BIG CHERRY FAIR TO BE IN TWO CHAPTERS

Cherry Fair, Parades and Exhibits Monday--Tuesday for the Fair Grounds

The coming Cherry fair has divided itself into two parts, each entirely separate and each under different management. According to plans arranged yesterday between the state fair board and the committee representing the Commercial club, the state fair board will be given the entire day of the Fourth for the all-Oregon celebration and during the day, there will be no events in the city. At the meeting last evening of the Cherry fair committee it was agreed that the Cherry fair celebration should be limited to one day in order not to interfere with the celebration at the fair grounds on the Fourth.

The plans for the Cherry fair as now arranged will make it an all day celebration on Monday, July 3. The crowning of the queen on the reviewing stand east of the court house will begin the day's celebration, to be followed by the baby parade and the awarding of prizes. The baby parade will be on about the same line of march as last year, around Willson park.

The floral and cherry displays at the armory will be open to the public promptly at noon.

The afternoon of Monday will be given to the parade of the granges from all parts of the county and the automobile parade. Ben West, chairman of the auto parade committee announced that he will bring more than 200 automobiles into the parade and that each will be artistically decorated. A prize of $25 will be offered for the best decorated auto, with a second prize of $15 and a third of $10. Sunday schools will also be interested in this parade as Mr. West plans to offer three cash prizes to the school entering the best decorated auto, the first prize being $15.

Street sports will follow the grange and auto parade. These will include bicycle and running races, and the usual comic and handicap races. Swimming races will also be included in the sports for the afternoon.

During the early evening a band concert will be given at Willson park and the day's events will close with the grand ball at the armory.

The queen and her escorts will be entertained at the Marion hotel Monday. F. G. Deekbach as King Bing and the queen will lead the grand march for the evening ball at the armory.

The question of an industrial parade on Monday will be taken up at the meeting of the Business Men's league this evening.

There will be music at all times as it is probable that the following bands will be kept fairly busy: Cherrion band, Boys' Moose Cherry-bud band, Chemawa band, the Mt. Angel players and the Salem street railway band of 30 pieces.

As the civic and fraternal parade were to have taken place Tuesday morning, on account of the change in plans not to have any celebration in the city during the Fourth, these parades will not be held.

DEMOCRATS WANT

lose it, the convention should devote itself to winning over the states where progressives have been strong and leave the south out of consideration.

No expression on the subject is obtainable from Senator Stone, who is to be chairman of the resolutions committee. The first session of the committee will be held this afternoon.

It was when Glynn eloquently pictured the glories of the peace which the democrats had achieved that the real demonstration burst.

Telling Sentence.

He was called upon three times to repeat the section of his speech "this policy would satisfy the mothers of the land at whose hearts no jingoistic war has placed an empty chair, it does satisfy the daughters of this land from whom bluster and brag have sent no loving brother to the dissolution of the grave. It does satisfy the fathers of this land and the sons of this land who will fight for our flag and die for our flag when reason primes the rifle, when honor draws the sword, when justice breathes a blessing on the standards they uphold."

The yelling from the floor was led by Mrs. Marian Monroe of Washington, a woman delegate.

More demonstrations came when Bryan, his face beamed with emotion, arose from the seat in the press section and waved a flag in the demonstration, evoking great applause.

Amid the applause a Texas delegate arose and shouted "Don't forget that was the policy advocated by William J. Bryan."

It was several minutes before order could be restored.

Another thing which captured the audience for Glynn was the former governor's declaration that a true patriot wasn't necessarily the noisiest man.

There were yells of "name him, name him," from the audience at this epigram. It was significant, however, that Glynn's prediction that the people of the country, if necessary, "would summon themselves to battle with the valor of a Jackson and the ardor of a Wayne." This did not evoke a single cheer.

CONGRESSMAN QUITS

Washington, June 14.—Representative William Kent of California, who has been active in conservation legislation announced today that on account of private business affairs, he would not be a candidate for a re-election.

Would Prevent Judges Becoming Candidates

Washington, June 13.—Senator Thomas, Colorado, today introduced a resolution for an amendment to the constitution prohibiting members of the supreme court being candidates for public offices.

This is in line with the democratic program to assail Justice Hughes' action in leaving the bench for the republican nomination.

CIVIC SOCIETIES WOULD BEAUTIFY CITY

Point Out Some of the Things That Should Be Done Away With

Three of the civic organizations of the city have united in their efforts to improve the general appearance of things in Salem and with this in view, have been asking property owners who are rather careless or not interested in civic beauty, to take another view of the situation. Now that Salem hopes to be known as the city beautiful, the civic organizations are working together for the purpose of giving suggestions and also of urging people to attend civic meetings.

Recognizing that the average property owner is not especially overjoyed when an outsider offers suggestions as to how his home should be kept, the Commercial club, Salem Floral society and the Women's club have drafted a letter of suggestion to those who have become rather careless and who are not imbued with civic pride.

Without ruffling the feelings too much of the party addressed, the letter states that the organizations are working for the good of the city and that the value of property may be enhanced by certain improvements. For instance, if one is keeping a large poultry yard and said yard adjoins the street, things would appear much better if either the poultry yard was removed to the back of the lot or at least rose bushes planted in order that passers by may not be reminded so forcibly of the early days on the farm. Hea houses and the bare ground of a poultry are all right in their places, but when they adjoin the street with the front yard of neighbors, do not add much to the aesthetic surroundings.

The three societies ask the co-operation of all citizens in maintaining a Salem beautiful.

DISTILLATE BURNER LOWERS PRICE OF "GAS" FOR AUTOIST

Salem Attorney Invents Device for Burning Cheaper Fuel In Auto

The high price of gasoline has no terrors for one Salem autoist, Ben Via, by name, who has contrived a device for burning distillate and returned to Salem yesterday after making 70 miles on three gallons of distillate. Mr. Via drove from the coast to Salem and autoists who have made the trip are aware of the bills and the claims that are up the gasoline. Mr. Via's device is a simple arrangement which will permit the autoist to run his machine on distillate alone. When the engine is cold a small amount of gasoline, about a teaspoonful, is required for priming, but after the engine is heated up the machine readily starts on distillate.

By the new arrangement more air is let into the mixture but air is cheap even under the present war prices and it may be safely stated that air is about the only commodity that has not increased in price--on account of the war. Mr. Via has applied for a patent on his device which has been tested under all conditions by Vick Bros. and found to be satisfactory. The increased mileage over gasoline per gallon and the lower price of distillate makes the cost per mile about half the cost by using gasoline according to Mr. Via. He has tried it out on several makes of cars and says that it has proven that it will drive the heavier makes of cars as well as the Fords and Mr. Via expects to secure a patent and manufacture the distillate burner in Salem.

Former Salem Man Is Now In Portland Jail On Auto Theft Charge

William P. Huggins, the son of Louis H. Huggins, who resided at 275 South 14th street in this city, has been taken into custody by the Portland officers on a charge of stealing an auto. Huggins was driving a new six cylinder car at the time of his arrest which has been identified as one stolen from Sol Harris, of Portland, on May 11th.

Young Huggins is said to have made several trips to Salem in the car and to have taken his lady friends out riding while in this city and mowed quite a swath in his new six cylinder car.

He claims that the car was given to him by one Charles H. Garner who won it at gambling. Huggins says Garner was afraid to keep the car but told Huggins that a third party would experience no trouble through the ownership of the auto. Huggins was about Salem for several years and at one time was employed at the Toggery as a clerk and later worked in his father's grocery store on South Commercial street.

HELD AS SUSPECT FOR SEVERAL MURDERS

Kansas City, Mo., June 14.—William Mansfield is held today by the police on suspicion of the murder of six persons in Willson, Iowa, in 1912. Mansfield admits his identity but Agnes Johnson, who also admits he was a former husband of a woman who together with her child, mother and father, was slain at Blue Island, Ill., July 5, 1914. The police believe he was connected with other murders in other parts of the country.

Market Is Firmer But Recovery Slow

New York, June 14.—The New York Evening Sun's financial review today said:

Stocks moved irregularly during the greater part of the session in Wall Street today. Dealings were obviously professional and while some special issues, including copper and sugar stocks, were conspicuously strong and higher, the list as a whole made but indifferent recovery from yesterday's reaction. The undertone, however, was firm. Some of the motor issues and in particular Willis-Overland common broke violently at the outset on the abandonment of the proposed Willys-Durant motor consolidated.

Reading quieted down in the latter session but the strength of the general list was well sustained around the high level of the day. The copper shares gathered additional strength, although buying activity subsided. The motor issues, with the exception of Willis-Overland, rallied to a point materially above Tuesday's closing.

Marine issues and Mexican shares continued soft. The bond market in general was quiet and easier. Wheat sold off on favorable crop and weather news.

Cotton advanced 2 to 4 points for the day.
