Over Eight Hundred Attend Summer School

(Capital Journal Special Service.)
Monmouth, Or., July 9.—The third week of the summer session of the Oregon Normal school closed with an enrollment of 805 students. This probably will be the maximum number of students to attend this summer school as there are but three weeks left in the session.

On Friday evening the normal school faculty and students had the privilege of hearing a lecture by Mr. Zueblin, of Boston, who will appear also before the Chautauqua at Dallas. Mr. Zueblin has a world-wide reputation as a speaker and the normal school felt very highly honored to have with them for one evening such an eminent man. His topic, "New Civic Spirit," suggests the nature of his lecture to the normal students. He stated facts about America that most people do not know and brought before the listeners an emphatic and astonishing picture of the condition of our country in and has been in for a considerable length of time. He made them realize that they as American citizens have a great many tasks before them to undertake and that these very important questions will have to be solved before our nation will ever progress along the lines that it should. He told the students with great emphasis that they have entirely different problems to solve in this day than their forefathers had and pointed out many of the questions to them which made everyone present realize the truth. He also said that our United States constitution was a very fine document for the year 1789 but he emphasized that it did not fit the present day and age. Owing to the very crowded condition of the normal chapel the public were not invited to hear the lecture.

Good rentals may be secured and an endeavor is being made to get people to put up houses as an investment. The town has been growing quite rapidly for several months, with every prospect that it will be continued for some time to come. WONDERFUL TALE OF AN ACTRESS

Struggled with Sickness and Discouragement; How Relieved.

Dayville, Killingly, Conn.—"I shall be glad to have every woman know what I know now, after using Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Although I am only 24 years old, I have suffered for the past eight years. I hate the doctors, for doctor told me to give up the stage where I was playing with my husband. I had bearing down pains, my health failed me, and I could not work on the stage, and wasn't able to tend my baby or even get around myself. I was always downhearted and discontented with the world, and only lived for the sake of my little girl. The doctor said to move to some quiet little town away from the noisy city, and I might be able to live and feel well, so I went to Dayville in November. At that time I was so sick I could not walk around, and my husband kept house and I stayed in bed. One day in January I read your advertisement in a newspaper, and I sent for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and started taking it. Within two weeks time I was a different woman, could get around, and felt so good that it was a pleasure to do my household work. I felt contented and happy, and now am the picture of health, and am tempted to return to the stage. We appreciate my health as the most precious thing on earth."—Mrs. H. L. LABADIE GIVES CANADIAN STORIES

After Living Among French Canadians For Many Years.

In the southern part of Canada, in and around the city of Quebec, there lives a people far more interesting and unique than any other class of people on the western continent. These people are the French Canadians, and in their simple life and community fellowship they display a quality that is lacking in the bustling and bustling American.

There is a man coming to Chautauqua who has lived among these people and has studied and learned to imitate them in dialect and story, and he is now presenting all over the United States his French Canadian stories. His name is Francis Labadie and, as his name indicates, is of French extraction himself.

These stories are delightful reminiscences of the French Canadians, and their telling will be enriched greatly in coming from the mouth of one who has lived among these people.
