

All of Latin America Is Alarmed--Fear We Mean Territorial Extension

By Charles P. Stewart.
(United Press staff correspondent.)
Buenos Ayres, Argentina, June 19.—

News of the mobilization of the American militia stirred intense interest and developed a wide difference of opinion in South America today.

The great mass of the people in South America are bitterly hostile toward the sudden military activity in the United States and look upon the action of President Wilson with distrust. They fear that the United States, despite protestations to the contrary, is planning territorial expansion. They believe that if the United States does not actually propose to extend its boundaries southward, it certainly does propose to attempt a paternal protectorate over Latin America merely as a disguise for the first step toward aggression.

The general opinion of the public is expressed as follows:

Americans in Mexico are now harvesting the well deserved result of their long meddling and interference in Mexican affairs. They are reaping the harvest of blood, which is the inevitable fruit of their political and financial intrigues. Now these plotters, caught in the net of their construction, are calling upon the government at Washington to save them, even at the cost of a long and terrible war.

That public sentiment is solidly with the Mexicans cannot be doubted. In official and aristocratic circles there is evidence of a moderately distrustful attitude toward President Wilson and a mild semi-belief in the disinterestedness of the United States. The attitude of the aristocracy is summed up in the following comment by a government official:

"We do not distrust President Wilson but our people would be pleased with fresh guarantees, in stronger terms, that there will be no territorial acquisition, in the event of actual war between the United States and Mexico."

"Intervention and war are considered the same thing and the situation is causing open anxiety. The failure of the A. B. C. conference at Niagara Falls is recalled with but slightly concealed doubt of wholehearted co-operation on the part of the United States governments of South America.

South American governments undoubtedly will expect a declaration of purposes from President Wilson in the event of hostilities.

Mr. and Mrs. George Rodgers who motored to Eugene Saturday to attend the tennis and golf tournament, returned late last night. They were accompanied home by Euel Kay and Ralph Moores.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Albert and daughters Mary Jane and Josephine and Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Griffith returned Sunday from a sojourn at Silver Creek Falls.

The Naomi Circle of the Methodist church will meet Wednesday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. D. P. Falmoe on North 18th street.

Mrs. E. A. Greenwood, who has been the guest of her mother, Mrs. A. B. Grey returned to her home in Salt Lake Thursday.

One of the pleasantest affairs of the week was the meeting of the Thimble club held at the summer bungalow of Mrs. Fred E. Chambers Thursday afternoon. The women of the club gathered in the afternoon for their usual sewing bee, and were greatly surprised later in the day when their husbands put in an appearance, in response to Mrs. Chamber's invitation which she had kept secret from the ladies. All were served a fried chicken dinner, all fresco, and spent the evening together. Those women present who are not members of the club were: Mrs. W. S. Mace of Nampa, Idaho; house guest of Mrs. J. W. Kays, Mrs. J. A. Straight and Mrs. Byers of Salem, house guest of Mrs. W. L. Chesbire.

Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Briggs left last week for their country place "Pirholt", where they will spend the summer.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Ireland on the Fair grounds road was the scene of a pretty lawn party Saturday in honor of the son Fred's birthday. The grounds were lighted for the occasion and the youngsters enjoyed ring games, while the older folks played cards in the house. A buffet supper rounded out the evening.

Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Ritt Yates, Mr. and Mrs. Charley Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stoddard, Mr. and Mrs. George Stoddard, Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Ireland, and Mrs. Adolph Hoven, Mr. and Mrs. John

EXTREME WEAKNESS AND SUFFERING

Read How Mrs. Goodling got Relief and Strength.

York, Pa.—"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and found it to be all I was sick that I could not stand at my sink to wash dishes and I could not sit without a pillow under me. I had the doctor every few days but since I have taken the Compound I don't have to send for him. I have had three children and could not raise any of them, but since I have taken the Compound I have a bright baby boy. I advise every suffering woman to try it and get relief. It has done wonders for me."—Mrs. CATHERINE GOODLING, 138 E. King Street, York, Pa.

When a medicine has been successful in bringing health to so many, no woman has a right to say without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me." There must be more than a hundred thousand women in this country who, like Mrs. Goodling, have proven what wonders Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound can do for weak and ailing women. Try it and see for yourself.

If there are any complications you don't understand, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential), Lynn, Mass.

ACID TEST APPLIED TO "PREPAREDNESS"

President Watching Course Businessmen Will Take With Employees

By Robert J. Bender.
(United Press staff correspondent.)
Washington, June 19.—President Wilson today waited results of the "acid test" applied to business men of the country in the issuance of orders for national guard mobilization.

On May 30, in Arlington cemetery, the president told 500 veterans of the Civil war that "within a month" it might be up to the nation's industrial chiefs to determine whether the new militia law was to receive the support which might be expected from the business men in their enthusiasm for preparedness.

President Wilson regards the present situation as a strict application of the test.

As rapidly as the war department received first reports today from the different militia commanders throughout the country they were forwarded to the president.

Washington appreciates that a real crisis confronts the president in Mexico. Always a little quick to get excited over international developments, owing to its proximity "to the works," Washington, strangely enough, today is taking the situation calmly. Last night, official and civilian Washington was aroused as it has not been since the occupation of Vera Cruz. The state, war and navy buildings were ablaze with lights until early today.

Highland School Patronizes Library

Highland school pupils are good patrons of library books, according to the report of the year, showing that 3513 had been circulated in the school during the past year.

The room of Miss Ellen Curran of Highland took the lead in that school with 877 books. One year ago this same room circulated more books than any other, the 1915, record being 870. Other rooms with a high record are: Miss Mabel Temple of the Lincoln school, 716; Miss Minnie Cornelius in the Park school, 711, and Miss Daisy Carter's room in the Highland school, 665.

As a rule, the second, third and fourth grades report the highest circulation. Of all the first grade rooms, that of Mrs. Florence Brewer at Highland stood first with 543, the fifth grade, Miss Anna Martin's at Park school with 357 and the sixth grade, Miss Ormine Bushnell's at McKinley with 283.

Among the three junior high schools, Washington school, on account of its large attendance, had a circulation almost double Grant and Lincoln.

In charge of the junior high school libraries were Miss Alma Ashby at Washington, Alta Johnson and Juanita Moores at Lincoln and Clyde Gardner, Cecile Kauts and Gertrude Tucker at Grant.

SALEM GRANGE MEETS

Salem grange met in regular session in their hall on Court street Saturday, June 17, with the worthy master in the chair, the morning session taken up with degree work the first and second degrees being conferred on candidates after which a recess was taken and a bountiful chicken dinner was served to which the members did justice. The afternoon session was called to order and plans for celebrating the third of July with the Cherrines was discussed.

An additional committee was appointed to assist the other committees in decorating the float, the committee appointed consists of Bros. C. L. McNary, Townsend, Gilbert, Howell, Sellwood, McDaniels, Paulus, Jones, Hofman and L. M. Gilbert. Sisters Davidson, Townsend, Keen, Howard, Sellwood and Workman. They hope to make a good showing, but owing to the farmers being busy with their loganberries they may not do as well as they would like.

The lecture hour was taken up by the secretary of state, T. B. Kay, who was invited to speak to the grange. He touched on several subjects of interest to the farmers which was well received by the grangers. He was so well appreciated that he was invited to speak for them again at some future date. The grange then closed in regular form. Potomac grange will meet at Stayton Wednesday, July 21. Quite a few members of Salem grange will be going.

ASK AUSTRIA TO DISAVOW

Washington, June 19.—The state department today dispatched a note to the Austrian government renewing its demands for disavowal of and of reparation for the attack made by an Austrian submarine last winter on the tank steamer Petrolina.

"Have you any dairies for 1917?" "Not yet. Why?" "So much has happened since January 1, that I've used up all of this year's calendar."

Mrs. Mary Evans of Portland returned to her home this morning after a few days visit with the family of J. E. Scott.

Mrs. Julia Young of Independence and daughter Mrs. Alma Glover are here and will spend the summer with Mrs. M. W. Peets and other relatives. Mrs. J. D. McCully and daughter Eula, who have been visiting at the home of E. Cooke Patton and Hal D. Patton, returned to Hood River this morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Zedek J. Riggs and Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Wilson drove the automobile loop of about 100 miles yesterday afternoon, passing through McMinnville, Sheridan, Dallas, Mouth and Independence.

Austrians Cornered.

Petrograd, June 19.—Eighty thousand Austrians were cornered by the Russians when Czernowitz fell and are threatened with capture unless they make a precipitate retreat, according to dispatches received here tonight.

The man who is thought to have an ax to grind is not always listened to with a high degree of respect.

LAMBERT GIRL WAS CHEMISTRY STUDENT

Evidence Shows Class Was at Time To Recite On Cyanide

Courtroom, Waukegan, Ill., June 19.—What is believed to be the strongest blow dealt by the state against Will Orpet was brought in his trial here this afternoon when two telephone operators who had "listened in" to Orpet's last telephone conversation with Marion testified.

Mrs. Ruth Kennedy and Miss Mary Dunn, the telephone operators, both declared they heard Will Orpet ask Marion Lambert to come out on the fatal night of February 8. "Come out Marion, I have something that will fix it," the girls testified Orpet said, to Marion over the phone.

The phone call, they said, came over either the Northwestern or the Chicago, Milwaukee Electric station.

"Hello, Marion. This is Will Orpet. I have something that will fix it," the girls testified Orpet said.

"I have risked too many things already and my mother would get wise. Besides I am sick," was the reply Marion gave to Orpet's request, the operators said.

Later in the conversation, they testified, Orpet said he was going back to Madison on the 6 o'clock train.

Shown in a New Light.

Courtroom, Waukegan, Ill., June 19.—Marion Lambert was shown in a new light—that of a coquette—today, in Will Orpet's trial for her murder.

Ethel Cole, one of the "eighteen bunch" to which Marion belonged, was the witness.

"What did Marion say to you on the day before her death?" the state asked Ethel.

"After school we went to the locker room and Marion said she had just been in the chemical laboratory with Irving Clow and that she had 'got him going again,'" the witness said.

"I told Marion she was a naughty girl, but she put her arms around my neck and said: 'Ethel, I am the happiest girl in the world.'"

This story, brought out by the state, was seized upon by the defense as a point in favor of Orpet. Evidence that Marion had been in the chemical laboratory the day before she died of cyanide of potassium poisoning was also considered significant as was the story of James King, foreman of the coroner's jury, which investigated her death.

King produced in court a chemistry text book, and said this was the book Marion had clutched with stiffened hands when her body was found in Helms woods. Marion's class was to have recited on cyanide the next day. The defense declined to cross question King, considering his evidence had aided their case.

King also identified in court a lock of hair he had taken from Marion's head. This hair was sprinkled with a white powder.

Oliver Rasmussen, another of the "eighteen bunch" said she attended Marion's birthday party a few days before her death, and that Marion was crying because Anna Paulson couldn't stay all night with her.

No, Maude, dear, we would scarcely call it an elopement when a girl allows her enthusiasm to run away with her.

BUNKER HILL IS REMEMBERED HERE

Sons and Daughters of American Revolution Celebrate Anniversary

The battle of Bunker Hill was fought June 17, 1775, and now that Salem boosters of a chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution and also of the Sons of the American Revolution, the 141st anniversary was observed Saturday evening with both organizations in joint session at the Salem public library.

Winthrop Hammond, president and organizer of the Salem chapter of the S. A. R., read a paper descriptive of the battle and conditions at that time that brought on the fight. Mr. Hammond is a former resident of Boston and has been a student of the Revolutionary period. Besides reading his paper, he displayed a large map of Boston and surroundings, showing the location of the American patriots and British troops. J. D. Hartwell who played when a boy on all the hills around Boston besides Bunker, assisted in locating by the map, movements of troops on that historic June 17.

Mr. A. J. Baha sang a number of patriotic songs, accompanied by H. B. Thiesen on the piano. The observance of Bunker Hill day will be made an annual event by the two societies.
