S. recruiting office was in Stayton, Sublimity and Aumsville yesterday interviewing postmasters and posting bills notifying the young men of the country that recruits were wanted. Buy your range of Imperial Furniture Company this month and get set of dishes free. Governor Withycombe will get into the campaign next week and will deliver addresses Tuesday evening at Stayton and Wednesday evening at Jefferson. It is probable they will go to the outcome of the November 7 election. Friday evening at 7:45 o'clock an entertainment will be given by the Young Peoples League of the Salvation Army, 343 1/2 Court St. County School Superintendent Smith is sending his biennial report to the state superintendent of public instruction today, which will be incorporated into that official's report to the state legislature next January. He has gone to St. Louis today and will attend a school fair at Scotts Mills Saturday. $10.00 worth of dishes free with each range sold this month at Imperial Furniture Co. O. P. Hoff, state labor commissioner, and his four field deputies -- W. B. Chance, C. H. Gram, W. A. Dalziel and Carl Caulfield--are attending the logging congress and Pacific forest and conservation conference in Portland. It is probable they will go to the session that will be held in Aberdeen, Wash., on Grays Harbor. Music while you wait--If you have a Sonora Talking Machine in your home Myrtle Knowland, 421 Court St. Having heard two United States senators this week, the good people of Salem will have a chance to hear two more distinguished speakers from the United States senate next week. Senators Gore will speak Tuesday evening at the armory and the announcement is made today that Senator Lane will speak at the opera house next Wednesday evening. Four United States senators within 40 days is Salem's political record. Dr. Stone's Drug Store makes free delivery. Phone 35. Homer A. Robb, candidate for county surveyor of Polk county on the republican ticket, was in Salem this morning. He is campaigning in West Salem today and is making his way among the electioneers on foot, as he says in this way he can get closer to touch with the voters. He was on the Mexican border last summer with Company L, of Dallas. At that time he was wearing a beard, so that when he returned his friends did not know him. For political reasons he has shaved it off. Save $10.00 and buy that range at Imperial Furniture Co. The potato situation is about like this: There is the smallest crop in the country since 1911. The condition figures 62 per cent of a normal crop. Then there is the car shortage that is preventing shipments and very little steamer space to be had. Under these conditions commission men are offering extra high prices for shipments to California where the crop is under the average, all of which figures in favor of the farmer. Potato experts predict even higher prices. Smoke Hygrade cigars and boost for Salem--during Salem week. The annual rally of the First Christian church to take place next Sunday will be more in the way of securing permanent pupils for the Sunday school, rather than in the number of new pupils to be enrolled. Last year the enrollment for the day was 1,015, against 908 two years ago. Special music has been prepared, including a violin solo by Miss Mary Schultz, singing by the ladies' quartette of the church and readings by Mrs. F. T. Porter. Music of a military nature will also be included as the rally has been named "Mobilization Day."

Dr. Mendelsohn, specialist, fits glasses correctly. U. S. Bank Bldg. The Young People's League of the Salvation Army will give an entertainment Friday evening at the army headquarters on Court street. Everybody is cordially invited to attend. Frederick S. Democratic headquarters room one Bayne building. Those desiring pictures of the president call there. An appeal is being made to the American people for a Belgian soldiers' tobacco fund to be administered by the Overseas club of New York. Letters were received by several business men this morning asking for a small remittance, setting forth the miseries of the Belgian soldiers who are without the comforts of tobacco. Democratic headquarters room one Bayne building. Those desiring pictures of the president call there. The story this morning at the Oregon City Transportation company's weather department is as follows: The temperate strata yesterday had a range from 50 to 34; the river fell one-tenth of an inch and the gage now is 1.2 feet below zero; there have been seven foggy days so far this month and today marks the 47th day of the drought. Hear Edward F. Burns tonight McCornack bldg. 8 o'clock sharp. Bert L. Jones of this city and Miss Elizabeth M. Green, of Turner, were married this morning by the Rev. F. T. Porter at the church parsonage. The ceremony was witnessed by the parents of the groom. Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Jones, of 417 North Commercial street, and a sister, Mr. and Mrs. Jones left for Portland where they will spend the winter and next spring, make their home in eastern Oregon. Hear Edward F. Burns tonight McCornack bldg. 8 o'clock sharp. Harry E. Albert, national bank examiner, writing to Joseph H. Albert from St. Paul, relates that at a meeting of commercial travelers held last week in St. Paul two straw votes were taken, both showing a strong Wilson sentiment. The politicians in that part of the country are placing Oregon in the doubtful list, with a strong leaning towards Wilson, according to the letter.

Mr. Wedel and Family Here to Open Hospital

F. B. Wedel, who will establish a Mennonite hospital in Salem, accompanied by his wife, daughter and two deaconess nurses arrived in the city today. The first car load of household furniture and hospital supplies arrived this morning from American Falls, Idaho, where Mr. Wedel has already established a hospital. The property at the corner of Winter and Oak streets had already been purchased by Mr. Wedel for hospital purposes and this morning, the home owned by Mrs. A. Klein, at the corner of Oak and University streets became the property of Mr. Wedel. Besides buying the two pieces of real estate, Mr. Wedel this morning bought an automobile in order that he might visit among his Mennonite friends in the valley. As soon as other shipments of household furniture and hospital supplies are received, the hospital will be opened to the public. The meeting tonight at the First Presbyterian church in charge of Dr. Hutchinson, will not begin until 8:30 o'clock in order to give those who desire time to attend prayer meeting. The discussion tonight will be, "Was the War Inevitable?" The funeral of Mrs. N. J. Moore, a sister of Mrs. John Bayne, who died at Agate Beach Wednesday, will be held from the home of John Bayne, 414 Bellevue street Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock instead of from the chapel of Webb and Clough as first announced. The oldest grocers in the city, those who have been in the business here for a quarter of a century or more, are having a hard time trying to remember when flour was higher than yesterday. Also wondering how long ago it was when sugar was selling for $8.70, the price today. Pascal Traglio, who was sent from Salem to the naval training station at Goat Island, San Francisco, has returned to Salem to have a growth removed from his arm. On arrival at the naval training station it was found that a growth in his left arm prevented his passing the examination. He will have it removed and then return. Those who wish to give children books for Christmas but have doubts as to what is appropriate, will be greatly assisted in making their selections by attending the book exhibit to be held early in November at the public library under the direction of the librarian, Miss Anne D. Swezey. The books to be shown will follow closely those suggested by Miss Marvin, state librarian, in her list named "The Golden Staircase." The books will include those for children of all ages and will be shown in fine editions and also in the less expensive. Plans were completed last evening whereby all the pupils of the public schools from the seventh grade up will be instructed to write essays on Salem's dress-up week, under the direction of Miss Rigdon, of the English department of the high school. The teachers of each class were instructed to select two of the best essays next Tuesday and turn them in to the special committee of the Commercial club for the awards next Wednesday. The pupils will all write on the same subjects, but the competition for the three five dollar prizes will be between pupils of the same grades. Because there is no statute in Oregon that permits soldiers while absent on duty to vote at elections, Governor Withycombe plans to bring before the next legislature a bill remedying this state of affairs. On this account the members of Battery A and Troop A who are now in service on the border, are not allowed to vote. The governor believes that provisions should be made so they could vote as they, if any, are entitled to do so. According to the attorney general the remedying of this condition is a simple matter and will be brought before the next legislature in order that a repetition of this situation will not be possible. A series of addresses by the heads of the various state institutions will be made during the winter Sunday evenings at the First Christian church, beginning a week from next Sunday evening, when the first talk of the series will be given by Dr. Smith, superintendent of the Oregon Institute for the Feeble-minded. Next Sunday evening at the Christian church, state treasurer T. B. Kay will talk on several proposed tax amendments and the Rev. F. T. Porter on the proposed liquor amendment. After the two short addresses, there will be a general discussion in which all will be invited to express opinions. School districts of Marion county will soon receive the books of reference and fiction which the county school superintendents received from the J. K. Gill company of Portland as part of the allotment of books purchased each year with the special ten cents per capita fund. The fund is distributed under the direction of the state librarian who designated how much each county should have. Books for the schools are purchased in this way much cheaper than ordinarily because the J. K. Gill company has a contract for supplying the state with books. Silverton's school library received $68.80; Woodburn, $46.00; Stayton $28, while the smaller rural districts average from $5 to $85.

On November 4 the Salem team will play on the Salem grounds with the Salem high.

LITTLE TALKS ON THRIFT

By S. W. STRAUS President American Society for Thrift

If death should come to you today, would your family be practically or entirely penniless? Would your wife have to go to work? Would the children have to quit school before they had learned enough to earn a decent salary? What outlook would they have for the future? These are the problems the widows and children of the average man have to meet and solve daily. These are questions every man should ask himself seriously. It has been said that the difference between a rich man and a poor man is a few cents: A rich man spends a little less than he earns and a poor man a little more than he earns. The poor man looks at the rich man and throws discretion to the winds. "I'm going to have those things, too," he says. And he cuts down on his savings or ceases to save altogether. The Germans have always been held up to us as models in the matter of economy and thrift, and now when economy is more necessary than ever before, their ingenuity and resourcefulness are notable. It is reported that German troops were
