STANDING OF THE TEAMS

National League and American League tables with columns: Team, W., L., Pct.

Franklin blew up in the ninth and Portland grabbed another game from Vernon with a sensational Garrison finish.

A flock of hingles and then a wild pitch by Hess, who replaced Prommy, did the work.

At the other end of the Coast line the Angels were being beaten by the Seals in similar fashion, five ball rings in the ninth telling the tale.

The final melody was 6 to 2. Seagins lost his nerve in the final frame and walked three men in a row.

Oakland took Salt Lake into the krull by a 2 to 0 count and now all fans agree that woudlers will never cease.

Every time Heaver Hughes of the Saints got in the booth he strolled around discussing the war with everybody from his outfielders to the bat boy.

Cliff Blankenship was exiled when he tried to give Umpire Dogle a Bill Bryan talk and failed dismally.

Yesterday's hero in the big leagues was Young Tom Hughes of the Boston Braves. He put the Pirates down without a hit or a run in a nine inning game, winning 2 to 0.

The mighty Wagner whiffed twice, the last time ending the game.

The Boston twirler had great control. He fanned seven and walked only two. The Pirates hit the ball into the air most of the time.

Eddie Collins of the White Sox, came to life with three blows, all coming in the run making. Joe Jackson kept up his good stick work with a double and a pair of singles out of three times at bat.

Veteran Vean Gregg of the Red Sox withstood the onslaught of the White Sox until the third inning when Foster was sent in to relieve him.

Misplays proved costly for the Athletics. The Tigers taking advantage of every slip, winning 4 to 3.

Dubue was the only Tiger failing to get a hit.

RAISING OF PEPPERMINT FOR OIL IS TRIED OUT ON MARION COUNTY SOIL

The Peppermint crop is cut with an ordinary mowing machine and cured like hay to be hauled to the distillery.

The Peppermint industry which has gained strong foothold in the rich bottom land in Marion county promises to become a paying business for the land owners and tenants who have soil suitable for peppermint culture.

In Marion county Gus Moisan and E. X. Moisan, of Gervais, have planted 27 acres this year and Manning Bros. and John Kasechek, near Parkersville, have also planted some of their land to peppermint.

O. B. Marshall Pioneer Grower. In Lincoln county, O. B. Marshall, of Albany, the pioneer peppermint grower of Oregon, and other growers have a total of 25 acres, some of which has been producing for several years.

Although the market for peppermint oil is somewhat affected by the war in Europe and the foreign market limited the price of oil has remained high owing to the large home consumption and the quick returns and the ease with which the crop is harvested and cured for has induced many farmers to enter the industry which was formerly limited to the eastern states.

The raising of peppermint for the oil the stalk contains was started on the Marshall farm near Albany by O. B. Marshall several years ago and the results were so highly satisfactory that it has been tried in other parts of the state since.

This year the soil of Marion county was tried and the present indications are that it will produce good yields.

Peppermint is one crop not injured by the rain and for this reason can be cured in the Willamette valley late in the season. A full crop is made within 120 days from planting and one planting lasts for three years without further care for the second and third years.

Any bottom land that can be drained and Beverland land upon which the water does not stand late in the summer is suitable for the raising of peppermint according to John N. Davis of Annapolis, who has taken up the business, and a still suitable for the average crop can be constructed at a nominal cost.

Peppermint roots are planted in rows about 30 inches apart in a shallow furrow and are covered with a harrow. The crop is cultivated with harrows and garden cultivators until the plants meet between the rows and form a mat which chokes out the weeds.

When the crop is ready to be harvested it is cut with a mower, raked and shocked like hay, then hauled to the distillery.

At the distillery it is crushed into huge wooden tubs where steam is forced through it and the vapor arising from the tubs is drained off and put up in cans for the market. The price of the oil ranges this year from $1.80 to $2.50 per pound and on Mr. Marshall's place the greatest yield was 58 pounds to the acre, while he harvested one small tract which yielded 72 pounds to the acre.

The Oregon mint oil tests particularly high in menthol and has an average of about 56 per cent in this state according to the samples which have been analyzed by chemists. The eastern oil tests only 37 per cent menthol and the English oil which has been the best on the market until the advent of the Oregon oil tests 55 per cent.

Any bottom land that can be drained and Beverland land upon which the water does not stand late in the summer is suitable for the raising of peppermint according to John N. Davis of Annapolis, who has taken up the business, and a still suitable for the average crop can be constructed at a nominal cost.

Peppermint has also been cultivated with good results on the irrigated lands near Stayton.

reason for doing anything that might bring our country into the ruin which is only too evident in the European nations.
