Weekly Report of Union Stock Yards

North Portland, Ore., Nov. 22.—Cattle: A good supply offered the trade again this morning, which found an excellent demand. All offerings sold readily and practically everything had changed hands long before noon. Prices on the best grades ruled 10c to 15c higher, while the ordinary kinds, of which there was a large supply, sold steady. Some very good cattle were included in the day's offerings.
Beef Steers.—The beef steer trade was active under good demand and the market was in good shape. Prices were steady to 10 cents higher on the good ones, while other offerings found good sale at steady prices. One load of prime quality heaves brought $7.50, which was 20 cents higher than anything sold here since early spring. Good to choice steers sold at $6.75 to $7, with but a light supply; with fair ones from $6.25 to $6.50.
Cows and Heifers.—Demand for she stuff continued heavy today and prices were steady to 10 cents higher. Best cows sold at $5.75 with good ones at $5.50. Fair kinds sold around 5 cents.
Stockers and Breeders.—The trade in stockers and feeders was light this morning. Good steers were in good demand and sold readily at steady prices. The plain kinds found fair sale. Good steers are bringing $5.25 to $5.75 and fair kinds around 5 cents. Feeding cows sold at $4.50 to $5 for the best.

THE MARKETS

The following prices for fruits and vegetables are those asked by the wholesaler of the retailer, and not what is paid to the producer. All other prices are those paid the producer. Corrections are made daily.
Wheat is a trifle weaker today with quotations from $1.25 to $1.28. Shorts have taken the advance of $1 a ton predicted last week. Valencia oranges are about off the market and hereafter the northern California navels from Tulare county will supply orange wants. Now that Thanksgiving time is about on us, the price of cranberries has advanced. Parsnips, carrots and beets are quoted at $1.25.

ARMY AND NAVY BLIND SAYS AERO EXPERT

Points Out That Aircrafts Are the Eyes in Modern Warfare
By George Martin, (Written for the United Press.)
New York, Nov. 22.—Declaring that the United States army and navy are blind, Alan R. Hawley, president of the Aero Club of America, today pointed to the record-breaking Chicago-to-New York flight of Miss Ruth Law and other great stridings recently shown in the development of aviation here as an indication that "eyes" for the country's fighting forces are now available.
The development, however, has been through private enterprise, and he declared failure of the government to increase its aerial forces would be a "menace to our national security."
"We lack two thousand aeroplanes, a dozen dirigibles and 125 kite balloons for observation work. We lack them as needed national defenses and to place this country aerially where it belongs," said Hawley. "The head of the British admiralty, Lord Balfour, recently said what might well be needed by us:
'It avails England nothing to have control of the sea unless it also has control of the air.'
The splendid records recently made by Miss Law, Carlstrom, Border fliers and others in private enterprise prove that it is not lack of good aeroplanes and aviators that keep our army and navy blind.
'While half a dozen other countries have between 2000 and 9000 aviators each and twice as many aeroplanes, our army and navy combined have only about 100 flying men.
'The 45 batteries of field artillery and the 75 forts in the six coast artillery districts have not a single aeroplane, dirigible or observation balloon. They are blind and the territory which they should protect would be at the mercy of the long range guns of vessels lying beyond the point of vision of the artillery observers stationed in the forts. Hundreds of millions of dollars are invested in these coast defenses and field artillery which would be ineffective without aerial eyes.
'In these days of transatlantic submarines, eyes of our navy are absolutely necessary. A chain of aerial stations should be established throughout the country. Each of our thirteen coast naval districts should have a station.'
Grazing Rates on National Forests to Advance in 1917
Portland, Ore., Nov. 22.—District Forester George H. Cecil, Portland, Oregon, announces that after careful consideration the secretary of agriculture has approved an increase in the fees to be charged for grazing livestock on the national forest ranges.
This increase will be made gradually for the next three years, until the charges reach a point equivalent to two thirds of the charges made by private owners for grazing stock on their land.
Stock associations are being advised of this decision in order that statements regarding the views of their members may be submitted to the forester by February 1, 1917, in case they desire to discuss the matter.
Investigation of rental values from time to time, says Mr. Cecil, has revealed that the government charges for grazing on the national forests are only one third of the market value of the forage. Since timber and other resources of the national forests are sold at their market value, there is an increasing demand that forage re-

Says Oil May Prove Cure for Leprosy

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 22.—Experiments with Chancreoils oil, known for centuries in India, are being carried on here with astonishing results in the treatment of Andrew Alex, suffering from leprosy, according to medical men today. He is under the care of Dr. Herbert Coe, of the city health department, who was sent by the state in 1912 to the Orient to study infectious diseases.
Dr. Victor G. Heiser, formerly health director of the Philippines and loaned to the Rockefeller Foundation to study hookworm, has had success with the strange vegetable oil in leprosy according to Dr. Coe.
Although Alex has been at the isolation ward of the municipally owned Finland sanitarium for about two months, medical men declare that the oil is having wonderful effect, and is absorbing the leprosy deposits.
sources should be disposed of in like manner.
The national forests were created for the primary purpose of conserving the timber and water supply. The grazing use of the ranges, which was found to exist when active control of the forests was begun, was treated as a secondary matter and only a portion of the administrative cost of handling the forests was asked as a grazing fee.
Since the national forest states share in all the receipts from national forest business to the extent of 25 per cent, the revenue to these states will be materially increased by this decision.
For the fiscal year ending June 30, 1916, the states of Oregon and Washington received $32,820.65 as their share of the grazing receipts from the national forests within their borders. Without considering increased receipts from other forest resources this figure would be doubled by the advance in grazing rates.
