BASEBALL RACE IS CLOSEST IN HISTORY

Top Notchers Have But Narrow Margin and It's Anybody's Pennant Yet

By H. C. Hamilton
 (United Press staff correspondent)
 New York, Sept. 7.—"Crucial series" is with us again today in both major leagues. Pat Moran's Phillies who vaulted into the uppermost niche in the Tener circuit, were to stage a doubleheader with the Braves, their hated rivals. In the American league, the Tigers and Browns continue their feud while the battered Red Sox take another joust with Connie Mack's collegians.

The Phillies and Braves accomplished the difficult feat of moving while standing still yesterday, for rain kept them from each other's throats while the Giants were dividing a double bill with Brooklyn. The Phillies are leading by two points over the Dodgers who are in second place, and the Braves are just a game in the rear.

The bitter struggle in the American league with Detroit the villain resembles a fist fight more each day. The Ty Cobbs succeeded in putting a cramp in Eddley Jones' highest ambitions for the season when they barked yesterday's conflict but they must go at it again today.

The Red Sox minus the able services of Bill Carrigan have only the Athletics with whom to argue. Bill was invited to take a three day layoff for his run in with Empire Loughlin.

The White Sox, too, must hold up under the strain for they have Cleveland to dispute in their day's work. Detroit now languishes a game and a half behind the world's champions and the White Sox are pounding along the same distance back of Detroit.

WILLAMETTE TO OPEN FOOTBALL SEASON

First Call to Be Sent Out Soon, College Expects to Have Strong Team

The first call for football will be sent out at Willamette within a few days. Coach Mathews, who has been spending the summer at Everett, Washington, will be here soon, and it will not be long following his arrival before the tryingout process will begin. Those who are in touch with the situation express the opinion that Willamette will have a strong team this year. But one man from last year's team was lost by graduation. There are others who will not be back. But it is understood that a number of the Salem high school stars will enter the varsity this fall, and it is known that several other athletes from different sections of the northwest will do likewise. At this time it looks as if Coach Mathews will experience no difficulty in securing a promising squad.

Eugene papers announce the return of Hugo Bezdek, coach of the Oregon football team, from Chicago, where he has spent the summer attending the University of Chicago medical school. When asked as to prospects, Bezdek said: "Prospects? I never have any prospects until I see my men all on the field in uniform at the first practice." Practice for the Oregon squad will begin September 12, one day after the opening of college, in accordance with a recent ruling that governs all of the schools in the northwest and east conferences, and that eliminates the training camp.

Woman Brings Suit Against Coast League

San Francisco, Sept. 7.—That the Pacific Coast league is a monopoly existing in violation of the Sherman antitrust act is the allegation made by Mrs. Esther Jacobs in a suit to recover $31,500 on file in the federal district court today. The suit is the aftermath of the failure of the Sacramento club in 1914. In addition to the league and its officers, all of the clubs except Salt Lake are named as defendants.

Mrs. Jacobs alleges that the Coast league is conspiring to monopolize baseball in the state by making it possible for players to play only in its circuit. Particular stress is laid upon the fact that the league is a monopoly existing in violation of the Sherman antitrust act in 1914. In addition to the league and its officers, all of the clubs except Salt Lake are named as defendants.

Welsh Offers to Meet White for Any Distance

Denver, Colo., Sept. 7.—That Fred Welsh doesn't fear to meet Charley White over any distance is evidenced by the latest offer of Harry Pollok, manager of Welsh, to match the champion against White for a finish fight of "forty five rounds or more if necessary."

Pollok declared the only stipulation they would make would be that Welsh must get the same amount of money for the fight that Willie Ritchie got when he lost the title to Welsh—$25,000. Welsh's manager expressed his willingness to go to South America for the fight or to put it up to "Baron" Long of Los Angeles to stage the match at Bijana.

Women Get Busy and Bakers Get Scared

Portland, Ore., Sept. 7.—Housewives of Portland are making such determined preparations to fight the "high cost of bread" that local bakers are scared. They will meet tonight at the chamber of commerce to plan a campaign against home made bread—the weapon with which militant wives and mothers intend to battle in the six cent loaf.

Prices Were Irregular but Market Was Dull

New York, Sept. 7.—The New York Evening Sun financial review today said: "Realizing sales and efforts by professional traders who had cleaned up some fancy profits on the long side of speculation to drive market values to levels were effective in bringing about irregular price tendencies in today's session without establishing quotations in the general list materially under Wednesday's closing. Declining movements as a rule failed to hold for any length of time. They failed also to attract important selling, while on the other hand the usual advances recorded brought in new buying, especially in United States Steel and Reading which were leading features of the trading. Reading's big advance naturally encouraged more interest in the railroad group without adding much to the volume of business while the character of

Midshipman Haight Writes Home of Visit

The following letter was written by Midshipman Haight to his mother here, and tells of his visit to Commodore Buser on the big German ship Vaterland in New York harbor.

New York, Sept. 1.

Dear mother—

Wednesday, a. m. I left for New York in quest of a job as quartermaster while on leave. I had my commission as a midshipman along as reference. I had a cadet officer berth offered to me on the Finland which sailed today for England. I would have had a quartermaster berth on the New York sailing tomorrow and the same on the Carpathia. The only hitch came when I tried to make out a passport so that I could get ashore in England. It takes 3 days to negotiate a passport and what's more a birth certificate is required. Having no 3 days to spare nor certificate with me, I gave up all seeing England this leave.

A midshipman, Pat Moran, went down with me as a witness. After I gave up the passport idea, I took Pat Moran over the Hudson river to the Vaterland (Hamburg American largest ship which is interned in Hoboken). The commodore Buser was not aboard at first but Mrs. Buser asked me up and after running by hoards of sentries I finally arrived. I talked a little about Auntie Buser and then Mrs. Buser had the colored steward show us through the ship.

All her chairs and rugs were out of place, all pot flowers, etc., were removed, but the ship's interior was too beautiful and wonderful for me to describe even after half its beauty had been removed. There are 9 decks above the water and the commodore lives on the bridge deck which makes the 11th deck. After our tour of the ship which took some 1 1/2 hours the commodore came aboard greeting us as if he knew us all his life. I happened to have our picture in my pocket which I showed him. He remembered you, and of course knew who Mr. Haight was. We talked in his cabin for 3 or more hours and what he didn't show us about his bridge was just the plain wooden deck.

Wonderful is not great enough to qualify the navigation instruments they carried. He brought out some cigars, and gave us a fine send off. I don't wonder he is such a popular man, for he is just as frank and independent in a nice way as any man alive. We certainly did reel honored going aboard the Vaterland especially as she is interned.

I am disgusted with New York in general and hope it will never be my misfortune to have to return for any length of time, in the future, even though I am a New Yorker. The noise and dirt alone queered me, for the city along with other disadvantages.

I guess the quiet life aboard ship and the naval academy has made an impression on me.
