Some Points For Car Purchasers to Consider

Here are some of the points the manufacturers of the Overland model 85 calls the attention of the public to: You want, above all, to have confidence in your car. You want to know that it will take you where you want to go, when you want to go, without faltering. That is the reserve power and reserve strength—the stamina—to meet unusual demands. And that it will continue to serve you well, month in and month out, year after year. You have this confidence, instinctively, in Overland Model 85—either Four or Six. No matter which you choose, you are assured that there is nothing of the experimental or untried in its make-up—that the motor and every important part have been developed through years of experience in building hundreds of thousands of cars. You can sit back and relax, in this roomy car, just as you would in a big arm chair. The seats are tilted just right for comfort. The cushions are deep and soft, and you will find that the long coil springs which support them have just the right "give"; neither resisting stiffly nor yielding too readily to your weight. These springs are set closely together so that the cushions will not sag. And when you ride in the car you will appreciate the advantage of the long wheelbase and large tires in making small ruts and bumps in the road unnoticeable. You will appreciate the advantage of the drop frame in bringing the weight of the car lower, minimizing side-sways on uneven roads. You will appreciate the advantage of proper distribution of weight in the car on the rear axle and the gasoline tank chassis, due to locating the transmission in the rear. But above all you will appreciate the advantage of cantilever rear springs. For with cantilever springs, connection to the axle is at the rear end of the spring instead of in the middle. The wheels and rear axle may jounce up and down rapidly, yet this motion is almost wholly absorbed in the springs before it reaches the car frame and body. You are seemingly carried along in an even plane, much as though coasting over a level road, without the lurching and swaying that are characteristic of ordinary double-acting springs. The cantilever is the easiest riding spring that has ever been designed.

MRS. HUBBARD WINS SUIT AGAINST WELSH

Judge Galloway Holds Note and Mortgage Were Secured by Fraud

Judge Galloway this morning found for Mrs. Fannie Hubbard in the case of the Alliance Trust company, limited, against Fannie E. Hubbard, W. M. Welch and C. R. Welch, as Welch Brothers, in the matter of the suit to foreclose mortgages on the Hubbard building aggregating the sum of $70,000, and declared that she was "treated as a fat duck to be plucked by every one connected with this unfortunate affair in charging her over $35,000 as the number of her girl friends went in to help her celebrate her birthday. The evening was spent in playing cards. Miss Helen Scollard winning high score. Those present were the Misses Ethel Bonney, Sadie Richards, Altha Bitney, Nora Beck, Mary Scollard, Hazel Bitney, Lila Jerman, Lois Beebe, Helen Scollard of West Woodburn and Frances Weaver of Hubbard.

ROYAL BAKING POWDER Absolutely Pure Made from Cream of Tartar NO ALUM—NO PHOSPHATE

ost of putting on the two upper stories of the main building, when the work might have been done by reliable builders for the sum of $19,900. In granting the cancellation of the note and mortgage sued upon by Welch Brothers, Judge Galloway said he finds that no accounting was ever had between the defendants Welch Bros. and the defendant Fannie E. Hubbard and that the note sued upon and the mortgage sought to be foreclosed in this proceeding were procured by misrepresentation and fraud and that the said note is not a binding contract between the parties and that the alleged mortgage is not a binding contract and is no lien upon the real property described and that both note and mortgage should be cancelled, set aside, and held for naught, and it is so ordered with costs to the defendant. The decision of Judge Galloway goes on to state that from the testimony of reliable contractors and builders it appears the entire building complete should have cost Mrs. Hubbard less than $60,000, which is some $15,000 less than now claimed by Welch Bros. in the suit, and they admit they have received $66,657.45 in addition to the claim now in dispute. The judge says "Here comes in the unprecedented jugglery in this whole transaction, for there was a supplemental contract drawn providing for a commission of eight per cent on $69,000 for erecting the two stories in question, as the first two stories with basement complete were put up under the original contract for $59,325, hence the item of $4,800 commission which is included in the amount claimed to be due under this mortgage is fraudulent and should not be allowed."

The decision says that Welch Bros. have received $3600 more than is justly due for the erection of the building in excess of the claims now in dispute. As the plaintiff's mortgages do not mature until May 1 and November 1, 1917, and all the property covered by the mortgages is in the hands of a receiver and bringing in a net income of $1000 a month and that no loss will accrue to the plaintiff by a postponement of the decree of foreclosure, and because such postponement will enable Mrs. Hubbard to arrange for payment of the claims and save something for her support and not deprive her of her property, the decree of foreclosure is deferred. Should the court find an immediate decree necessary it is deemed that $750 is deemed sufficient for attorney fees instead of $4,250. For the present the case of the plaintiff is continued. As to the defendants John Bayne and the U. S. Bank, their cases are also continued.

PURE RICH BLOOD PREVENTS DISEASE Bad blood,—that is, blood that is impure or impoverished, thin and pale,—is responsible for more ailments than anything else. It affects every organ and function. In some cases it causes catarrh; in others, dyspepsia; in others, rheumatism; and in still others, weak, tired, languid feelings and worse troubles. It is responsible for run-down conditions, and is the most common cause of disease. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the greatest purifier and enricher of the blood the world has ever known. It has been wonderfully successful in removing scrofula and other humors, increasing the red-blood corpuscles, and building up the whole system. Get it today.
