M'ALLISTER TO STAY BECAUSE OF TAUNTS

Sporting News From All Quarters and of Each and Every Variety

San Francisco, June 13.—Cancelling his reservations at the last minute, Bob McAllister, middleweight, announced today he would not sail on the steamer Sierra for Australia today. Instead, he declares he will remain here until he has an opportunity of chastising Mr. William Meehan.

When McAllister was a debutante in the professional arena the critics predicted large things for him, but when he suddenly cancelled his scheduled fight with Meehan recently, for the Australian trip, they soured on him and opined that he was afraid.

Arranging to Hoist Pennant.

San Francisco, June 13.—The well known Hen Berry, famous Simon Legree of the San Francisco Seals, is making arrangements today to hoist the 1915 Pacific Coast league pennant with touching ceremonies at Recreation park June 28. Hen has wearied of the time hallowed methods of raising the rag, and has invited the fans to originate some new stunts. Today he invited every Seal rooter to send in his ideas for appropriate doings, and Hen will pick out the best program.

Burns-Hoppe Bout.

San Francisco, June 13.—New interest was attracted today to the Frankie Burns-Willie Hoppe fight at Daly City next Friny night when it becomes known that Willie Ritchie might meet the winner. Hoppe took the Burns match to keep busy after the cancellation of his affair with Joe Rivers in Los Angeles last week. Hoppe says he is in cracking good condition.

Chicago, June 13.—Ed Walsh, White Sox veteran pitcher, was slated for a "come back" tryout today against the Senators. He will have for his opponent Walter Johnson, the Senators' star twirler.

Walsh to Meet Wolgast.

Chicago, June 13.—Freddie Walsh, lightweight champion, has agreed to meet Ad Wolgast in a 15 round bout at Denver, July 4, according to information received here today. Welsh will receive $8,000, win or lose, for his end, while Wolgast will gamble on the percentage.

Wolgast gets into action tonight at St. Louis, where he meet Frankie Russell in a 12 round bout.

Speed Kings to Race.

Chicago, June 13.—Dario Resta and Ralph De Palam, world's fastest automobile drivers today planned a matched race of three heats next Sunday to determine which is the speed king. The race will be held at the Maywood speedway.

Leonard Outfought Dundee.

New York, June 13.—Coolly and skilfully evading the bull like rushes and aeroplane attack of his opponent, which in the earlier rounds threatened to overcome him, Benny Leonard outfought and outgeneraled Johnny Dundee at the Madison Square Garden last night. Leonard weighed 136; Dundee 127.

Yesterday's hero in the big leagues was Covaleski, of the Indians. He relieved Klepfer in the ninth with two on and none down and fanned Oldring, Schalk and Stellbauer in succession.

The Cub's win over the Giants was a slaughter. They mauled two of McGraw's flingers for 18 well bunched swats.

Manager Rowland threw in the high speed and told the White Sox to go to it. White Sox 3, Washington 0.

A boner by Besher of the Cardinals when he grasped the fly ball with his finger tips which would have gone foul gave the dodgers a run in the sixth.

It took the heart out of the bunch from the Mound City and Brooklyn had it soft thereafter.

Cobb started a little campaign to crowd Tris Speaker for batting honors. The Tiger star cut loose with a double and a homer against the Yanks and on top of that scored three runs.

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS

for the duty to which they were assigned.

"But in your case, there are many extraordinary possibilities, because gentlemen, no man can certainly tell you what the immediate future is going to be either in the history of this country or in the history of the world. It is not by accident that the present great war came to Europe.

"Every element was there and the contest had to come sooner or later. And it is not going to be by accident that the results are worked out, but by purpose; by the purpose of the men who are strong enough to have guiding minds and indomitable wills when the time for decision and settlement comes. And the part that the United States is to play has this distinction in it, that it is to be, in any event, a disinterested party.

"There is nothing that the United States wants that it has to get by war, but there are a great many things that the United States has to do. It has to see that its life is not interferred with by anybody else who wants something.

Would Prepare for Peace

"These are days when we are making preparations. The thing most commonly discussed over every sort of table, in every sort of circle, in the shops and in the streets is preparedness, and undoubtedly gentlemen, it is the present imperative duty of America to be prepared. But we want to know what we are preparing for. I remember hearing a wise man say once that the old maxim that everything comes to the man who waits is all very well, provided he knows what he is waiting for and preparedness might be a very hazardous thing if we did not know what we wanted to do with the force that we mean to accumulate and to get into fighting shape.

"America, fortunately, does know what she wants to do with her force. America came into existence for a particular reason. When you look about upon these beautiful hills and up this stately stream, and then let your imagination run over the whole body of this great country from which you youngsters are drawn far and wide, you remember that while it had aboriginal inhabitants, while there were people living here there was no civilization which he displaced. It was as if in the providence of God, a continent had been kept waiting for a peaceful people who loved liberty and the rights of men more than they loved anything else, to come and set up an unselfish commonwealth.

"It is a very extraordinary thing. You are so familiar with American history—at any rate in its general character, I don't accuse you of knowing the details of it, for I never found the youngsters who did—but you are so familiar with the general character of American history that it does not seem strange to you, but it is a very strange history.

No History Like Ours

"There is none other like it in the whole annals of mankind, of men gathering out of every civilized nation of the world on an unused continent and building a policy exactly to suit themselves, not under the domination of any ruling dynasty or the ambitions of any royal family, doing what they pleased with their own life on a free space of land which God had made rich with every resource which was necessary for the civilization that meant to build up. There is nothing like it.

"Now, what we are preparing to do is to see that nobody mars that and that, being safe itself against interference from the outside, all of its force is going to be behind its moral idea and mankind is going to know that, when America speaks, she means what she says. I heard a man say to another 'if you wish me to consider you witty, I must really trouble you to make a joke.' We have a right to say to the rest of mankind 'if you don't want to interfere with us, if you are disinterested, we must really trouble you to give evidence of that fact.'

"We are not seeking any selfish end and we want the whole mighty power of America thrown into that scale and not into any other. You know that the chief thing that is holding many people back from enthusiasm for what is called preparedness is the fear of militarism. I want to say a word to you young gentlemen about militarism. You are not a militarist because you are military. Militarism does not consist in the existence of an army, not even in the existence of a very great army. Militarism is a spirit. It is a point of view. It is a system. It is a purpose.

"The purpose of militarism is to use armies for aggression. The spirit of militarism is the opposite of the civilian spirit the citizen spirit. In a country where militarism prevails, the military man looks down upon the civilian, regards him as inferior, thinks of him as intended for his, the military man's support and use, and just so long as America is America, that spirit and point of view are impossible with us. There is as yet in this country, so far as I can discover, no taint of militarism.

Officers But Citizens First

"You young gentlemen are not preferred in promotion because of the families you belong to. You are not drawn into the academy because you belong to certain influential families. You don't come here with a long tradition of military pride—any of you. You are picked out from the citizens of the United States to be that part of the force of the United States which makes its policy safe against interference. You are the part of American citizens who say to those who would interfere, 'you must not and you shall not'. But you are American citizens and the idea I want to leave with you boys today is this:

"No matter what comes, always remember this, first of all, you are citizens of the United States before you are officers and that you are officers because you represent in your particular profession what the citizenship of the United States stands for.

"There is no danger of militarism if you are genuine and I for one do not doubt that you are. When you begin to have the militaristic spirit, not the military spirit—that is all right, —then I begin to doubt whether you are Americans or not.

"You know that one thing in which our forefathers took pride was this, that the civil power is superior to the military power in the United States. Once and again the people of the United States have so admired some great military man as to make him president of the United States, to be commander in chief of all the forces of the United States; but he was commander in chief because he was president, not because he had been trained to arms and his authority was civil, not military.

To Enlighten the World

"I can teach you nothing of military power, but I am instructed by the constitution to use you for constitutional and patriotic purposes. And that is the only use you care to be put to. That is the only use you ought to care to be put to, because, after all, what is the use in being an American if you don't know what it is.

"You have read a great deal in the books about the pride of the old Roman citizen who always felt like drawing himself to his full height when he said 'I am a Roman', but as compared with the pride that must have risen to his heart, our pride has a new distinction, not the distinction of the mere 'imperial' power of a great empire, not the distinction of being masters of the world, but the distinction of carrying certain lights for the world that the world has never so distinctly seen before, certain guiding lights of liberty and principle and justice.

"We have drawn our people, as you know, from all parts of the world and we have been somewhat disturbed recently, gentlemen, because some of those, though I believe a very small number, whom we have drawn into our citizenship, have not taken into their hearts the spirit of America and have not loved other countries more than they have loved the country of their adoption and we have talked a great deal about Americanism. It ought to be a matter of pride with us to know what Americanism really consists of. Americanism consists in utterly believing in the principles of America and putting them first as above any other that might by chance come into competition with it.

Americanism the Test

"And I for my part believe that the American test is a spiritual test. If a man has to make excuses for what he has done as an American, I doubt his Americanism. He ought to know at every step of his action that the motive that lies behind what he does is a motive which no American need be ashamed of for a moment. Now we ought to put this test to every man we know. We ought to let it be known that nobody who does not put America first can consort with us. But we ought to set them an example. We ought to set them the example by thinking American thoughts, by entertaining American purposes and those thoughts and purposes will stand the test of example anywhere in the world, for they are intended for the betterment of mankind.

"So I have come to say these few words to you today, gentlemen, for a double purpose, first of all, to express my personal good wishes to you in your graduation and my personal interest in you, and second of all to remind you how we must all stand together in one spirit as lovers and servants of America. And that means something more than lovers and servants merely of the United States.

"You have heard of the Monroe doctrine, gentlemen. You know that we are already spiritual partners with both continents of this hemisphere and that American means something which is bigger than the United States and that we stand here with the glorious power of this country, ready to swing it out into the field of action whenever liberty and independence and political integrity are threatened anywhere in the western hemisphere. And we are ready. Nobody authorized me to say this, but I am sure of it. We are ready to join with the other nations of the world in seeing that the kind of justice prevails everywhere that we believe in, so that you are graduating today, gentlemen into a new distinction.

"No Danger In Noisy Man"

"Glory attaches to all those men whose names we love to recount who have made the annals of the American army distinguished. They played the part they were called upon to play with honor and with extraordinary success. I congratulate you not because you will be better than they, but because you will have a wider world of thought and conception to play your part in.

"I am an American but I don't believe that any of us love a blustering nationality, a nationality with a chip on its shoulder, a nation with its elbows out and its swagger on. We love that quiet, self respecting unconquerable spirit which does not strike until it is necessary to strike and then strikes to conquer. Never, since I was a youngster have I been afraid of the noisy man. I have always been afraid of the still man. I have always been afraid of the quiet man.

"I had a classmate at college, who was most dangerous when he was most amiable. When he was maddest, he seemed to have the sweetest temper in the world. He would approach you with a most ingratiating smile and then you knew that every red corpsle in his blood was up and shouting. If you work things off in you elbows you do not work them off in your minds, you do not work them off in your purposes.

"So my conception of America is a conception of infinite dignity, along with quiet, unquestionable power. I ask you young gentlemen to join with me in that conception and let us all in our own spheres be soldiers together and realize it."

How Cherry Queen Contestants Stand

A little life has been injected into the voting contest for queen the Cherry fair and from now on the chances are the public will become really interested, besides the lodges and stores who have endorsed candidates. As the contest closes June 20, only 13 days remain for friends of the several candidates to get busy and pile up the necessary votes to win.

The vote today stands:

Verna Cooder	34,560
Estelle Wilson	32,050
Gertrude Corey	8,370
Inez Stege	18,990
Minnie Harr	1,260

The Fallacy of Paraffine Base: Eastern oil manufacturers have long extolled the superior virtues of paraffine-base motor oils. But Pacific Coast motorists have proved that Zerolene, made from selected California crude, asphalt-base, gave best results. Their experience is now supported by the testimony of international experts. Lieut. Bryan stated before the Am. Soc. of Naval Engineers: "Oils made from the asphalt-base crudes have shown themselves better adapted to motor cylinders, as far as their carbon-forming proclivities are concerned, than are paraffine-base Pennsylvania oils." Zerolene received highest competitive awards, San Francisco and San Diego Expositions. Dealers everywhere and at service stations and agencies of the Standard Oil Company.
