SOME SALEM FACTORIES

DEALERS WHO SUPPLY SALEM PEOPLE WITH THE POPULAR HOME PRODUCTS

One of Salem's largest factories and perhaps one of the least supported, is the Capital Monumental Works out on South Commercial street. J. C. Jones, the energetic proprietor, has made a life study of his art and the resultant products turned out from his institution are equal to anything produced in America.

The marble for the fall trade has arrived and Mr. Jones has his corps of assistant marble workers are busily engaged in turning the rough stone, hewed from the mountainsides of Vermont, into beautiful memorials to the departed. This is not only Salem's sole monumental manufacturing works, but one of the largest west of the Rockies.

Mr. Jones' payroll is a substantial one and his institution deserves the consideration of every Salem loyalist.

Mrs. A. B. Kelsey wishes the ladies of Salem to know that this will be her last season in needlecraft, as she is changing her line to women's, misses' and children's wearing apparel, and is catering to the individual tastes of each and every one. You can buy your Christmas things now for less than cost—and also is closing out all hand made embroidered articles below cost.

Business is booming with the Hagel Cereal company. People all over Oregon are drinking the substitute for coffee and Cereo promises to help introduce Salem to the world as a manufacturing center.

One grocery that can supply you with the finest and freshest of vegetables every morning is Busick & Sons. They make a specialty of garden truck and what they don't have under their fizzling fountain (which keeps the vegetables cool and fresh) is quite out of season.

Have you noticed the fine flavor of that ice cream you have been buying from the patriotic ladies up in Wilson park on band nights? That's Marion ice cream. They are not prepared to handle orders larger than 800 gallons, but any lesser amounts placed with them will insure your getting the best and delivered where you want it. "Eat ice cream every day; it's good for you."

We are all glad there is no plague in Salem, but if one comes we are prepared. Amongst Salem's finest drug stores should be mentioned the Red Cross, located at 144 State street. Mr. Prunk makes a specialty of his prescription department and the greatest care is used to insure safety to his patrons. His store is complete, he carries the largest perfume and soap stock in the city and enough of everything to satiate your every want.

Mr. Kelsey is the new manager of the Falls City-Salem Lumber company. Mr. Grier going up to Falls City to instill some of his vigor into the boys at the other end.

Work is progressing rapidly on the new addition to the Hotel Marion. Mr. Miller's personality pervades the entire situation and it's safe to say that the hotel will be completed by fair time.

Metropolitan to the nth degree is the renovated store of Hartman Bros.

YANKS SUFFER SIX STRAIGHT DEFEATS

Teams in the Rut Wake Up and All Scramble for Pennant

New York, Aug. 3.—The long expected turning in the long lane to the American league pennant has apparently been reached today. A series of successive victories by the teams in the rut, of consecutive defeats by others and the shattering of the pennant machine which Bill Donovan had built for New York seem to mark the crucial point in the scramble for Ben Johnson's pennant.

After the game's first half a team has made in years, the Yanks are demoralized and have a record of six straight defeats to date.

The very moment when the Yanks fell from the peak, "Pants" Rowland's White Sox started an upward drive and today are out for their ninth straight. The Red Sox, climbing into first place over the prostrate Yanks, have just taken four straight from the Tigers. Up out of the depths, the sound of Fielder Jones' Browns, with 12 straight wins, is heard, while lower yet Connie Mack's Athletics are set-ed here today that the Misses Fanny Durack and Mina Wylie, of Sydney, the sensational women swimmers who defeated all comers at the Olympic games in Stockholm in 1912 will come to the United States this fall to compete in a series of contests with the best American girl swimmers.

May Legalize Horse Racing
San Francisco, Aug. 3.—The next California legislature will be asked to legalize horse racing by providing for a racing commission to conduct races under the pari-mutuel system of betting.

James W. Coffroth, who will arrive here tomorrow from San Diego, is expected to be the moving spirit back of the enterprise. Meanwhile waiting for such legislation, Coffroth will go east in a few days to induce owners of big stables there to ship their animals to Tia Juana where he hopes to conduct an all winter meeting beginning in November.

Hartzell Steps Down
New York, Aug. 3.—Old Boy Hartzell steps down to the minors tomorrow after ten years under the big top. In sending the veteran to Baltimore to replace Miller, the Yank owners declare the present arrangement is only temporary. Hartzell will probably stay with the Yanks as a scout.

Yesterday's Results.

At Vaughn street—Oakland, 3; Portland, 0.
At San Francisco—Salt Lake, 7; San Francisco, 6.
At Vernon—Los Angeles, 6; Vernon, 3.

Speed Martin was grooving them so fast at Portland the Beavers got but six swats.

Willie of Portland landed a long drive in the bleachers and the umpires only allowed him two sacks on it.

Bill Rodgers booted a tremendous bonder in the eighth, giving the Oaks their third and final run.

Battery errors were responsible for two of Oakland's tallies—Noyes' wild pitch and Fisher's bobble line on.

Risberg of Vernon handed the south-eastern games to Los Angeles with his compliments. The Swede errored twice.

Those Bengals made five other assorted misplays. Can you blame the Angels for winning, 6 to 3?

One C. Hall, a new Angelic pitcherish acquisition from St. Louis, served for the Seraphs, yielding eight safeties.

Salt Lake developed a home running mania and San Francisco lost, 7 to 6.

Seals had a lead to losing two when Hannah's homer rang the chimes three times for the Bees.

The San Franciscans again forged ahead and in the ninth Brief homed for the invaders, winning the game.

Yesterday's big league hero was Davey Robertson, who made three hits out of four times up and pulled off some of the greatest catches of the season when he went backward and sky-ward in the eighth inning for Max Carey's almost sure home run.

The Athletics lost their fourteenth consecutive game.

Despite 21 hits and four bases on balls, the Dodgers made only five runs.

Weaver at short and Ness at first were the principals in three fast double plays the White Sox put over against the Connie Macks.

Grover Cleveland Alexander handed the Cubs a 12 inning shutout.

Eight Giants batted over .300 against Al Mamaux.

The White Sox won their eighth straight.

A fan sitting near the Yanks' who watched the Sox-Athletic game shouted "I smell arnica."

Race Problem Comes to Front in Texas

Dallas, Texas, Aug. 3.—The home of William Conner, a negro who moved into a "restricted" portion of Deere Park, a suburb, was badly damaged by a gun powder bomb early today.

Mrs. Conner and her two children, who were sleeping on the opposite side of the house from where the bomb was exploded, were unharmed. Conner disappeared about a week ago, after repeated threats from white residents of the neighborhood.

Another negro who had moved into the house occupied by the Conners was driven away after a mob threatened him one night. Although a segregation ordinance was passed recently, the police are powerless to enforce it until its legality has been ruled on by the courts.
