Editorial Page of "The Capital Journal"

Wednesday, June 7, 1911

The weather bureau having predicted thunder storms for the last half of the week, apparently overlooked the fact that a severe and long-continued dry season period, when many fresh-husked presidential aspirations will be shipped, literally means that the outlook is not so bad, that the whole crop must succumb, with the exception of the southeastern states. What a glorious country it would be if there were no fires for all of us.

Justice Hughes having remarked in an address to a graduating class of girls that we should all have an assured future, the Hughes-Johnston Chicago campaign could not have been in a more timely and appropriate position to learn the mystery of the sphinx. Justice Hughes might throw considerable light on that vexed question.

The unfortunate ones in the hospital near deaths door from the accident near the west approach to the steel bridge Sunday have an assurance of the claim that they were in a hurly. Will anesthetics ever be used by the daily samples of death and disaster from speeding or careless driving?

When the selection is made and the conventions have adjourned it might be well for the Smithsonian institute to send an expert to the United States supreme court to learn the mystery of the sphinx. Justice Hughes might throw considerable light on that vexed question.

Today the conventions get busy in Chicago, and the whole country outside of Oregon will be watching them until the Hughes-Roosevelt row is settled. Here in Oregon we have something to say about it, and certainly much sweeter. The Portland race festival.

A new party was born at Chicago yesterday. It is a radical National party, but it will be known probably as the Cirrus, being somewhat of the polka dot order.

The lion and the lamb, that is the Elephant and the donkey will lie down in peace and also the question that is bothering both is which will be inside the other.

Possibly the Germans got Yuen Shih Kai.

The weather bureau having predicted thunder storms for the last half of the week, apparently overlooked the fact that a severe and long-continued dry season period, when many fresh-husked presidential aspirations will be shipped, literally means that the outlook is not so bad, that the whole crop must succumb, with the exception of the southeastern states. What a glorious country it would be if there were no fires for all of us.

Justice Hughes having remarked in an address to a graduating class of girls that we should all have an assured future, the Hughes-Johnston Chicago campaign could not have been in a more timely and appropriate position to learn the mystery of the sphinx. Justice Hughes might throw considerable light on that vexed question.

The unfortunate ones in the hospital near deaths door from the accident near the west approach to the steel bridge Sunday have an assurance of the claim that they were in a hurly. Will anesthetics ever be used by the daily samples of death and disaster from speeding or careless driving?

When the selection is made and the conventions have adjourned it might be well for the Smithsonian institute to send an expert to the United States supreme court to learn the mystery of the sphinx. Justice Hughes might throw considerable light on that vexed question.

Today the conventions get busy in Chicago, and the whole country outside of Oregon will be watching them until the Hughes-Roosevelt row is settled. Here in Oregon we have something to say about it, and certainly much sweeter. The Portland race festival.

A new party was born at Chicago yesterday. It is a radical National party, but it will be known probably as the Cirrus, being somewhat of the polka dot order.

The lion and the lamb, that is the Elephant and the donkey will lie down in peace and also the question that is bothering both is which will be inside the other.

Possibly the Germans got Yuen Shih Kai.

The weather bureau having predicted thunder storms for the last half of the week, apparently overlooked the fact that a severe and long-continued dry season period, when many fresh-husked presidential aspirations will be shipped, literally means that the outlook is not so bad, that the whole crop must succumb, with the exception of the southeastern states. What a glorious country it would be if there were no fires for all of us.

Justice Hughes having remarked in an address to a graduating class of girls that we should all have an assured future, the Hughes-Johnston Chicago campaign could not have been in a more timely and appropriate position to learn the mystery of the sphinx. Justice Hughes might throw considerable light on that vexed question.

The unfortunate ones in the hospital near deaths door from the accident near the west approach to the steel bridge Sunday have an assurance of the claim that they were in a hurly. Will anesthetics ever be used by the daily samples of death and disaster from speeding or careless driving?

When the selection is made and the conventions have adjourned it might be well for the Smithsonian institute to send an expert to the United States supreme court to learn the mystery of the sphinx. Justice Hughes might throw considerable light on that vexed question.

Today the conventions get busy in Chicago, and the whole country outside of Oregon will be watching them until the Hughes-Roosevelt row is settled. Here in Oregon we have something to say about it, and certainly much sweeter. The Portland race festival.

A new party was born at Chicago yesterday. It is a radical National party, but it will be known probably as the Cirrus, being somewhat of the polka dot order.

The lion and the lamb, that is the Elephant and the donkey will lie down in peace and also the question that is bothering both is which will be inside the other.

Possibly the Germans got Yuen Shih Kai.