What This Dissolution SALE

Means to You

Don't compare this sale with the many so-called special sales or efforts made by other concerns, as this sale has no competition, if you will consider quality and value. It is a real genuine, bona fide sale for a good reason and purpose, and there will be no let-up to the cutting and slashing of prices in every department until our object has been accomplished. Don't glance at our ads and pass them up as every day store talk; there is not one word of exaggeration in any one of our ads, and while the reductions may seem too good to be true, they are absolutely true and you will find everything here exactly as advertised. Do you realize what such a sale as this means to you, when you can buy high grade furniture, such as you know has always been sold by this store, at prices much less than it can be bought for in any wholesale market today?

Turner Tidings

(Capital Journal Special Service.)
Turner, Ore., June 19.—Dell Robertson is very ill with the measles.
Miss Ruth Purvine, of Salem, was visiting Turner friends Sunday.
Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Edwards and Miss Ruth Edwards attended the stockmen's picnic at Carlton Saturday.
R. D. Gray motored to Sweet Home Saturday. "A Broken Spring" is his excuse for being out until the wee hours of the night.
The H. R. Crawford family have gone to the farm for a vacation.
Aunt Mattie Morris spent the weekend with Mrs. Barzee.
A. J. Houck and family, of Salem, spent Sunday with Mrs. Houck's brother, J. M. Boney.
Tom Cook's have returned to their home in eastern Oregon.
Mrs. C. L. Bannan, of Aumsville, and daughter, Carolyn, took Sunday dinner with J. M. Watsons.
Mrs. J. C. Smith came home Saturday after a month's visit at Springfield and Eugene.
Harley Robertson is a frequent visitor at O. H. Cornelius home. We wonder why.
Mrs. Nadermen planned a surprise on Mr. Naderman Sunday, being his 70th birthday. A very jolly time was reported together with a fine chicken dinner. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gath, Mr. and Mrs. Ahrens, Mr. and Mrs. John Schifferer and R. D. Gray.
Mrs. Lester Smith and Mrs. Lydia

Darby, of Grass Valley, are at the home of Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. M. O. Knight.
Prof. and Mrs. Wilson leave for their new field of work this week.

Storm Broke Wires and Stopped Wedding

Portland, Ore., June 19.—If it had not been for a thunderstorm, Miss Hatfield Hudnut, age 18, would have been Mrs. Arthur Bruggers today. The storm broke the long distance telephone wires Friday night in the midst of a telephone wedding ceremony.
Bruggers was at Harve, Mont., and Miss Hudnut in Portland. Miss Hudnut is a telephone operator. Her fiancé called her by telephone.
"Let's get married right now," he suggested, adding that he had a minister and a license with him. The girl assented.
The minister read the ceremony. Then the wires broke and shattered the romance.
"I think I'll wait until Arthur comes home now," said Miss Hudnut today.
When we see a woman handled up in furs on a cold, raw day, walking hand-in-hand with a little lot of three or four whose sex reach only about an inch above his shoe tops, we don't know which to pity the most—the foolishness of the woman or the plight of the child.

TROOPS WILL NOT

ed not to land until the Mexican government could be consulted. They then returned to the ship but a few hours later returned with arms and again attempted to land. While parleying with Mexican officers at the wharf, a drunken Japanese nearby, in the excitement of the occasion, fired on the two American officers who had landed. The men in the launch, thinking they had been fired on by the Mexicans opened fire. Two Mexican soldiers then arrested the two officers and returned the American fire. Although few shots were fired, two Mexican soldiers and one civilian were wounded. This closed the incident.

"Afterwards explanations were exchanged regarding the incident and the Mexican authorities explained that the Japanese fired first. The American officers were then released."

Secretary Baker this afternoon said he had no information that General Pershing's force have reconnoitered east and west of their present location, contrary to General Trevino's threat that they would be attacked if they did so. There is no inclination to heed Trevino's word and army men would not be surprised if Pershing's men should be moved about slightly, though, in the main, the intention is for them to remain as they are.

America's Mailed Pist.

Washington, June 19.—America's mailed fist confronts the Carranza government today. Orders for practically all state militia service, backed by dispatch of more fighting ships and transports, constitutes the threat. It is the administration's last trump card to quiet a troublesome situation. If this last trump doesn't take the trick, officials fear war will follow.

Some administration officials today frankly admitted a fear that dispatch of 100,000 more men to the border may cause some of the more reckless of Carranza commanders to commit an act that could have only one result.

Officials seemed certain the mailed fist will have the desired effect. They believed, though, that the United States will be thoroughly prepared by the latest step for anything that develops below the boundary.

Calling the militia does not now mean intervention. The policy is still to keep General Pershing's column where it is and to strengthen the border patrol so much as to end the recent outburst of banditry.

The most disturbing thing in a mass of perplexing rumors and facts was the report that Carranza had sent an ultimatum, "demanding" American troops withdrawal within a week.

Carranza Is Powerless.

Behind the militia call last night officials admitted that the Carranza government is growing gradually weaker with a consequent possibility of trouble between that regime and the United States.

The big underlying thing is the economic situation. It is extremely bad, according to official reports. This reacts for trouble by creating a chaotic condition and by stimulating banditry among men whose only sustenance seems to lie in loot.

The militia call, officials hoped, may cause Carranza to make extreme efforts to hold his men in check. But these same officials admitted a fear that the call may fan the Mexican populace into such indignant anti-Americanism that a break cannot be averted. Certainly in some Mexican quarters, the news will be taken as meaning a preparation for a war, authorities said.

The orders issued last night contemplate having about 100,000 more men ready for border work. Where and when they will be sent depends on General Funston's orders. They are ordered to mobilize and camp in their respective states. The troops will not be sent at once to boundary. The war department contemplates relief so that the entire force may not have to be in constant service.

Administration men said today this will prove a big test of how strongly the American people want preparedness. Their response to the militia call will be closely watched, but from reports already in the department, the national guards of numerous states are really anxious and willing to go.

Mexicans Cannot Be Controlled.

The fact that the American troops in the fight Saturday below Banquito were not actually engaged with de facto government forces, and came out unscathed, caused rejoicing here today. The big fear Saturday night was that this might spell the beginning of a new, preceding intervention through clash with Carranza's men. All outward signs—except Carranza's reported withdrawal ultimatum—point to an effort by Carranza and his authorities to keep their men in check. Behind it, however, is a growing disposition among some Carranza officials to be more strenuous in demands upon the United States—perhaps for home consumption, not certainly in a way that displeases this government. The demands of General Trevino that Pershing's forces do not move—except out—under pain of a Mexican attack, is still regarded here as a part of Mexican bombast which will go unheeded.

Army men openly express the fear that neither Carranza nor his commanders will be able to prevent an attack on Pershing's column and consequent precipitation of intervention. Should this occur, they said, war without doubt will follow.

It is feared, too, that the early termination of the chase, would have a salutary effect on future bandit raids.

Border is Ablaze.

El Paso, Texas, June 19.—The border seemed war today.
Preparations were made to repel an attack on El Paso in the event war is declared between Mexico and the United States.

A Carranza move to cut off the retreat of part of the American expeditionary forces was reported.

Confirmed rumors were current that Carranza had sent a messenger to Washington notifying President Wilson that a state of war would be declared to exist between the two countries, unless the United States troops were ordered withdrawn from Mexico within a week. Every available motor truck is in service along the 280 mile American line south of Columbus rushing rifles and ammunition and food supplies to General Pershing's army of 15,000 well seasoned men.

Stretched in a horse shoe curve around them are 50,000 Carranza troops, reported ill fed, poorly trained and badly equipped. American arrivals from Mexico stated famine had reigned throughout the country and declared that the de facto government has sufficient war supplies to maintain its army not more than 30 days.

Carranza's Cavalry Moves.

General Pershing's men are entrenched at strategic points. No frontal attack by Carranza's troops was anticipated.

A comparatively few El Paso husbands and fathers planned to send their women and children to northern cities. Information that 10,000 Mexican troops were hidden in hills within 20 miles of Juarez and its 400 garrison led to fears that El Paso may be attacked.

"I am prepared for an emergency," said General George Bell, Jr., commanding the 5,000 American troops at Fort Bliss. "In case of an attack on El Paso, our military will be ready to meet the invading forces and give a good account of itself."

Battery A of the New Mexico state militia and a battalion of the Twentieth U. S. infantry arrived in El Paso last night to reinforce the troops stationed at Fort Bliss.

Local authorities received word that Carranza cavalry had left Villa Ahumada for El Valle, which is between the American bases at Colonia Dublan and Natividad. General Pershing was reported to have only a third of his forces below Colonia Dublan and the Carranza move was interpreted to be in preparation to cut off their retreat.

The Natividad base has been strengthened by planting field artillery on high bluffs commanding miles of the surrounding country.

Carranza's stand against the continued presence of American troops on Mexican soil is reported to have resulted in a wave of patriotism sweeping Mexico. The de facto governments armies are being recruited to their utmost strength.

General Trevino of Chihuahua is reported to have met President Wilson's military order with a call for Mexican volunteers. A large number of El Paso Mexicans went to Juarez and enlisted. Mexican Consul Garcia sent his family away, but insisted that he would not close his consulate here.

General Bell today announced that General Funston's wishes regarding protection of law-abiding Mexicans along the border in the event of war would be carried out in the El Paso district.

Independence Hotel Damaged by Fire

Independence, Ore., June 19.—Fire which broke out about noon Sunday in the Hotel Beaver, gutted one room of the third story before it was gotten under control. The damage by fire, and by water dripping through to the lower floors, is estimated at about $2000. There is some insurance.

A Mr. Smith was run down and quite badly cut and bruised by a fire truck as the apparatus was responding to the alarm. He was treated by Dr. Butler.

The wife of the chap who buys 20-cent nut sundies for himself generally knows better than to order anything but a "nickel drink" when he's present.
