SCHOOL LIBRARIAN FILES HER REPORT

Has Had Busy Season Getting Books In Shape—Money Affairs. Cora M. Case, Salem public school librarian, states in her report for the last quarter that during the summer she was busy returning books from the grade schools to their places in the educational room at the public library, taking an inventory for missing books, and making needed repairs on all the books. The last task she says occupied the most of the time as it included a general fumigation and the handling of every book in the collection. She washed seriously soiled books with soap and water, erased pencil and ink marks and removed a large number from their cases and recased them. Those of more value and better condition that were worn in the binding were sent to the bindery.

NEW PRESIDENT IS SWORN IN TODAY

First Radical to Hold the Office Inaugurated at Buenos Aires. (United Press staff correspondent.) Buenos Aires, Oct. 12.—Dr. Hipolito Yrigoyen, Argentine's first radical president, was inaugurated today with the most simple ceremonies that ever marked such an event in the southern republic.

Dr. Yrigoyen finally yielded to the pleadings of his friends and rode to the capitol in a taxicab. His only other concession to formality was a frock coat and silk hat.

Sworn in at the capitol, the new president did not break his long established rule against making public speeches. He took the oath of office, bowed, uttered a modest stage catch and was driven through the streets.

Despite his anti-United States writings, Dr. Becu is again reported to be the likeliest choice for foreign minister.

University Notes

Results of the first rehearsal of the University Choral society are very gratifying to Dr. Frank Wilbur Chace of the department of music and director of the new musical organization. About 75 students and musically inclined townspeople turned out Tuesday evening and basing judgment on the enthusiasm and interest shown in the prospective course, the society undoubtedly will make a mark for itself when the big oratorio are presented next spring. Dr. Chace has chosen "Fair Ellen" by Max Bruch, a celebrated musical masterpiece based on the siege of Lucknow about which so many stirring tales are recorded in the annals of history, as one offering and the famous "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast" by Coleridge-Taylor as the other. All students enrolling for the course will be given one full credit in the regular university curriculum for their work in the chorus, but no credit will be given unless the work be taken for the year. A cordial welcome to join the chorus rehearsals of the society is extended to all music lovers who may be interested. The hour of practice is between 7 and 8 o'clock each Tuesday evening of the school year.

Further evidences of the need of larger quarters for the growing departments of the university is seen by the recent removal of the biological laboratory to the old medical building at the corner of State and Winter streets. Here ample accommodations for intensive work of the department may be carried on much more effectively. The first floor contains lecture rooms, the second laboratories and herbarium, and additional laboratories are to be found on the third floor which are particularly adapted to microscopic study and analysis. Professor M. E. Peck, who is in charge, has had many years' experience both as an instructor and as a traveler in Central America where he studied the native plants and animals at first hand for three years.

To Mrs. Frank Wilbur Chace were awarded two blue ribbons at the recent Oregon state fair for high class amateur kodak work. She received the highest awards offered for contact prints and a set of portraits. Under her supervision a series of special prints illustrating the wonderful possibilities of "good roads" work are now being printed.

That Willamette students intend to run a campaign to accompany the team either to Albany on October 21 or to Portland on November 25, is the consensus of opinion among the live wire boosters at the university at present. As the matter has not been formally presented for student body action, which place will be invaded by cardinal and gold supporters is not known as yet, but the odds appear to be in favor of invading the Multnomah county metropolis.

Announcement has just been received from Mrs. B. E. Tait, business manager of the Portland Symphony orchestra, that Willamette students may try for the competitive prize offered by that musical organization for the most appropriate cover design for the orchestra program. The competition will be open until October 24. Whether any students will enter the contest is not definitely known as yet.

Of special significance to the university is the announcement by Prof. Wallace MacMurray, head of the rhetoric department, that a 32 page quarterly magazine will be issued by the English department, the first issue appearing next week. The title chosen by the professor is "Box-Crafft," which is the old Anglo-Saxon for what is translated today as book skill. All contributions to the magazine are selected from work of students enrolled in the professor's English classes, and as the registration for such work is over 200, many fine literary articles will be available for publication. In content, the magazine will be of superior literary merit, varying from serious and sonnets to dramas, short stories and essays. The cover design will be conventional with good taste and will be standardized for the year. No advertising is to be carried as all expense of publication is to be met with from a dollar tax levied on each student enrolled for work in the department. The work will not be illustrated. About 300 copies of the issue will be published. Prof. MacMurray is the sole editor.

Members of the junior class plan to hold a picnic supper and enthusiastic get-together on the banks of the Willamette Saturday evening. A committee to make arrangements was appointed by President Arlie Walker yesterday afternoon.

Intense discussions of the past few weeks have culminated in the proposition of the Marion county republican league to form a Charles Evans Hughes Alliance among the Willamette enthusiasts in the near future. Russell Brooks, treasurer of the Salem Hughes club is behind the movement. His offer to participate in all the old time glory of the torchlight procession is being seriously and enthusiastically received by the Hughes men of the university and formal acceptance of the offer will be made at an early date.

If the first three issues of the Willamette Collegian may be taken as a criterion of the standards to be maintained throughout the year, Sam R. King, the editor in chief, may well be congratulated for his efforts to give Willamette a creditable weekly newspaper. From first to last the issues have been full of the snap and spirit of the rah rah boy masterfully blended with the conservative ideals of the modern college. The editorials show a determined stand on problems affecting the welfare of the student body and alumni and are noticeable for their frank aggressiveness. Under the care of Miss Carrie Cooksey the social life of the university is mirrored with entertaining dignity, as is in fact the many other features of the official student body exponent. Much care and discrimination is shown in the arrangement of the news which speaks well for the executive efficiency of those responsible for the makeup of the newspaper. About 34 issues will be published this year.
