WOMAN HISSED FOR ATTACKING WILSON

Tactless Female Insults Visiting Governors, Guests of Our Own

A chorus of roos and hisses greeted Miss M. G. Fendall, of Baltimore, Md., yesterday when she assailed President Wilson in a suffrage speech when she made her talk at the Governor's Day exercises where Governors Withycombe, Lister, of Washington, and Alexander, of Idaho, made short addresses at the new auditorium at the fair grounds. The audience which had applauded enthusiastically when the governors and other speakers on the program were heard, began leaving the auditorium when Miss Fendall made her attack on President Wilson, and it was necessary to rap repeatedly for order before quiet could be restored. The greater part of the crowd, however, filed out quietly and refused to listen to her remarks against the president.

ROOSEVELT SPEAKS

went down with the Lusitania, and of the 'oppressed men and pitiful women who have been murdered and ravished in Mexico.'"

As to the way in which the president met the railroad crisis, Roosevelt declared it a "surrender to brute force." He went into great detail regarding his settlement of the anthracite coal strike and said the administration "erred in not insisting on a full hearing and giving every one the complete facts, and then submitting the case to a special commission."

Arrived at Battle Creek. Battle Creek, Mich., Sept. 30.—Colonel Roosevelt came to Battle Creek today to inject some ginger into the presidential campaign. He said so himself. He is to speak late this afternoon at an old-fashioned barbecue and rally on the circus grounds under the auspices of the five surrounding counties.

Whereas, There is no field of real "preparedness" that may be practiced more profitably, and Whereas, October 9 is the anniversary of the historic Chicago conflagration, therefore, I do hereby designate Monday, October 9, 1916, as Fire Prevention day in Oregon. And I urge that on that day, organized effort may be made throughout the state to encourage a campaign that will lessen fire hazard.
