University Notes

While the first term's ups and downs is the principal concern of the student body which want a victory from Multnomah club next Saturday, the sidshow on the respective extremities of the gridiron each evening is gradually coming to the front as the time for the annual lower class football game approaches. Here each evening the adherents of the classes of 1919 and 1920 may be seen in grim action with as earnest an endeavor to win that game as the mightier athletes of first team calibre are wont to do under the direct tutelage of Coach Mathews. Although the game will not be staged until after the Thanksgiving recess, the players are even now sparing no pains to get into tip top shape for that fracas. Last year the sophomores and freshmen battled in a muddy sea of mud plus, to a 6 tie. However, as the rules provided that if the score were tied, the fresh normals on the grandstand roof should be effaced, the results generally conceded a victory to the sophomore class. No stakes are up as yet this year, the attempt being just to decide the lower class supremacy.

Enlisted under the sophomore banner are Marsters, Gard, Ohling, Tasto, Sparks, Mann, Tasker, Nichols, Ball, Lawson, Stewart, Bedingfield, Kloster and Sherwood. No coach has been elected to direct their destinies up to date, but it is likely that a friendly senior will be secured in the near future.

Warren Booth and Errol Proctor, junior athletes of no mean ability, are already shipping their freshmeat brethren into shape for the melee. Their recruits to date include Doughty, Mills, Lockhart, Wright, Lyman, Collins, Spiess, Burleigh, Olson, Rardin, Yancy, Young and Seauder.

According to President Doney of Willamette, when interviewed recently in regard to the rumor that the university contemplated staging a historical pageant in commemoration of the seventy-fifth anniversary of the founding of the institution, the trustees are giving the proposal serious consideration. Nothing has as yet been outlined, but plans for a fitting celebration bid fair to reach a definite stage this year. Although 1919 is a long ways off, in view of the elaborateness of the affair, three years is not too long a time on which to work out the spectacle. J. Read Bain, an alumnus of Willamette, who was graduated in the 1914 class, has offered to write the pageant in honor of the occasion for a small sum in comparison to the immense amount of labor involved. Mr. Bain is a poet of rising prominence whose work while at Willamette
