SOCIETY

By ALINE THOMPSON

Mrs. Robert Chauncey Bishop entertained yesterday with a charming tea for her sister-in-law, Mrs. Roy T. Bishop, who with her attractive little child left this morning for her home in Pendleton.

About 40 matrons and maids called to greet the visitor. A group of prominent matrons assisted the hostess.

An event of tonight is the dinner dance at the Hotel Marion.

Society is joyously welcoming these affairs, and they give every promise of becoming very popular again this season.

Mr. and Mrs. Rollin K. Page motored to Portland Tuesday, returning Wednesday night. They were accompanied by Mr. Page's sister, Miss Alvina Page who was returning home after a several days visit in Salem.

Mrs. James Withycombe and daughter, Miss Mabel Withycombe, motored to Portland Thursday for a short visit.

The Daughters of the American Revolution, who were to have met this week at the residence of Mrs. Homer H. Smith, will instead, gather at the Commercial club Saturday (tomorrow) afternoon, to hear President Carl Gregg Doney of the Willamette University, who will lecture on "Immigration."

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Livesley will entertain as their guests tonight for the dinner dance at the Hotel Marion, Mr. and Mrs. Tracy Poorman of Woodburn.

The members of the "Round Dozen Club" were pleasantly entertained on Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. G. L. Davidson, on Indian Hill.

The afternoon was devoted to needlework and an interesting contest. Later the guests enjoyed refreshments at a table prettily adorned with flowers.

Mrs. Jesse McKnight entertained the Country Card Club with a delightful "500" party at her home in Keizer on Thursday afternoon.

Guests made up two tables of "500" and the rooms were prettily decorated with yellow chrysanthemums.

Those playing were Mrs. Seymour Jones, Mrs. J. W. Woodruff, Mrs. F. Chapman, Mrs. George Doud, Mrs. Minnie Frogley, Mrs. J. W. Wilson and

Mrs. George Pearmaine.

The Salem Woman's Republican Study club will meet on Monday afternoon, October 23 at 2:30 o'clock, in the Republican headquarters, 115 North High street.

Mrs. Rollin K. Page will give an address on "The Amendments to be voted on at the coming election" and all interested are requested to come prepared to ask questions on the subject.

The annual children's festival will be an event of tonight at the Moose hall. A feature of the evening will be the fancy dances by about 30 of Salem's most talented little artists.

These entertainments, which are a yearly occurrence, are highly attractive and reflect special credit on Mrs. Ralph White, who directs the youthful participants. The programme will include, not only fancy dancing, but several piano and violin solos and readings. After the entertainment the evening will be rounded off by dancing and refreshments.

The monthly coffee of the general aid society of the Jason Lee church was given on Wednesday afternoon, at the home of Mrs. Edward Tallman, on the Fair grounds road.

A brief business session preceded a social time and the refreshments.

Mrs. Harry E. Clay was a visitor in Portland today.

Scarcity of Pheasants Due to Sleet and Snow

It is the opinion of sportsmen in general, in placing the cause of the scarcity of game birds during the past season, that snows of last winter and the wet spring following were the causes that made the game scarce. Sportsmen while looking for birds interviewed farmers in the country around about Salem and in the districts south and west, and the report is that last winter the sleet and snow got on the feathers of the pheasants until their wings dragged the ground. In this condition they could secure no food and dropped on the snow from exhaustion.

In the spring the rain was the cause of the death of the young broods. All these things taken together caused the flocks to be greatly reduced and left much to be desired in the past season's shooting.

ANTI-WILSON WOMEN ARE AGAIN REJECTED

Eugene Women Decline to Join "Women's Party" Activities on Suffrage

(Eugene Daily Guard)

A second attempt to organize a branch of the women's party in Eugene failed when Mrs. William Kent met with a party of women in the tea room of the Osborn hotel yesterday evening. Mrs. Kent outlined the position, stating that she is certain that Mr. Hughes will support the Susan B. Anthony amendment if he is elected to the presidency of the United States. She also asserted that the democratic candidate has merely endorsed the adoption of suffrage by states, which, she claims, will withhold the ballot from the majority of women indefinitely.

"We are asking you women who already have the right to vote to help us in the non-suffrage states who have no other hope than a constitutional amendment," said Mrs. Kent. "There are ironclad constitutions in the eastern and middle western states that can never be changed, and so it is only through congress and the president that we can hope to realize our rights. By defeating the democratic administration we will surely attain our end."

During the discussion that followed, Mrs. Kent was confronted by the fact that Mr. Hughes has never in a public speech declared himself in favor of national suffrage, but that the only evidence of his stand on the question is a telegram which he sent to a senator from Utah, a suffrage state, immediately after his nomination, stating that he was in the favor of the amendment.

Believes in Hughes

Mrs. Kent replied that although Mr. Hughes has not declared himself, and even though Mr. Wilson has said in speeches that he is in favor of suffrage she and the members of her party are of the belief that Mr. Hughes will really do more than President Wilson.

Mrs. Kent was asked why Mr. Hughes has not voted for suffrage. She replied that Mr. Hughes has been in Washington since 1910, and could not vote while in the District of Columbia. This statement brought out the information from one of those present that Mr. Hughes was at all times a voter in New York, and could have cast his ballot if he had so wished. President Wilson, it was stated, went to New Jersey to vote for suffrage, and there was nothing to prevent Mr. Hughes from doing the same. He has not changed his place of residence, it was pointed out, for he is running for the office of president as being from New York, and not from Washington.

In conclusion, the women present said that they believed the single telegram sent by Mr. Hughes to the Utah senator upon request is not enough. Hence Mr. Hughes' intention to warrant the formation of a party in his support, and that the movement for the suffrage amendment to the constitution will only be harmed by the policies of the women's party.

Miss Margaret Whittemore spoke for the women's party at a meeting of the Neighborhood club yesterday. Her talk was the same as that of Mrs. Kent, according to those present.

Party is Fallacy

"These women sound plausible enough and I fear that they are being taken too seriously by a number of those who hear them," said one of the women present at the Osborn hotel yesterday. "However I hope that the women of Eugene will not prove themselves so glib as to jeopardize the cause of suffrage by believing the women's party to be what it seems. We have Mr. Wilson's word made public that he will do all in his power for the advancement of suffrage. Mr. Hughes has never said in public that he would do so. The cause, also, has made just as much progress during the present administration as it has done in the past. I have no doubt that the republican candidate will do all he can for us, but it is cannot be more than that, President Wilson. Therefore, why should we women be led by a fallacious hope that we are going to help rather than hinder our cause by taking sides in the political campaign?"

"Dear Aunt Cora" Is Salem Businessman

There may be nothing new under the sun, but a prominent business man of Salem says he has something new sprung on him about every so often and the latest was a letter he received in the mail this morning, addressed in a school girl's dainty hand. Of course he lost no time in opening the letter. It was written from Pendleton under date of October 16 and addressed to "Dear Aunt Cora." Did the business man read it? He did, and it was as follows:

"Please vote yes for the Eastern Oregon Normal school because Pendleton is well located. It has many passenger trains, schools, over 1000 pupils, large stores, a beautiful new library and many things to pass the time and several churches. There are nice places to eat and board. Pendleton is a beautiful city. You're nice, Lucile Saling."

Now the business man is just pondering over that letter and wondering whether Lucile is trying to put one over him, as panned nicely to the letter was a pamphlet on why Oregon needs another normal school. And it is also wondering whether those Pendleton fellows are not pretty smooth advertisers and whether the 1000 pupils in the schools are writing their aunt Coras and uncle Johns and saying nice things about Pendleton, and all written in that childish handwriting.

On August 19, 1916, he was displaced by Hindenburg as chief of staff and three days later took command of the Transylvanian operations against the Rumanians. He is 53 years old.

Unconfirmed reports that he has been wounded follow but a few hours the announcement at Berlin of the retirement of von Klock, famous in the early days of the war, because of shrapnel wounds he suffered more than a year ago.

West Danby, N. Y.—"I have had nervous trouble all my life until I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for nerves and for female troubles and it straightened me out in good shape. I took the Compound when my ten year old daughter came and it helped me a lot. I have also had my oldest girl take it and it did her lots of good. I keep it in the house all the time and recommend it."—Mrs. DEWITT SINCEBAUGH, West Danby, N. Y.

TWO AMMENDMENTS TO CHARTER PROPOSED

One Is Giving City Authority Over Vacant Lots—Other About Collections

Those who are interested in the proper care of the city streets and parks and also that of vacant lots in the city, will have a chance to vote on an amendment to the city charter at the city election December 4, in which it is provided that the city council be given authority that is now vested in a park board which has no authority to enforce its orders.

The proposed amendment provides that the council shall have power to prohibit, regulate and control the planting, maintaining and preservation as well as the maintenance of all shade trees, plants and flowers in the streets and public ways. It also gives the council authority to order the removal of weeds, and rank vegetation from vacant lots and the streets.

Another proposed amendment to be voted on December 4 provides that any contract entered into by the city for a greater period than five years shall be null and void from date of contract. Also that in the employment of labor by the city preference shall be given to citizens of the United States, residents of the city.

Just at present the city seems to have no legal procedure for the enforcement of the collection of assessments against real estate. To remedy this a bill for the amendment of the city charter will be submitted to the voters December 4, which provides that the recorder, upon order of the city council must give 30 days notice by personal service on the property; or if a non-resident, by advertisement 10 days in a daily newspaper, before any money assessed upon property under the authority of the charter and ordinances of the city can be collected. It further provides that the city council shall have power to provide by ordinance for the collection of all liens authorized by the charter which are on any hereafter become delinquent or property or issuance of delinquency certificates which may be foreclosed in three years in the same manner that delinquent state and taxes are foreclosed.

In other words, the bill gives the city authority to collect assessments against real estate in the city.

University Notes

Prof. James T. Matthews, head of the mathematics department, has been at Marshfield the last three days attending the Coos County Teachers' Institute. The professor was scheduled to address several sessions of the convention when he left Salem. He expects to return in time for his Monday recitations.

Members of the Websterian Literary society were delightedly surprised by a visit from their sister organization, the Adelante, Wednesday evening. Owing to the repairs to the society halls, the Websterians held their meeting in the Y. W. C. A. rest room in Eaton hall. The impromptu quarters did not mar the spirit of the company in the least, for a strenuous round of "Tucker" soon put everybody right with the world. Mysterious packages of home-made candy were appreciated. Mrs. Laban Steeves chaperoned.

Believing that the material increase in enrollment this year warrants a new woman's literary society one is being formed under the direction of Miss Junia Todd, dean of women, and President C. G. Doney. Committees from the two societies, the Adelante and the Philodossian, met with some of the non-society members this week and arranged for definite inter-society rules to govern all of the women's organizations. That no undue advantage might be taken by the older societies, the initiators of the new organizations were permitted to choose 15 charter members from the non-society girls of the university. These charter members who elected to start the destinies of the new society, are Grace Bagley, Marion Barnes, Edith Bird, Gladys Carson, Gertrude Dillard, Ethel Fogg, Hazel Freeman, Evelyn Gordon, Helen Mire, Margaret Miller, Carole Heubetz, Helen Satchwell, Estelle Satchwell, Edith Stovel, Sarah Williamson and Helen Rose.

A corresponding men's society will probably be organized late in the semester.

William R. Wheeler, a graduate of Yale university, and at present on furlough from missionary work in China, was a recent speaker before the joint Y. M. Y. W. C. A. cabinet officers. He presented the exceptional opportunities of the foreign field in graphic fashion. His address was greatly appreciated.

Considerable speculation as to "who's who" on the mysterious "Theda Baras" football stars of unknown gladiatorial capacity, was revealed Wednesday morning when the fourth issue of the Willamette Collegian was distributed on the campus. This mysterious aggregation turned out to be composed of former football men of lower class fame who, desiring to renew the days of their youth, elected to dabble in the gridiron mud baths with all unofficial letter organizations of the campus. To date, the sophomore football team is the only one to accept the challenge.

The yell contest which has been conducted during the past week will close this evening, according to "Crown Prince" Austin, assistant noise king, who has the contest in charge. Inasmuch as felt felt Willamette trophies are to be awarded the successful composers, the competition bids fair to be keen before evening.

Repairs to the Websterian Literary halls are progressing satisfactorily according to Miss Gertrude Cunningham of the Adelante committee in charge. Owing to the disastrous percipitations from the roof of Waller hall last spring, practically the entire furnish-

SAYS PROSPERITY

The gold is sent to this country in payment for goods purchased," said Von Engelken. "It follows that an extraordinary market has opened up for the consumption of our goods to the extent represented by gold importations. The greater the demand for goods abroad, the less goods we have to supply our own demands—and as the price is representative of supply and demand, an increase in price necessarily follows.

"The extraordinary demand on this country has stimulated industry and in many cases the profits are extraordinary. As a direct result of the greater number of people are employed at rates of pay above normal, with the result that our supply of available goods, already heavily drawn upon by foreign buyers, is further called to stand the increasing purchasing capacity of our own people, a condition which further contributed to advancing the prices of such things as are demanded by the people at large."
