State House News

The Pacific Spruce Company, of Portland, with a capital of $5000, filed articles of incorporation this morning with the corporation commissioner.

Workmen are busy trying to find the leak in the oil supply pipe at the state house. The pipe that conducts oil from the tank to the furnace is believed to have sprung a leak with the result that oil is being wasted.

The public service commissioners are in Portland for the demurrage hearing which is on for today. They were occupied yesterday with the dangerous crossing hearing.

According to statistics compiled by the state labor commissioner's office, there are six firms in Oregon whose business is preparing coffee, teas, and spices for consumption. The volume of business transacted during 1916 was $956,000.

Monday, November 27, has been fixed by the state highway commission for the purpose of meeting the sub-committee on the "Oregon Good Roads Committee" which was appointed to consider highway commission and engineer. At that time several important questions relating to the future of Oregon highways will come up for discussion.

Mandamus proceedings in the supreme court were filed yesterday by John B. Coffey, clerk of Multnomah county, to compel the payment to him of $15,522.43 alleged to be due from fees and court charges on suits when he took charge of the office January 3, 1913.

Attorney General Brown, in an opinion rendered yesterday on inquiry of Colonel R. Eberhard, district attorney of Union county, asking under what statute a charge for giving liquor to minors should be made, stated that the law which makes it criminal to give liquor to minors is still in force. He says the statute has not been repealed by the prohibition laws and states that the supreme court upheld this opinion. State Engineer Lewis goes to Albany today to be present at a business men's luncheon. The problem of good roads will be up for discussion.

Yesterday the car shortage jumped to 3140 with only 222 available for loading. This is the highest point reached yet in the car shortage situation. The report of the Douglas County Light and Water company was received this morning by the public service commission and shows that the electric operating revenues amounted to $52,078.76 and the operating expenses $19,340.37, the water revenues $22,244.56 This leaves $38,768.99 as net income for the electrical operations and $10,274.33 as net income for the water operations.

The Great Southern Railroad company also filed its annual report, which shows gross operating income as $7,920.32 and total deductions for interest and expenses of $31,841.34, which leaves the company $23,921.02 in the hole.

Logging and insurance firms with an aggregate capital of $50,000 filed articles of incorporation with the corporation commissioner today. The Klamath Logging and Timber company was organized to do a general sawmill and lumber business with James L. Conly, E. W. Barnes and J. D. Williams as incorporators. The Mercur, Cargas, Bates and Lively company was formed to carry on an insurance business in Portland. The incorporators are Paul C. Bates, Karl V. Livey and W. E. Pearson.
