WILSON'S POLICIES CONDEMNED BY TAFT

His Course With Mexico Is Given An Especially Hot Roasting

Marshall, Mich., Oct. 30.—Spreading out the whole administration record here today, ex-President Taft declared that America's present prosperity is evanescent, attacked the Adamson eight hour law, the president's foreign policy and his domestic course. He declared the nation now is "living in a fool's paradise," and that prosperity must vanish after the European war when the warriors again become workers. "The slightest analysis of our present prosperity," he said, "will show how utterly unwise the people will be if they allow it to have any effect upon their judgment in selecting the party which is to conduct the affairs of the nation for the next four years." As for the Underwood tariff, Taft said, "had not the war ensued the business conditions of the country and the precarious situation of wage earners would have grown worse and worse." He condemned what he considered democratic extravagance and democratic abuses of the civil service. The Adamson bill, he said, "ought to arouse in every clear headed, clear sighted American the utmost humiliation." Hughes' remedy for the strike situation, Taft added, would have been to offer arbitration and if this was refused then to have the government do all in its power to protect the railroads when they filled strikers' places. Declaring Mr. Wilson's policy in Mexico should defeat him for the presidency, Taft attacked the administration's foreign policy in general, adding: "The proneness of the administration to write a note well and appropriately phrased and to deem the incident closed has exposed the nation to ridicule."

An English militant crusader strolled into a barn where a young man was milking a cow. With a snort she asked "How is it you are not at the front, young man?" "Because ma'am," answered the milkster, "there ain't no milk at that end."

The Big Cop Talks Politics

By Ellis Parker Butler, Author of 'Digs in Digs'

Terry, the Big Cop on the Main Street beat, halted his number twelve feet alongside Banana Joe's fruit stand and took a nice red apple from the top of the pile. "How you goin' to vote this fall, Joe?" he asked. "No gotta da v. te," said Joe with a grin. "I no getta my second papers for a long time yet. I no getta my first papers until this beeg war bust out. Then I getta them mighty queek, you bet!" "I bet you did!" said Terry, peeling his apple carefully. "There's nothing blood thirsty about you, Joe. The corner of Main and Second looks better to you than them trenches, don't it?" "Sure, Mike!" grinned Joe. "That's because you're nothing but an ignorant foreigner," said the Big Cop. "You don't appreciate the blessing of being shot through the left lung by a thirteen-inch shell. You can't see the admirability of having the tag ends of what was once your legs cut off short below your belt by a Red Cross surgeon." "You talk like a da crazy man!" said Joe scornfully. "Whata man wants that?" "Plenty of them," said the Big Cop. "You'll hear them any day now—Republicans on the tails of the carts and on the rostrum—roastin' Woodrow Wilson for leavin' the nation in a condition of peace and plenty. It is awful, what that Wilson has done to the nation! If he had but heeded the advice of the sturdy Republican talkers the cork leg industry might now be in a condition of prosperity never before known. I might be walking my beat in a wheel chair." "Yes, Joe, peace and prosperity is an awful condition for any nation to be in and the Republicans blame Woodrow Wilson for it. Look at what he has done!" they say. "Every factory in the country running overtime and more work than there is men, and wives living with their husbands, and husbands supporting their children, when if it hadn't been for Woodrow we might even now be in a delightful condition of war and starvation and the monotony of the streets beautified by eight hundred thousand or thereabouts handsomely mangled cripples." "Vote against Woodrow," they say. "It's a shame we can't have Theodore Roosevelt, but if we can't, let's have the man he's for. Look at

BRECKENRIDGE SAYS BAILY IS A WRETCH

Wires Originator of Story That It Is "A Jumble of Falsehoods"

San Francisco, Oct. 30.—Reiterating his denial of statements attributed to him that President Wilson had tried to add a postscript to his "strict accountability" note to Germany, Henry Breckenridge, former assistant secretary of war has wired a local newspaper as follows: "I have just sent the following telegram to Charles H. Bailey: 'Your letter to Grafton Cushing is a jumble of false statements and you are an unconscionable wretch for uttering it.'" Breckenridge, who is at Del Monte, Cal., attending a conference of hardware officials, declined today to discuss the matter further.

Dentist Sticks to Story.

Boston, Mass., Oct. 30.—Henry Cabot Lodge, United States senator from Massachusetts whose attack on President Wilson because of an alleged postscript to the second Lusitania note, was denounced as "beneath contempt" by former Assistant Secretary of State Breckenridge, will make "whatever reply he sees fit" at a republican rally at Pittsfield tonight. Dr. Charles Hervey Bailey of the Tufts dental school, on whose authority Senator Lodge made the charges, today reiterated his statement that the letter he wrote to Grafton D. Cushing, which was quoted by Senator Lodge, was "a fair and not at all exaggerated" story of his conversation with Breckenridge.

Hardened.

Does my practicing make you nervous, asked the man who was learning to play the cornet. "It did when I first heard it, but now I'm getting so that I don't care what happens to you."

Often the spirit of perseverance strikes a man hardest when he is in the wrong.

Student Body Hears Talks About Salem

The High school student body turned out en masse this forenoon to hear John H. Albert and Rev. James Elvin who made addresses in connection with the Salem Week celebration. Mr. Albert spoke on "Loyalty" and Mr. Elvin emphasized the value of "Co-Operation" in building up a city. Proceeding the speaking and between times the glee club rendered a number of selections. Following the program "I believe in Salem" buttons were distributed. Virtually the same sequence was observed at Willamette University where the students became thoroughly imbued with the spirit of the occasion. Attorney Ivan Martin, who had visited the university to hear the speaking, became so enthusiastic at the spirit shown that he too mounted the rostrum and boosted for the Capital City. The Grant school was the last visited this morning and a splendid reception was accorded the speakers. This afternoon the committee will make addresses in the Lincoln, McKinley, Richmond and Washington Junior high in the order named, distributing booster buttons at the close of the program. Tomorrow the school children write their essays in competition for the three cash prizes. In the evening a huge smoker and mass meeting will be held at the Commercial club rooms with several out of town speakers on the program.

A sandbox, similar to that in use on railroad trains and street cars, has been successfully used on the automobile. The flow of sand from this new attachment is controlled by the driver. A Milwaukee automobile specialist is responsible for the invention of this new use for sand.

Our Aim is to give you Results No matter what kind of a Want Ad you put in our paper we will give you results

There is no very good reason why anyone should stay home Tuesday evening, provided amusement or instruction is wanted. At the opera house there will be a Christian Science lecture by a member of the lecturing board of the Mother church of Boston. At the armory Senator Gore, of Oakland, will tell of the issues before the people from a democratic standpoint. At the Commercial club O. M. Clark, president of the Portland Chamber of Commerce will speak and there will be a general smoker. The Six O'clock club of the First Methodist church will be served a dinner in the parlors of the church, and addresses will be made by Attorney General George M. Brown and Walter C. Winslow. The Marion County Poultry association members will hold a meeting at the office of D. A. White & Sons and the Cherrians have been ordered to meet at the Commercial club for an important session, to be followed by a smoker. And there you have it. Why stay at home!

Discretion. "Yes sir, I fell over the side of the ship and a shark 'e came along and grabbed me by the leg." "Good gracious! And what did you do?" "Let 'im 'ave the leg o' course. I never argues with sharks."
