Naxwell Helps to Tie Nuptial Knot in Tacoma

As thrilling as a "Hazards Helen" movie was the wild dash of two Tacoma girls a few days ago in a Maxwell touring car to get a best man for a wedding. As it was the episode developed features which were little story which go to make up this story been deliberately plotted by a professional scenario writer, here is about the way the cast of characters and a synopsis of the play would have lined up:

Bride.....Ranelle Corbett

Bridegroom.....John Wood

Bridesmaid.....Hazel Heasley

Best Man.....Raymond Corbett

Parson.....Rev. R. H. McGinnis

Maxwell 25.....By Itself

Synopsis.
Raymond Corbett is employed in a logging camp many miles east of Tacoma. His sister, Ranelle, is about to be married to John Wood of Tacoma.

At five o'clock, only a short time before the hour set for the wedding ceremony, it is discovered that the bride's brother has not been notified of the time at which he is to officiate as best man. Moments are precious. Bride insists her brother can be the only man attendant upon the bridegroom and that it is imperative he be at the wedding at any cost.

Suddenly Miss Heasley remembers her speedy Maxwell car and suggests a death-defying drive into the mountains, bridging time and space, seize Corbett at work in the logging camp, bundle his best tools together and make a mad race back to Tacoma in time for the fixed hour of the wedding.

No sooner said than done. In a jiffy the young women, with Miss Heasley at the wheel of her Maxwell, are tearing over the city streets and the mountain roads to the logging camp, leaving in their wake a cannonade of deafening explosions from their open muffler cut-out, zipping by telegraph poles and pine trees at a speed which makes the passing scenery resemble a picket fence.

Corbett is overtaken on the forest road in the act of snagging a huge pine log to the camp. He is rushed to the car, hurried to his boarding place, his tools thrown together in great haste and the thrilling race back to Tacoma is on.

Despite a multiplicity of dangers and thrills through which the trio is plunged they arrive in Tacoma just in time for the ceremony and to the decided relief of the waiting bridegroom, who had learned only a few moments before the perilous mission into the mountains. It is just 8 o'clock. All answer the roll-call in the rectory of the Church of the Holy Communion where the Rev. R. H. McGinnis says the binding words that make Miss Corbett Mrs. Wood.

L. A. C. ORCHESTRA HAS FINE AUDIENCE

Numbers Warmly Applauded and Encores Were Insistent

Selections from the operas given with skill and musical finish characterized the program rendered last night in the armory by the L. A. C. orchestra, which was the second number on the Salem Lyceum course. The course is under the direction of the Ellison-White Lyceum bureau. The armory was well filled with an appreciative audience.

The ensemble work of the orchestra revealed a unity and care in expression that made the numbers wholly pleasing and satisfying. In the solo work the players won their audience with their artistic work and clever characterizations.

One of the favorite numbers of the evening was the quartet from "Firefly," "When a Maid Comes Knocking," Miss Edith Beebe as the cellist was excellent, and Miss Beulah Truitt, who served at the trap drum showed the wonderful effects to be derived from that instrument. She also appeared in several amusing readings and impersonations.

"One Fine Day," a selection from Madame Butterfly, sung by Miss Marvin Tharpe, brought rounds of applause. She was recalled insistently. Miss Faye Palmer appeared in a trombone solo which won unstinted applause. She rendered the "Air Varie," Clay Smith, with excellent coloring of tone. In her encores she responded much such heart-touching numbers as "Comin' Through the Rye."

The range of temperature yesterday was from 47 to 34 and the river fell 1.4 feet. It is now 0.7 feet above zero.

A marriage license was issued this afternoon to William W. Oglesby, a bookkeeper of Salem, and Ruth Wells, a Salem stenographer.

A misstatement was made in the Thursday issue of the Capital Journal with regard to the number of Thanksgiving baskets given out by the local Salvation Army, as only a few families are usually helped at Thanksgiving as the most of the help is reserved for the Christmas season and later months of the winter.

Tentative drawings have been made by George M. Post for the proposed girls' dormitory of Willamette university, in order that C. E. Richards, secretary of education of Willamette university, may have something to show what the university hopes to build when sufficient funds are subscribed. Already $8,000 has been given by W. W. Brown of eastern Oregon. The plans as drawn by Mr. Post call for about a 40,000 building.

This is a gentle hint to the would-be speeder and especially to the driver who cuts corners in the down-town district. Two special policemen have been placed on duty recently just to catch these speeders and corner cutters, and so far the crop has been fairly large. The policemen are not in uniform, hence the man who violates the city ordinance is likely to get "pinched" when not a uniform is in sight.
