ROBBED BANK TO GET START IN BUSINESS

San Francisco Robber Talks of His Plans—Ready to Pay Penalty

San Francisco, Aug. 31.—A franc statement that he came to San Francisco to rob a bank and obtain funds to operate a brokerage business was made today by Edward Von Walden, who robbed the Mission Street branch of the Anglo-California Trust company of $8,000 in gold. He has no excuse to offer, save that he wanted money, and says he is willing to pay the penalty for his action.

Extravagance beyond the income his father gave him, caused Von Walden, according to his own statement, to hold up the Hotel Metropole in Detroit three years ago. For this he was sentenced to 10 years in the penitentiary, escaping from that institution July 11 of this year.

Arriving in Los Angeles, von Walden took another name and engaged in brokerage business, where, he says, he was prospering. He resumed habits demanding more money, though, so deliberately decided to rob a bank and use the money in his business.

"I looked over one bank after another here, following my arrival for that purpose Sunday," he said. "I finally picked out a bank at Market and Mason streets, but abandoned the plan as there would be little chance for an escape in that crowded district. Then I chose the Mission street bank.
