SANITARY BOARD WILL ENFORCE LAW

Cattle Exposed For Sale Must Be Given Tuberculin Test First

Strict enforcement of the tuberculin test of cattle to be put up for public sale will be made by the State Live Stock Sanitary board, according to a statement now being sent out to all public auctioneers in the state by Dr. W. A. Lytle, state veterinarian and secretary of the board. All violations of the law requiring this test will be made to the county attorneys for prosecution as the board is anxious to have the provisions of the law enforced.

Dr. Lytle's letter to the auctioneers in part is as follows: "Some few weeks ago, at the suggestion of the state livestock sanitary board, I consulted with the attorney general to determine from him whether or not the provision in the livestock laws requiring the tuberculin testing of cattle for public sale purposes was, in his opinion, constitutional. The attorney general replied as follows: "In your letter of October 3, you request my opinion as to whether the courts would be likely to regard as unconstitutional section 31 of chapter 14, General Laws of 1913, because said section requires dairy animals which are sold at public auction to be tested and free from tuberculosis, while the same animals might, without such requirements, be sold at private sale."

"Section 15 of this act makes it unlawful for any person to knowingly sell or offer to sell, in any manner, part with to another except for immediate slaughter, any animal infected with any infectious, contagious or communicable disease or which has been exposed to such disease. This section is general and applies alike to both public and private sales and is not open to the objection suggested by your board. "When it is considered that the purpose of section 31 is not like that of section 15, to prevent the sale of diseased animals but rather to prevent the exposure of diseased animals in public places, it cannot be said that said section denies to anyone the privilege, rights or immunities shared by others. Section 31 prohibits the exposure of such diseased animals at any state fair, district or county fair, or at public auction and is but an enactment into the statutes of this state of what was common law an indictable offense. To bring a diseased animal into a public place was a nuisance and punishable at common law. Reg. v. Henson, 1 Deans. C. 24. This rule was continued by the English statutes, thus 19 and 20 Vict. chapter 101, does not make it illegal to sell a glundered horse, but the offense is to knowingly bring or attempt to bring a glundered horse into any market, fair, or other open or public place where animals are commonly exposed for sale.

"With this view, I would advise you that constitutional objections could not be successfully urged against section 31. It is a salutary measure and peculiarly within the police power of the state. It applies to all persons and does not unreasonably interfere with the right of contract. "Hence, you will see in his judgment, section 31 is such that it can be legally enforced. It is the board's intention to demand a strict enforcement of this section. All violations of this statute will be immediately reported to the county attorney for prosecution. Some reliable attorneys have held that the auctioneer is equally liable for the penalties imposed in section 31. That I may be better understood, I here with quote section 31 of chapter 14, Session Laws of 1913, which reads as follows: "Section 31. No bovine animal over one year old shall be exhibited at any state, district or county fair, or livestock exposition within the state unless within 12 months prior to such exhibition it has been subjected to the tuberculin test and received a certificate of health from a qualified veterinarian. No entry for exhibition shall be accepted until such a certificate is filed. No public auction sale of any herd or part of a herd of dairy animals or animals intended for breeding purposes, shall be held except under the process of court, unless all the animals offered for sale have, within 12 months prior to such sale, been submitted to a tuberculin test and received a certificate of health from a qualified veterinarian. Any person who exhibits or permits the exhibition of an animal in violation of the provisions of this section, and any person who violates any other provision of this section, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction shall be fined not less than $50 nor more than $250."

Redding, Cal., Nov. 17.—"God knows its all I can do now. I wish I could do more," said Alexander Naimes, confessed player of Mrs. Rosetta Durbin and John Pollock today, as he directed an agent to pay the funeral expenses of Mrs. Durbin. A few minutes later, he was aboard a train and on route to San Quentin to serve a life sentence for the crime. "Tears filled Naimes' eyes as he boarded the train, and sorrowfully waved farewell to the crowd. "I am sorry, but it is too late," he said. "I don't remember killing Mrs. Durbin and John Pollock. It is all like a horrid dream. But for booze, I'd now be a man among men."

The prisoner sold his property and paid his debts yesterday.

ACKNOWLEDGES RECEIPT OF NOTE

Washington, Nov. 17.—Germany today formally acknowledged receipt of this government's protest against transportation of Belgians into Germany, the state department announced. The German government promises a full report later. In the meantime, this government has done all it will do, the state department declared.

WORLD-WIDE POPULARITY

Wherever tobacco is known throughout the world, Sweet Caporal cigarettes are smoked. Americans who travel over Europe, Asia, Africa and South America can always obtain Sweet Caporal cigarettes as easily as in the United States. Sweet Caporal is the only cigarette that has this world-wide sale and popularity.

FAMOUS "SWEET CAPORAL"

Many things have been proved in 40 years. Candle-light has given way to electricity, the stage-coach has vanished before the express train, but good old Sweet Caporal, the original cigarette, remains the same—because in four decades the world has been unable to produce a better cigarette. More popular today than ever is Sweet Caporal.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The February '17 class met Thursday evening at the call of Thomas McGilchrist, president of the June '17 class and organized themselves.

Lewis Griffith was elected president of the class, Daphne Evans vice president, Genevieve Yankke secretary, Miss Anderson treasurer, and Henry Leggett sergeant at arms.

This class is composed almost entirely of girls, there being only three boys. There are about seventeen in the class at present although it is expected that more will graduate in February than were at the meeting.

Leslie Church Services Draws Goodly Audience

A large number attended Leslie M. E. church last night to hear "Three Fingered Jack" relate some of his experiences in the Intercean Gambling house, Battle Creek, Colo.

In scathing terms he denounced the church dance and gave several illustrations from personal experience where it had proved the downfall of many young people.

The audience was spellbound when "Jack" announced he had received a letter and had got into trouble. The secret was—last Sunday afternoon "Jack" talked to the boys at the industrial school, and today he received an invitation signed by 121 boys asking him to come again as soon as possible.

Then he told of an outing he was planning for Saturday when he and the boys of South Salem would go out and meet the boys of the industrial school and together they should enjoy a hike and a "weinie picnic". The audience willingly responded when "Farmer John" went around collecting the money to make this outing possible.

"Farmer John" lives near Salem but has not been interested in any church or religious work until "Jack" came to town, and at the close of the service he presented Leslie church with firewood for one year, gave "Jack" some money to help defray his expenses, also offered potatoes to any needy family in South Salem.

INDIAN STORY HOUR

The Algonquin Indians have saved us more and better stories than some of the smaller Indian nations. There are so many that are interesting that they will be continued for this week's story hour. Among those that are left are: "The medicine wolf," "Young dog dance," and the stories of Sea-face. All boys and girls who like Indian stories are invited to the library for the story hour Saturday morning at 9:30. There will be none too fierce for the little ones to enjoy, and none too tame for the older boys.

THE OREGON ENIGMA

(La Grande Observer.)

Colonel Wood is to defend the Everett I. W. Wood. Colonel Wood is the Oregon enigma. How he can be attorney for the first families, the Ladds, Corbetts and big banks on the one hand and pose as a friend of the proletariat is a mystery. In one breath he announced he would never foreclose a mortgage, the next minute his firm is busy with a mortgage foreclosure. He preaches anarchy one minute, the next he is boosting for President Wilson. One day he is drawing up the brewers' beer amendment, the next he is labeling it the Nursing Mothers' amendment. One minute he is out of the democratic party campaigning for Bill Hanley as a progressive, the next minute he is out heckling a bunch of Hughes women from the east. He takes tea with the Four Hundred and dines with Emma Goldman. He dashes off a sonnet, paints a water color, scribbles at a drama, makes an argument in court for a plotocrat, defends an anarchist in police court, distributes some birth control literature, and goes out in the evening to a musicale. Soldier, lawyer, painter, poet, dramatist, orator, publicist, anarchist, farmer, land owner, truly Colonel Wood is a wonder.

Arbitration Plans Are Objectionable

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 17.—Delegates to the American Federation of Labor convention today unanimously endorsed the executive council report which condemned all proposed compulsory arbitration plans, under which either a strike or lockout declared before federal investigation had been completed would become a criminal act. The Canadian arbitration plan was suggested to President Wilson as a solution of the railroad crisis when strike was threatened recently. The resolution asking for a commission to investigate the high cost of living was adopted without debate.

Court House News

Sara A. Mitchell has brought suit for divorce in the circuit court against O. W. Mitchell. The complaint states they were married in Salem April 5, 1902, and that the defendant is now in Montana. It is also stated there are no children. She alleges in February, 1914, she was deserted and consequently asks a decree of separation.

Charles Zanker, who left his home on Union street a few evenings ago and wandered in the cold out toward Turner and who was picked up nearly frozen to death by the Turner constable, was this morning committed to the state hospital for the insane. He is 73 years of age and cerebral thrombosis is the cause of his insanity. He had a stroke of paralysis in August and it affected his mind. Dr. L. E. Griffith was the examining physician. Zanker was born in Germany and the matter was brought to the attention of the county court on petition of W. J. Irwin.

High School Teams Will Try to "Kill Albany"

The high school football players and their friends and rooters are going to Albany tomorrow morning with the brotherly injunction and war cry of "Kill Albany." The special will leave Trade and Commercial streets at 10:30 in the morning. The Salem team played a draw with Newberg, defeated Tillamook and came out second best with Eugene and McMinnville. According to those who know, Salem should have a fair chance of "Killing Albany," notwithstanding the fact that Albany defeated McMinnville.

For Salem the lineup will probably be as follows: Clark, c; Sluims, rg; Boise, rt; Van Osdel, rec; Walker, lb; Ransome, lg; White, lt; Ross, le; Ackerman, qb; Durbin, qb; Goodenough, rb; Hagedorn, lb; Carson, Croshaw, Ralston, Beckman, Stenstrom, substitutes.

The school census of Marion county is now under way and it is to be finished by November 25 blanks are being mailed to the school clerks for this purpose. The county superintendent asks that a careful count be made. A special blank for the enrollment of children who are crippled, blind, deaf and dumb of school age is enclosed with the school notices.

There will be a local teacher's institute held in Silverton Saturday, and County School Superintendent Smith expects to attend.
