Fair Ground Crossing Declared Dangerous

Acting on the belief that the crossing of the Southern Pacific railway at the state fair grounds is a menace to the safety of many people, H. H. Cory of the public service commission has addressed the following letter to E. L. Burkhalter, superintendent of Southern Pacific at Portland:

"In the interest of safety first we wish to direct your attention to the extremely hazardous condition of the crossing of your track at the fair grounds station, which is yearly traversed by thousands of patrons of the state fair. Owing to the fact that the crossing is not planked or graveled the rails and ties project above your right of way to such an extent that people often trip and fall. You will recall that some three or four years ago a young man lost his life by tripping on the rail at this point and falling in front of an approaching passenger train. Last year the writer observed one person falling and receiving a severe scalp wound.

"We believe you will agree that at small expense an extremely hazardous crossing can be placed in a greatly improved condition by planking or graveling the crossing above mentioned. This should receive your prompt attention, as the state fair begins September 25th."

The Ford assembling plant at Portland has been unable to receive shipments for the past three weeks. Hence those who had been saving up their spare change to do a little motoring of their own have not been able to motor. But everything comes to someone who will wait long enough and the announcement is made that a car load will arrive in the city tomorrow.

Mr. C. Elmore Grove of Portland visited in Salem today, returning late this evening.

STYLE and the WOMAN

In selecting a garment the greatest problem before a woman is to achieve correct style without sacrificing her individuality--her personality. Not only must she patronize a store with a reputation for fashion accuracy, but she must also choose that store which offers styles in great range of varying details and colorings. In other words, you must select from fashion's allurements that garment which was associated with you in the designer's imagination. Come and see that garment.

CAR SHORTAGE GROWS SO DO THE COMPLAINTS

Car shortage complaints are still being received at the office of the public service commission. The following letter from the Ewanna Box company of Klamath Falls came in this morning's mail. It is a copy of a letter addressed to E. O. McCormick, vice president of the Southern Pacific railway company, at San Francisco:

"We have wired your company many times this year and quite often within the last sixty days for cars in which to load shooks, and we appreciate your having answered nearly every telegram, although we have not received cars in sufficient numbers to keep our factory operating any longer.

"We have 130 car loads of shooks piled in and around our warehouses. Much of it, approximately 130 car loads, is piled in the open and is subject to all the elements of the weather and much damage is being done to this particular shooks.

"We have three warehouses all full, including aisles and alleyways, and our cost of loading cars from warehouse in this condition requires twice the ordinary time and is therefore twice the expense to us.

"Our customers are in distress for want of shooks, and we have it to supply them, but you are not furnishing us cars.

"The Klamath Manufacturing company of this city receives sufficient cars from your company to keep their factory operating full time. Their warehouse is not nearly full, and they were obliged to operate four hours Sunday in order to complete loading four cars placed for them that day.

"We are manufacturing twice as much shooks as that good concern, yet they are receiving practically as many cars for shooks as we do. We do not know whether or not this is discrimination, but we do know that our cost of operating has increased 25 per cent since we have been unable to secure cars, and about 20 per cent of the shooks piled in our yards is being destroyed by weather conditions.

"Our customers' patience is beginning to cease. They want the shooks and therefore we want the cars.
