Norwegian Lutheran Church Opposes Pending Measures

The Southern Pacific District of the United Norwegian Lutheran church of America, in convention at Canby, Oregon, Oct. 7, unanimously passed the following resolution:

Whereas, a vigorous campaign is being waged by the enemies of the present Sunday law of our state to have the said law repealed by the adoption of the Kellaher repeal bill No. 312; And whereas, we regard it as eminently fitting and obviously conducive to the general public welfare that the state should maintain a Civic Day of Rest; And finally whereas, the present Sunday law of Oregon can in no wise fairly be construed to be an infringement of the civic or religious liberties of our citizens, or in any way in conflict with the First Amendment to the Federal Constitution, which provides that "Congress shall make no laws respecting the establishment of religion..."

Therefore be it hereby resolved by the "Southern Pacific District of the United Norwegian Lutheran church of America" in convention assembled at Canby, Oregon, October 7, 1916; Ist, That we as citizens of the state of Oregon earnestly recommend to our people, that they vote against the Kellaher's Repeal measure, known as Bill No. 312.

2nd, That we ask the pastors of our district to inform their members of this Resolution, and to urge their people to vote against the repeal of our present Sunday law.

3rd, That we further ask the pastors to take this matter up with the ministers of the other denominations in their localities and that they urge their vigorous assistance in the defeat of the Sunday abolition Bill.

4th, That with equal earnestness this convention protest against the so-called "Brewers' Amendment" as a bold effort to annul our recently enacted prohibition law, and we urge upon our pastors and people, as a Civic Duty, to work and vote against the said amendment.

5th, Finally this convention hereby instructs its secretary to furnish such of its pastors as are located within the state of Oregon, with each a copy of these resolutions before the 1st of November, this year, and that he further give these resolutions a wide publicity in both the Norwegian and English press within the state as possible.

Respectfully, J. C. Roseland, Otto Lock, Secretary of the S. P. District.

Longest Dry Spell Broken

(Capital Journal Special Service.) Quinby, Or., Oct. 27.—Rain began falling last night breaking up a drought of several weeks. The last rain of any importance was early in September, but this is not the longest dry spell by any means. In 1913 no rain fell from the 23d day of June until August 21st, a period of 57 days, and as this was during the growing season much damage resulted, while the present drought has merely caused much dust in the air but has not injured crops, which were well grown before it began.

EVENING ON THE WILLAMETTE

(A River of Old Oregon.) Perry Prescott Reigelman.

As at dewfall I am drifting On Willamette's limpid stream, Clouds below reflect in whiteness Clouds above that drift and dream; Winged winds, from south seas press me tenderly, with love caress me; Ghostly spires of tree-top shadows, Sombre lances of the twilight, Softly mirrored, dimly gleam. While I rest as if suspended In a world of wondrous blue, Half-heard voices softly call me From a world beyond my view. Strains of sagas gone forever Haunt the wind, are silent never; Forms of radiant, mystic beauty Hover close as zephyrs tender, Whispering songs, my heart, to you. Swiftly flowing is the river, Verged by fragrant vine and tree; Dreamful, like the heart's warm throbbing— Restless, as the surges of the sea— Tuneful, as young life's sweet singing— Endless, as Old Time's long winging. Evening star glows low in splendor, Night—and Dreams in a bark canoe! Night, my heart, alone with Thee!

Out of Shops In Eight Hours Is Ford Slogan

New York, Oct. 28.—Henry Ford, a lifelong republican has organized a campaign of his own in behalf of the reelection of President Wilson.

"With the slogan 'out of the shops in eight hours,' I'm going to spread the gospel of the eight-hour working day. By public announcements and by the display of actual figures and statistics taken from the books of my own business, I'm going to prove that this economic measure, which the president advocates and has had made into law, will benefit not only the employes of this country, but the employers as well. Welfare of People.

"About politics as a business," Mr. Ford went on, "I know nothing at all. But about Woodrow Wilson, I know a lot. He is the most human man, the most sensible man, the most businesslike man, withal, I ever encountered. 'The great trouble with this country is that labor has never properly shared in the profits it has earned for capital.' Mr. Ford went on. Then he drew a beautiful picture of 'real prosperity'—every workman owning his machine, every one who wished living in the country, ten or twenty miles from his place of employment.

"Make the lot of the industrious people more comfortable, and the whole nation will be better off," he continued. "And that's what Woodrow Wilson has in his breast—the peace and comfort of the industrious people. 'I hope every workman who knows me and my attitude toward workmen will vote for the president's return. And I hope the employers of the industries will take my advice, too, for they will reap much greater profits. No Honor Sacrificed.

"Mr. Wilson has not sacrificed the slightest fraction of the national honor in keeping us out of war. You, I, all the rest of us, would fight if it were really necessary, but we're not going to fight for Hearst's ranch in Mexico, or for the gains which the interests might make if America were involved in the European slaughter. We shouldn't be pushed into the carnage by the 'unseen hands' of Wall street. 'I haven't heard a single sound reason put forward why Mr. Hughes should be elected. And there is against him the great big reason that Wall street and the interests are all for him. 'Well, just the lives and wealth and comfort, if we are pushed into this war by these 'unseen hands.'"

Maxwell Refinements Place Car In Front Ranks

Unaltered in all of the essential details which have placed the Maxwell 25 in the front ranks of most priced motor cars, this automobile appeared on the local market during the past week with a number of new refinements which will undoubtedly prove a great stimulant to the sale and distribution of this machine in the west. Among these refinements which first attract the eye and appeal to the buyer are the gasoline gauge and the dash light which have been added to the instrument, or dash board. With these added improvements the board now carries besides the two mentioned, a speedometer, electric starting and lighting plugs and an ammeter, giving the car all the earmarks of many higher priced machines on the market today.

FLOUR BREAKS RECORD

Portland, Ore., Oct. 28.—Flour climbed 20 cents higher today. Millers announced that all grades of patent family flour would sell for $8.20 per barrel. This is another new record. An effort was made to boost the price yesterday, but one mill held out against it and the raise was not announced until this morning.

A new type of windshield is also featured. The upper half of the windshield overlaps the lower half, making it absolutely rain-tight. In addition to this the glass is fitted with shock absorbers, eliminating all vibration and possible chance of breakage.

Besides these, the seats of the new Maxwell are considerably wider, longer and deeper, and the rear springs have been lengthened fully six inches, giving the car added flexibility and comfort in its riding qualities. While these new features of the Maxwell car represent an added manufacturing cost of many thousands of dollars, the price of the car will remain the same as on the preceding model.

"All of this is in line with the strict policy of the Maxwell Motor company," said T. J. Toner, supervisor of the Maxwell Motor Sales corporation, Pacific Coast division, in discussing the new features of the car. "Efforts at the factory always have been and always will be to continue improving the product and keep it constantly abreast of the best practices of the industry."

Brichoux Found Guilty of Second Degree Murder

Vale, Ore., Oct. 28.—Attorneys for D. C. Brichoux today announced he would fight for a new trial when he comes up for sentence Monday on a charge of killing R. C. Goodwin, wealthy Idaho sheep man. The jury brought in a verdict of second degree murder. Brichoux admitted the killing but said Goodwin was fatally injured accidentally. Brichoux was Goodwin's chauffeur. The sheep man disappeared while driving with Brichoux along the Snake river. His corpse, weighted down with tire chains, was found in the stream several days later.

The following letter is one among hundreds I receive from former Salem people asking for Clothes like the ones I made them before. Proof that the materials and workmanship stand the test.

Clearlake, Wash., October 23, 1916. Mosher, Tailor, Salem, Oregon. Dear Sir: Will you kindly make me a suit on the same measurements as those formerly made for me by you, except that the pants legs should be at least half an inch shorter, and send to me by parcel post, at your earliest convenience? I want the suit to be made of good quality of cloth, gray in color, Oxford gray preferred, medium weight, and as near the former price as the times will permit. I want something that will wear well as well as look well. I have been so well satisfied with the two former suits ordered from you that I am willing to leave the choice of cloth, etc., entirely to you. Yours very truly, (REV.) O. A.
