War Develops Wonders of German Military Powers and English Financial Skill

New York, July 27.—The most influential factor in security markets at present is the war financing of the allies. A new $100,000,000 French loan has been successfully launched through a specially organized corporation, and being an attractive investment promises to find ready distribution. It is expected to be followed by a large British war credit grant; the amount named being $1,500,000,000 and bringing the British total for the war up to over $13,000,000,000. How long Great Britain will have to stand this terrific strain no one knows, but her resources are so vast that the end is by no means yet in sight. Just now it looks as if the war will end before any financial crisis can possibly occur. Germany is also facing the drain far better than anticipated; the real test there being deferred until after the war. A portion of the British loan will most likely be offered in this country when issued; and other foreign loans will probably follow.

A good undertone exists in the stock market, based largely upon excellent home conditions. Trade is very active, considering this is the season of mid-summer quiet; and bank clearings are still running over 40 per cent ahead of last year, the gains being well distributed throughout the country. A satisfactory feature is the reactionary tendency of such commodities as had risen unduly high owing to war demands and actual scarcity. These declines come not so much from cessation of demand as from production overtaking consumption. The principal reactions have been in metals and chemicals which were unduly inflated by war. Breadstuffs are also lower, though hides, leather and fruit are at about top figures. Bradstreet's index for cotton reports were more favorable despite damage from floods in the south. Upon the whole the crop outlook is satisfactory, there being no great gains and no serious deficiencies. In industrial circles no noticeable cessation of action can be observed. The steel trade is still running at practically top speed, and profits of the big steel corporation are reported at the marvelous rate of 30 per cent for the last quarter. Of course such abnormal results cannot last, and it is worthy of note that this unexampled prosperity has not been made the basis of any speculative orgy, as was the former custom. So much for the better standards of conduct which prevail in Wall street than formerly. Railroad earnings abundantly prove trade activity. June reports indicated an increase of 25 per cent over last year, and this rate promises to continue during July. While a portion of this increase is attributable to better rates, the larger volume of traffic is the main and most welcome factor. The question of a railroad strike, which has been discussed, as the men are now voting upon the question of giving their leaders the right to order a strike to enforce their demands. The seriousness of the situation is so great that every effort will be made to avert so grave a public inconvenience. President Wilson has been asked to interfere, and it is thought that sober second thought on both sides will prevent a rupture. Nevertheless this issue will be an important factor in the early future. A change of significance is the improved situation in real estate. Mortgage rates declined from 5 1/2 to 6 a year ago to 4 1/2 to 5 per cent. Vacant office buildings have been largely filled, or ten at lower rates; money is once more seeking investment in this direction; dealings are on a more active scale; building permits are increasing, and the only obstacle to further activity is the high cost of building due to dear materials and the scarcity of labor.

EVIDENCE IN JEANS CASE ABOUT ALL IN Hunsaker Admits Belligerency and Jeans Claims Self Defense

That Robert Hunsaker was severely injured by some person or persons in the fight at Turner on the first day of last April was made clear to the jury in the case of the State vs. Lee Jeans, which was brought up for hearing before Judge Kelly in department No. 1 of the circuit court yesterday. Acting under instructions from the district attorney, Hunsaker bared his body to the jury, disclosing four scars from wounds inflicted during that eventful night, two in the abdomen, one in the back near the shoulder and one on the hip.

Work of securing a jury for the trial was completed at noon yesterday. It proved to be a long process, many of the veniremen having formed opinions in the case, and it was not until afternoon that the first witness was put on the stand by the state.

The jury is composed of the following: J. T. Cooper, salesman, Salem; J. H. Dunlap, fruit dryer, Salem; W. T. Grimm, farmer, Aurora; J. W. Gairard, real estate dealer, Salem; George Lefler, farmer, Aurora; E. C. May, farmer, Mt. Angel; Sim Phillips, insurance agent, Salem; F. Springer, real estate dealer, Salem; E. W. Stubbs, real estate dealer, Salem; G. W. Hobson, merchant, Salem; W. B. Gibson, barber, Salem; George Swegle, farmer, Salem.

Attorneys for the state are District Attorney Ringo and Thomas Brown. The defense is represented by Attorneys Roy Shields and John H. McNary.

Six Witnesses Yesterday.

The case is attracting general interest owing to the wide publicity given the events that transpired at Turner during the street carnival given under the auspices of the band of that town in April, and the seats in the court room are filled with spectators, most of them acquaintances of the parties concerned in the action.

Following District Attorney Ringo's preliminary statement of the circumstances attending the fight which occurred in Turner on the first of April, Attorney Shields of the defense stated that factional trouble is said to have existed in Turner since the installation of the town's present water system. He mentioned also the election contest. He referred to the circumstances leading up to the present trial, he again mentioned the two factions said to exist in the town.

Hunsaker was the first witness called by the state. He was followed by three others during the afternoon, with one other, who could not be located, yet to appear. After this the state rested its case.

Six witnesses had been submitted by the defense when adjournment was taken at 6 o'clock. Following the testimony of Dr. H. J. Clements, a debate arose between the attorneys over the question of evidence relative to the legality of a city marshal deputizing others to assist in arrests when not having a warrant. Judge Kelly ruled for the defense.

CONDENSED STORY OF DAY IN WAR ZONES

News From All Fronts and Sources Put Through Melting Pot

By Ed L. Keen.

(United Press staff correspondent.)

London, July 27.—Hand to hand grapples, grenade attacks and reconnoitering expeditions to the north, violent artillery combats to the south—this was the total of the day's war news as old to-day in statements from capitals of all the warring nations.

General Haig reported "no event of importance," along the British front, but indicated German counter attacks and mentioned hand to hand fighting. The German version of the fighting in this region was that a British grenade attack west of Pozieres was repulsed. The Teutons, however, mentioned an entirely new bit of activity—a British reconnoitering attack southwest of Warneton, and near Richbourg. This is in the Ypres sector where there has been a lull for weeks.

The Berlin statement likewise indicated intense fighting along the northern part of the French front, artillery fire between the Amere and Somme and concerted infantry attacks at Barleux and Fleury. The Teutonic version was that the French had been repulsed but it was stated fighting was still in progress around Fleury.

The Vienna statement admitted retirement of Austro-Hungarian troops before the Russians on the north Galician frontier. It confirmed Russian advantages around Radzievof, close to Brody, but dismissed them as "insignificant." Further advances in the vicinity and along the northern line were claimed in today's Northern official report.

The Berlin version denied this and related repulse of Russian attacks west of Berestecko and around Schitshelara with heavy losses.

This refers to the Russian northern enveloping movement against Brody.

Report of cessation of Italian attacks and a recounting of the heavy losses sustained by the assailants, was included in the Austrian official statement.

made every effort along legitimate lines to get the straight of the story it was not successful in doing so. Warden Minto states this morning that the incident was not of sufficient consequence to warrant the publicity given it.

The fact that the light wires were severed has served to give foundation for a belief that a break of considerable proportions had been planned, and that such break was only prevented by the prompt action of the prison officials. This belief is strengthened by persistent stories that there is a condition of dissatisfaction and unrest existing among the prisoners. Much of this talk is doubtless due to causes apart from the prison and is not entitled to serious consideration.

FRIENDS OFFER BAIL FOR ROY HINTERLITER

Defense Will Be That Others Tried to Fasten Crime on Hinterliter

Olney, Ill., July 27.—Interest in the case of Roy Hinterliter, held to the grand jury without bail for the alleged murder of Elizabeth Ratcliffe, today centered about the efforts of relatives and friends to secure his release on bonds.

States Attorney Morris is making every effort to forestall such a move in the fear that a public hearing of the evidence would disclose many points which the state desires to keep under cover until the trial.

The family has retained County Judge R. B. Wither and many friends have come forward with offers to schedule their property to the sum of thousands of dollars to get Hinterliter released on bond.

Judge Miller will return here August 21 and at that time a determined effort will be made to have him hear a petition for admission to bail.

Additional evidence in the case has been found. One bit is the girl's handkerchief and the other the top of a comb. This was slightly curved and could have been used in performing an illegal operation.

Rumor had it today that Hinterliter's defense will be that he was deceived to come to Olney to see the girl by two letters, one written by the girl herself, and another by a boy friend. The defense, it is said, will endeavor to show that these letters were a deliberate attempt to fasten the crime upon him.

Western Officials Not Afraid of Strike

San Francisco, July 27.—Declaring there will be no strike by trainmen, officials of the Western railroads today stated that they anticipated little difficulty in keeping trains moving on regular schedules. They state that they do not expect the majority of their engineers, conductors, brakemen and switchmen will strike and thus lose their pension rights, but even if this is done, they say, an army of former employes is in readiness to resume work during the crisis.

Executive officials stationed here are confident that the differences will be all settled by arbitration.

WOMEN WILL MIX TEA AND POLITICS

New York Society Leaders to Boom Hughes at Big Pink Tea

New York, July 27.—In our best feminine circles this summer, politics will be mixed in tea instead of lemonade. The Hughes alliance, which numbers among its members such social lights as Miss Anne Morgan and the daughter of E. H. Harriman, has set the fashion. The Democrats announced today that the Wilson campaign would be aided by a regular organization of women.

Effort is to be made to have women discuss politics when they meet at afternoon teas hereafter—not dress and millinery. To set the fashion, Miss Alice Carpenter, president of the Women's Roosevelt League now affiliated with the Hughes alliance, announced today a big tea at the Astor on Aug. 3, where republican politics is to be discussed and where Hughes himself will speak.

The feminine Hughes boosters also made it plain that beautiful stump speakers will appeal for votes for Hughes. Also the women will vie with military stations in maintaining recruiting offices at Times Square and at 95th and Broadway to persuade feminine recruits to enlist under the political banner of the republican party.

That the suffragettes, those not interested in politics, except as a means to secure equal franchise—will do, was still a question today. The democrats were also keeping silent on who will direct the woman's organizations for Wilson, and what it is planned shall be done.

"Do you think a man ought to let pleasure interfere with business?"

"Certainly not," replied Mr. Dustin Stax. "Anybody who enjoys business as much as I do couldn't find any pleasure to equal it."

Two Prisoners at Pen Break Out of Cells

Failure of the lights at the state penitentiary early Monday morning was the warning given the night guards that an escape was being attempted. An alarm was raised and Warden Minto and the guards living in the vicinity of the institution went to the assistance of the night men. Two prisoners were found in the upper corridor. Also were found tools with which they had escaped from their cells. The men were put into the dungeon.

Rumors were current on the streets yesterday of a break at the penitentiary, but although the Capital Journal
