record in New York; likes Root, but isn't sure he could win in the west; and with more or less favor regards Paoliukus, Weeks, Burton and the other favorites.

Are Politic But Not Victorious. The adage about politics and strange bedfellows was never more strikingly illustrated than the super-peacefulness of the greeting, the Chesterfieldian correctness of manners in statements and the entire good-fellowship now imbuing each individuals as four years ago, at this time, were growing with fury at each others throats yelling "thief, robber and other epithets. Fearless of Pennsylvania, whom Roosevelt threatened during the campaign of 1912, is as near smilingly congratulating as he can be; nobody has yet heard a harsh word from George W. Perkins; even "Jim" Watson, sub-fireman on the 1912 model steam roller, isn't using the line of invective that made him famous as a representative. William Barnes of Newport is the exception. It isn't safe to mention the name of T. R. in the presence of the New York leader. Besides he is ill with influenza.
