THE CAPITAL JOURNAL GETS LARGEST CHECK EVER ISSUED IN CITY

Check Is For Only One Dollar But Is One Foot Wide, 28 Inches Long

The largest check ever issued in Salem will be in circulation within a day or two and arrangements will be made whereby the average citizen may have a look at it and possibly taken an interest in its circulation.

The check was drawn on the Ladd & Bush Bank and arrangements have already been made whereby the bank will handle it to the satisfaction of all concerned.

The bank has quite often cashed checks for more than $100,000 in handling the business of the state, but this check is larger than any required even by the state of Oregon.

It is large, in fact the largest ever seen in town from the fact that it is 12 inches wide and 28 inches long; it is dated September 11, 1916, and reads: "Salem Commercial Club: Pay to the order of the Capital Journal, One Dollar or order" and is signed by Jos. H. Albert, president of the Commercial club, Chas. H. Fisher, secretary, and Ivan G. McDaniel, manager.

From the Capital Journal office, it will be passed out properly endorsed in the payment of One Dollar. The first party to receive the check will use it again in the payment of the one dollar and will endorse on the back.

And thus the largest check ever drawn in the city will start on its way paying the amount of the check and endorsed by every party handling, until the 28 inches of space on the back of the check has been entirely covered.

The object in issuing so large a check is rather in the way of an object lesson by the Commercial club to show what money will do when it is kept at home and when the home money is kept busy.

After there is no more room for endorsements on the check, it will be photographed and later framed for display in the Commercial club.

A convention of international labor union presidents has been called in this city to decide whether there will be a general strike of New York's 800,000 trade unionists in sympathy with the striking carmen, it was reported this afternoon.

A Third avenue car was wrecked at 84th street by a mob that carried the motorman and conductor off to headquarters despite the intervention of two policemen. The crowd put the electric control out of commission and the car, stalled at a street intersection, blocked traffic both ways.

is under the direction of the California development board and the 25 boys coming were those who were successful from 117 who entered the contests, representing 107 high schools. It is probable that the student body of the Salem high school will send representatives to assist in entertaining them while they are shown around the town and the nearby flax fields.

Miss Mary Gertrude Fendall of Baltimore was in the city in the interests of the Woman's national suffrage party, spoke this afternoon at the court house, at the meeting of the Woman's Political study club. She preferred to what had been done in the 63rd and 64th congress towards the enfranchisement of women and commented on the president's speech at Atlantic City. She feels that the president was rather vague in his remarks as to woman's suffrage and that it would have suited the women much better if the president had said something definite. She says the woman's party is strictly non-partisan and all it wants is the suffrage by congress. It is the principle of Susan B. Anthony amendment, which provides that the right of citizens of the United States to vote shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any state on account of sex. Miss Fendall will travel in the southern part of the state and Miss Margaret Whitmore of Detroit, who accompanied her, will return to Portland to engage in the work.

Fire at the Murphy hop yard, five miles south east of Independence, owned by H. A. Livesley & Co., destroyed five kilns and a store on Sunday morning. In the store room were all the hops that were picked last week. It is estimated that the loss on the kilns will be $6,000 and contents of the store room about $7,000, covered by insurance. The loss on the unpicked hops has not yet been determined.

Times are surely changing and the automobile is to blame for it. Saturday there was not the usual big crowds in town from the country either in the morning or afternoon for the big circus. With his auto handy for a quick ride of ten or fifteen miles, the farmer now stays home for the regular day's work, and attends the show in the evening. The circus was not so well attended for the afternoon performance, but the crowd was surely there for the evening show.

The farmers perhaps more than the business men are rejoicing that the stamp revenue act has been repealed. On every bill of lading for the shipment of cream to the city, it was of course necessary to affix a one cent revenue stamp and for convenience, every farmer shipping cream had a supply on hand. The Ladd & Bush bank has been rather busy today redeeming these revenue stamps and the farmers have been the best customers, bringing them in in amounts from five cents to one dollar.

On the morning of October 17, twenty five boys from the high schools of California will stop a few hours in Salem and will be entertained by the Commercial club. The University of California and College of Agriculture at Berkeley each year offers free trips to the 25 boys who can make the highest record in crop raising and the boys who are coming are the prize winners, all from high schools. LIVESLEY HOP YARD PLACED IN QUARANTINE

Portland, Or., Sept. 11.--State health officers today established a practical quarantine at the D. O. Livesley hop yards in Marion county, as the result of an infantile paralysis case in Portland. The victim is said to have come from the yards. A restriction was placed on families leaving it.

MARION ASSESSMENT THIS YEAR 42,000,000

Reduction From Last Year About $500,000--Several Reasons For It

Marion county's taxable valuation for 1916 will show a decrease from 1915 of about $500,000, according to County Assessor West. The exact amount of decrease will not be known until late in November, when the state tax commission will complete its assessment of the public service corporations and apportion each county's share of this class of property.

Assessor West estimates that the final valuation of the county will be in the neighborhood of $42,000,000. This compares as follows with recent years:

Table with 2 columns: Year, Valuation. 1910: $39,072,737; 1911: 42,322,201; 1912: 42,785,026; 1913: 43,629,958; 1914: 43,450,035; 1915: 42,506,687.

The decrease of valuation is accounted for in a number of ways. The withdrawal of the Oregon-California grant lands from the tax rolls, the settlement and distribution of several large estates, the decrease in the matter of public service corporations, and the fact that more attention has been paid to an equalization of property in the past two years, owing to the stringency of the times, have all contributed to the general result.

In Multnomah county the decrease in valuation in 1916 over 1915 is $20,000,000.

The county board of equalization is in active session today.

POLITICAL SPEECH MADE FROM PULPIT

Preacher Woodrow, Cousin of President, Makes Stump Speech In Church

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 11.--President Wilson was flayed from the pulpit of the Pilgrim Congregational church by his own kin yesterday. The Rev. S. S. Woodrow, a cousin of the chief executive attacked the passage of the eight hour law in a sermon "A menace to free government."

Dr. Woodrow said he spoke as "a free American citizen in bondage neither to capitalists nor labor unions."

He said the settlements of the recent railroad situation was "enough to cause alarm to every thoughtful person and believer in free government."

The chief points of Dr. Woodrow's sermon were: "The most pitiable exhibition was that of a president and congress frightened into a line funk by the demands of a small portion of the citizenship."

"This raises the question whether congress is any longer a deliberate body or a servant of the chief executive, or of any mob that goes to Washington with clamor or threats."

"Oh, for a dozen Tom Reed's in the halls of congress today."

"I trust we never again may feel any group, either of capitalists or laborers, can go to Washington and demand concessions under threats."

"It would have been better for the people to go on short rations. There are worse things than being hungry."

AN ELECTION STORY

Leviston, Maine, Sept. 11.--A falling off in the expected heavy democratic vote for Congressman McGillicuddy of this district was declared this afternoon by republican leaders to have been established in the early run of balloting.

Democratic leaders ridiculed claims of any loss in democratic votes here.

Sales for the day were 1,215,000 shares. During the first hour today 425,000 shares were traded in, and during the closing hour 301,000 shares. U. S. Steel closed at 104 1/8.

Promise Early Relief From Car Shortage

Early relief from the car shortage which has been making so much trouble for Willamette shippers is promised. A letter from Assistant General Manager Dyer of the Southern Pacific company was received at the office of the state public service commission this morning. The letter says: "We are rushing cars as fast as it is possible to get hold of them in California, and hope that in the near future we will have the car shortage situation back to its normal situation."

The development of the the next few days are anxiously awaited.

EMERGENCY BOARD HAS HOT SESSION

Senator Day Tells Governor He Is Economical In His Use of Truth

"There has been a continual lack of co-operation in this flax matter. Sherwood and Minto and the rest of them have tried to kill the flax industry. I have worked myself almost blind in an endeavor to make the flax experiment a success, but my every move has been opposed by Mr. Oleott and the Portland Journal, and now Senator Day has joined the opposition."

Thus in effect did Governor Withycombe express himself this morning when the shortage in the amount of money necessary to carry the flax work to the first of January was brought into the discussion by Senator Day.

Senator Day replied to the governor, "That is a deliberate falsehood," he said. "I did not come up here to be insulted by you, sir."

The state emergency board, which consists of Senators Selling and Day and Mr. Cobb, met this morning for the purpose of considering the question of deficiency existing in the amount of funds required by several of the state institutions, as well as the flax department, to carry them over until the legislature shall have made appropriations covering the matter. This deficiency is explained on the grounds that the appropriations by the last legislature did not provide for the increase in population in the institutions, which increase has been general.

According to the estimates made by the superintendents of the various institutions and presented at this meeting, a total of $70,000 would be needed before relief can come otherwise than through the board.

An opinion from the attorney general favorable to the creation of a deficiency in all the items except the flax, was presented, but even this did not satisfy Senator Day, who was here, he said, to get at the bottom of things.

"As I understand the constitution," he said, "we cannot expend more than $50,000."

It was the opinion of the other members of the board that their authority was ample to provide for the entire deficiency, and this question in its discussion occupied a greater portion of the time consumed in the morning's deliberations of the board.

These deliberations were marked by frequent personal flurries, the governor rising to the defense of the flax industry whenever that particular branch of the state's activities was brought up.

"Mr. Oleott has referred to it as 'political quibble,'" said the governor indignantly. "He has been in consultation with Senator Day this morning for the purpose of discrediting the industry."

"I met Senator Day this morning," said Secretary Oleott, "and he asked to see a copy of the code, that is all. The charges of the governor are absolute piffle."

Another feature of the morning's session was the appearance between the board of Supreme Court Reporter Turner, who stated that the appropriation provided for paying for his services had been exhausted, and that he would ask that provision be made to pay him for four volumes at the usual rate of $500 per volume. This brought up a query or two from Mr. Cobb, who wanted to know whether the state wasn't paying too much for this service. But the matter was not settled.

In a session this afternoon the board decided to provide for all deficiencies excepting in flax.
