BRITISH LINER IS RETURNED TO OWNERS

Court Holds She Is In Same Position As Though Abandoned

Norfolk, Va., July 29. — Federal Judge Waddell today decided that the captured British liner Appam should be restored to its former British owners. The decision is against the German prize crew which captured the vessel and brought her here. The court held the German government lost all legal claim to the Appam and her cargo as prizes of war when Lieutenant Berg and his prize crew on February 1 last brought them into the neutral waters of Hampton Roads with the intention of "laying up" the vessel indefinitely. Other salient features of the decision follow: That the Prussian-American treaty of 1799 renewed in 1828 does not apply or control in the case so as to guarantee the prize crew asylum in United States waters and the award of the Appam a prize while the case was in litigation in the United States courts has no effect on the jurisdiction of the courts, that the jurisdiction of the United States courts in the case is established by a long line of precedents including several by the United States supreme court. "The court's conclusion," the decision says, "is that the manner of bringing the Appam into the waters of the United States as well as the appearance in these waters, constitutes a violation of the neutrality of the United States, that she came in with without bidding or permission; she is here in violation of the law; and she is unable to leave for lack of a crew, which she cannot provide or augment without further violation of neutrality; further, that in her present condition she is without a lawful right to be and remain in these waters; that she is between her captors and owners to all practical intents and purposes, must be treated as abandoned and stranded upon our shores; and that her owners are entitled to restitution of their property, which this court should award, irrespective of the prize court proceedings, of the court of the imperial governor of the German empire; and it will be so restored." The decision affects the cargo as well as the vessel. The case will be carried to the supreme court by the German prize crew.

The negro, William Morrison, who recently escaped from the state asylum for the insane, was brought back from Tillamook this morning. He was committed from Tillamook, and went there directly upon escaping from the institution. The return of Morrison leaves but one patient now at large, a harmless man who wandered away several days ago.

Prof. Elmer of the Oregon Agricultural college has been spraying for brown rot in the Sunnyside district this week. The spraying Thursday was mostly for brown rot in fields adjacent to the experimental station. Today the work of investigation is on leaf spot. The ultimate objects of these experiments is to learn just what mixtures of spray are best adapted to this particular locality.

Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Kilden of York, Nebraska, are visiting R. R. Ryan and family, and other York county people here. Mr. Kilden is a delegate to the Knights of Pythias convention meeting in Portland next week. The Kildens visited the Sound country and the northwest generally before coming to Salem, but think the Willamette valley the most delightful section they have seen.

An 8,000 mile trip will be taken by the Rev. James Elvin during his six weeks' vacation, beginning next Monday. He will go direct to New Brunswick, Nova Scotia, where Mrs. Elvin and the children have been spending the summer. They will then visit in Boston, and later at Mr. Elvin's former home, Patterson, N. J. The return trip will be made by way of Chicago and Seattle, arriving in Salem the third week in September.

Announcement of Ford prices and models for the coming year will be made next Tuesday morning. Vick Bros. will receive by wire August 1, the prices that will prevail for the coming year. As to the general model of the car, Mr. Vick does not anticipate any change, although he is under the impression there may be a slight reduction in price. All Ford agencies in the country will receive the announcement Tuesday morning.

The curbing on the fair grounds road is being laid rapidly and at the same time the water company is extending its mains to Highland street, all of which gives that section of the city an appearance of something doing. According to the opinion of those who are competent to judge, the curbing now being laid on the fair grounds road is considered by far the best in the city and at a lower cost than heretofore. Street commissioner Walter S. Low has been given credit for handling all the street work of the city in a business like manner.

Now that a hot spell is predicted by the official weather predictors for this part of the U. S., there remains the consolation that while the central states have been sweltering since July 12, Salem for the past week has been enjoying fine spring weather with the daily maximum as follows: Monday, 81; Tuesday, 75; Wednesday, 74; Thursday, 72 and Friday, 73 degrees above. The recent rainfall this week was local, as the river is falling, with a gauge today of 1.5 feet above low water mark.

Placards are out announcing the great excursion to Marshfield, August 25, 26 and 27. Information is given that a special observation car, similar to those used in the Mt. Shasta country, will be attached to the special carrying the Salem people and that the Pullman cars will be parked at Marshfield wherein the Cherrions and Marshfield will live during the trip. The total fare, including meals and berth, has been figured at $17.30. T. L. Billingsley is chairman of the excursion committee. Information regarding the trip may be had from Mr. Billingsley and the other members of the committee, Wm. McGilchrist, Jr., Wm. Gahlsdorf, Fred S. Bynon, T. B. Kay, U. G. Shipley, and Frank Spears.

The bathing beach across the river will be open for the public tomorrow, Arthur R. Wilson is in charge and everything is in ship-shape, although the formal opening will not be held until Tuesday or Wednesday evening. Yesterday several picnic parties availed themselves of the picnic grounds and last evening about 50 bathers were in the river, even if it was said to be a trifle chilly. The committee of the Civic department of the Commercial club in charge of the beach will meet tomorrow morning at the Commercial club to discuss the proposition of the price to be charged campers and to arrange for the employment of the necessary labor to properly care for and handle the beach.
