A small crowd gathered last Sunday at P. A. Doerfler's, on his new farm where he is camping for the summer with his Jerseys. An inviting repast was laid and partaken of in the shady grove, after which the gentlemen of the party interested themselves in the thoroughbred livestock, and took a fancy especially to the fine Jersey herd. Those present were the J. C. Griffith and J. H. Albert families of Salem; Jacob Fox and family, and the Joseph Frank and Jacob Doerfler families.
