music under Miss Minnetta Magers a few years ago, and since successfully occupying the place of music superintendent of the Dallas public schools...

The feminine portion of society has at that throw off the English yoke, in that it no longer makes prolonged visits to England to acquire the art of making and serving tea...

But our "afternoon tea" hostesses in the states, knows too well no unqualified a salted wafer, a crumpet, or a raisin bun may be in competing with the four o'clock appetites...

What the "something more," can best be told by Miss Matthews, herself, a university graduate, and a domestic science specialist:

"Coming to Portland an absolute stranger I have been much more successful than I had ever dared hope. People began coming and they always come back and bring their friends with them...

though I belonged to each of them individually. "No education is worth while unless it functions, and I do my work just as girls in college do it and I think I work under quite as great pressure as does the average housewife, frequently preparing meals for a large party on a very few hours' notice."

That is the modest explanation of the success of the Tea House by its originator, and this is the tribute of a patron, who puts it thus: "The casual frequenter of the Anne Davenport Tea House will tell you about the wonderful view, the wide spreading peaceful valley, the stately green trees and the marvelous sunsets...

 Y. W. C. A. NOTES  Miss Grace Maxwell, city secretary of the northwest field of the Y. W. C. A., arrived in Salem early this morning to be a guest at the association building for the day...

A number of girls from out of town are making inquiries at the association regarding the possibilities of working for their room and board, while attending high school this winter. The secretary of the Y. W. C. A., Miss Cleveland, will be glad to communicate with any housewives in Salem who desire such services.

impending, near furs or materials made to imitate the real thing will be much in evidence. "Eiderella" is one which simulates breadstiff. It comes in narrow strips for bandings and also in yard width lengths...

For frocks we will ape the monks with two materials loosely woven like sackcloth or the coarse fabric of which trunks are made. Like a twilled ratine is "serge moufflonne," and "drapelle" is a close imitation of broadcloth.

Serge and garbancie still continue in favor and there is a lovely thick soft diagonally twilled material, quite new, called "double trykko." As for colors we are to go quite subdued and almost sombre, demurely draped in brown, blue or violet.

Brown in particular is to be much worn and many a smart Fall suit will be done brown. There is a new shade of it called "Senegalais." At least, its name is new and that is about all as it would be hard to differentiate between it and our old brown friend "ste de negre."

Skirts are to be longer to match the days and they do say that fickle Dame Fashion will cast her hoops out of her heart and her wardrobe and return to stumpy, soft, straight lines.

Letters From Home to Annie Bodie "Somewhere in the Effete East"

Dear Annie: I reckon you think because of things you see in the papers that the weather in the Willamette valley has become overheated and is having hydrophobia and prickly rash and sore feet and other concomitants of hotness, but don't you tie too closely to what you read about the weather here. A good deal of it isn't so.

Aw'fly nice folks, the Dilkinsons. So neighborly. Always so sort of distant when times were hard, and so close when times were soft. There are a few Dilkinsons in Salem. They live every where. Always want to talk taxes and the terriblest of 'em. Doesn't make much difference to 'em whether the company is interested or not.

The Dilkinsons are the folks who kick on public play grounds for the children and object to everything that suggests added expense. They are called "the salt of the earth" by folks who don't know anything about salt and who think the earth is bounded on the north by "our" church and on three other sides by "our" opinions.

Don't you think I'm kicking against the Dilkinsons, Annie. I'm not. I'm merely putting you hep to the family. They'll read this and smile. They think it's "our" family I'm talking about. The Lord has been good to the family. He's provided "with the loveliest kind of internal blindness."

Quite a lot of our folks have gone over to Coos Bay this week. Coos Bay has had no railroad connections with the outside world until recently. They're celebrating over there. The joke of this is that the Willamette valley is called "the outside world."
