Cleo Madison, one of the greatest emotional actresses in photoplays, will be star of the Bluebird to be exhibited at the Bligh theatre on Sunday and Monday under the title of "The Chalice of Sorrow." The name of the play gives an idea of its tragic bent; the leading character, object of the crafty and villainous intrigue of an influential Mexican, depicts a wide range of emotion, ranging from the heights of joy and happiness to the depths of tragic despair. The scene is laid across the border in the present day, and "The Mexican situation" falls under a new and illuminating research in "The Chalice of Sorrow." Chief in Miss Madison's support will be Wedgewood Nowell, who plays the villainous Mexican; Charles Cummings, the heroine's betrothed; John McDermott, the United States Consul, with Blanch White, Albert McQuarrie, Rhea Haines, and Howard Craunton essaying other important characters in the picture-narrative. There is reason to believe that "The Chalice of Sorrow" will be considered the best of the Bluebird series.

BOARD OF CONTROL RECEIVES REPORTS

State Institutions File Reports and Submit Budgets and Estimates

Reports of the heads of the various state institutions for the month of October were made to the board of control yesterday afternoon at its regular monthly meeting and it was shown that the average cost of the 3,395 wards in the 10 state institutions was $22.47 each. The eastern Oregon branch of the state hospital was the lowest with $15.03 per capita.

The following is the list of institutions and the cost per capita for October: Oregon State hospital, 1,501, $15.94; penitentiary, 455, $18.37; feeble minded school, 318, $19; boys' training school, 117, $24.95; tuberculosis sanatorium, 77, $31.58; school for the blind, 39, $33.76; school for the deaf, 96, $25.63; industrial school for girls, 52, $25.82; and the old soldiers' home, 162, $17.63.

The report of Superintendent Steiner of the state hospital showed that the patients had risen on the farm lands cultivated 21,355 bushels of potatoes, 5,000 boxes of apples and 12 tons of dried prunes. The girls' industrial school also made a good showing in the growing of vegetables and Mrs. Hopkins' report stated that if the vegetables had been sold at market prices they would have amounted to $1,336.68. She was commended by the board for the showing made.

The question of the returning of Alvin Koorik, who ran away from the girls' industrial school to Albany and got married, was taken up by the board. The advisory committee of which Lola G. Baldwin is chairman, recommended that she be returned to the school. However, on an opinion rendered last week by the attorney general, it is held that a girl automatically becomes of age by her marriage, and accordingly she was held not to come under the school jurisdiction. The board of control, on learning the opinion of the attorney general, dismissed the recommendation. Regarding the statements of Mrs. Hopkins that the girl was not quite 16 when she married and that a woman of Albany swore that she was 18, the board directed that she take up the matter of prosecuting with Gale S. Hill, prosecuting attorney for Linn county. The case of another Albany woman who aided a girl to escape to Vancouver to be married was disposed of in a similar manner.

The resignation of James Neil as night watchman at the state hospital after a period of service extending over 35 years was tendered to the board yesterday. The reason for the resignation is given as poor health, which prevents his performing the duties incumbent on him. Dr. Steiner suggested that the vacant position be given to an interne who would be able to handle the medical work at night also. He proposed to give it to a student of the University of Oregon medical school, who would appreciate the $100 per month the job carries.

Dr. A. T. Steiner, dentist at the hospital, also tendered his resignation as he wishes to enter private practice. Although he received a very flattering offer from the University of Missouri Postgraduate School, he consented to remain as superintendent of dentistry. He receives a salary of $1,200 per year.

An additional $1,000 was allowed Superintendent Tillinghast of the school for the deaf for maintenance of the pupils above the budget he had previously made out. The increase is due to the higher cost of food products. The amount was allowed after careful consideration and with the understanding that it be spent for nothing else but food supplies for the children and not to be diverted for salaries. The superintendent stated that while the sum he asked for maintenance was only three per cent in advance on the cost of the school for the past five bienniums the cost of living had advanced 25 per cent. There is plenty of action, many thrilling situations and a goodly portion of comedy, skillfully handled by the versatile Mr. Barrymore and an excellent cast. Charles Horan directed this production for Metro, and like all his features it rings true and carries suspense with a smashing climax at the end.

Among those appearing in support of Mr. Barrymore and Miss Skirvin are Edgar L. Davenport, Howard Truesdell, Paul Lawrence, Franklin Hanna, John H. Smiley, James Malady, George Stevens, Frank Lyons, and Myra Brook. "The Upheaval" was produced by the Rolfe Photoplays, Inc., for the Metro program and is one of the most entertaining features ever made by this producing company.

Grand Theatre SUNDAY

Reviewed at Portland

A bright bill with many laughs and plenty of surprises is headlined by an unusually good act by the Florence Troupe at the Hippodrome. The Florence Troupe is one of the best known and most skillful of vaudeville acrobats, and comprises a family that is daring and clever. Much attention centers about the young girl of the troupe who is very pretty. Her part in the act is as great as that of any of the four men or the other women. However, all of them are good and the act wins much applause.

Mack and Edwin are a happy pair, full of fun and laughter. They are unusually good comedians and the girl's voice is a fine lyric soprano. Her frocks, too, are dashing and smart.

"Working for the City" becomes a snap and a picnic when done by Rogers and Brockway, who provide no end of fun for the audience. A clever young policeman and a blackface comedian are in the act.

Magic illusions and comedy are presented by Johnson and Arthur, who provide a clever opening act. There is fun of make believe mesmerism and jokes and stunts galore.

"Mike" might have been a "snack," they tell him "there's one born every minute," but he happened not to be, so he gets the best of a clever trickster and a beautiful woman who try to victimize him. That is the sum and substance of an act by Hazel Heston and company. Miss Heston appears in several daring gowns. An Irish comedian is a lively fun maker.

A whirling pianist, an attractive girl and a comedian, are the Curtis Trio who give a lively act.
