

Pain in Back of Neck Often Denotes Kidney Weakness

Symptoms of kidney trouble are various, but pain in back of neck and dull, aching feelings in small of back are to be looked for. Simply by realizing that these distresses are often the onset or signals of kidney trouble it is well to get rid of them immediately by toning up the kidneys.

Associate Dr. Pierce with his great tonic, "Favorite Prescription," universally known as an invigorator for womanly ills. Kidney, Bladder and Uric Acid troubles bring misery to many. When the kidneys are weak or diseased, these natural filters do not cleanse the blood sufficiently, and the poisons are carried to all parts of the body. There follow depression, aches and pains, heaviness, drowsiness, irritability, headaches, chilliness and rheumatism. In some people there are sharp pains in the back and joints, distressing bladder disorders and sometimes obstinate dropsy. The uric acid sometimes forms into gravel or kidney stones. When the uric acid affects the muscles and joints, it causes lumbago, rheumatism, gout or sciatica.

GALE & COMPANY TO QUIT BUSINESS

Almost Prohibitive Prices Shuts Out Stores Selling at Low Figures

The firm of Gale & Co., located at North Commercial and Court streets in the building formerly occupied by the Chicago store has decided to retire from business and are announcing in today's issue a special closing out sale. The firm has been one of the popular price stores of the city and the decision to discontinue their store will be greatly regretted. Mr. Brill who is manager and buyer for the store, in discussing the decision of the store to close out its stock, said: "The prices on staple merchandise are almost prohibitive. Besides you are never sure of getting what you have ordered. Take stockings, for instance, have raised about 50 per cent, a quality that a year ago we bought for 7 1/2 cents per yard, the manufacturer asks now 1 1/2 cents, and so on, on all lines throughout the store. Cotton and wool underwear are almost off the market and the jobber or manufacturer will not accept your order at a certain price but at value, and even then with out a promise of sure delivery. Under these conditions a store like ours, established to sell goods at low figures only, cannot continue and live up to its policy. Consequently, we have decided to get out of the game for the present, anyhow."

Winning of Barbara Worth Is Splendidly Staged

"The Winning of Barbara Worth," which comes to the Grand theatre next Thursday, is adapted from the book of the same name by Mark Swain and is proving one of the most successful plays artistically and financially of all the book plays presented in many years. There is a good and sufficient reason for this. L. C. Yeomans, the producer, believes that the ordinary company of players and a mediocre scenic production, does not give satisfaction to theatre-goers in the smaller cities any more than it would give satisfaction in the largest cities. He believes that things theatrical are as well known in Salem as in Montreal or Philadelphia, and that a good play is appreciated in this city just as much as in any other, consequently to warrant success he has given careful attention to every detail. He has staged "The Winning of Barbara Worth" with the same lavishness; has engaged a company of players sufficiently strong and has taken care of every requirement as though the play had no engagements except those of the very largest cities in the country. It is very often the case that New York successes make up several companies to play outside the metropolis, and that number three or four, with cheap actors, cheap scenery and run on a very economical basis except to do as much business as the original. Mr. Yeomans knows different, and he has taken care that there shall be only one company playing this success this season, and that it shall compare in every requirement with the best there is to give in the theatrical world. One scene in particular will compare favorably with any effect seen with any play in years; the Sand Storm in the prologue of the play. For vivid realism it has rarely been equaled on any stage.

OFFICIAL DIRECTORY OF SUPERINTENDENTS

Contains List of Clerks and Teachers in Districts Employing Two or More

Superintendent of Public Instruction J. A. Churchill has just issued an official directory of superintendents, supervisors, principals, high school teachers and standard high schools of the state. There are 19 school districts of the first class, each having an enumeration of over 1000 children. The directory contains the names and addresses of district clerks and of all teachers in schools employing more than one teacher. The number of pupils and teachers in each school, together with the salaries, tax levies, etc., are also given. The directory shows that 173 high schools have met the requirements for standardization and have been standardized by the state board of education. Besides giving the rules for standardizing and accrediting secondary schools, the directory also gives suggested lists of apparatus for the different science courses, with approximate prices, and the addresses of responsible dealers, together with a suggested list of books for the high school library. The directory is the most complete yet published.

Moonshine Still Depicted On Screen

HELEN HOLMES STARRS 'MUTUAL STAR' Mutual Feature Shows Famous Haunt of Lawbreakers

In the Helen Holmes Mutual Star Production, "Judith of the Cumberlands," the five act romantic drama of the Kentucky mountaineers, which comes to the Big theatre on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, a famous moonshine still has been accurately produced. Director J. P. Metowan was furnished photographs by a friend in the internal revenue department who participated in a raid upon the famous still which was located in a mountain fastness between Kentucky and Tennessee. The still was located in a cave had of access, and the government officers worked months before finding it. As this gripping human interest drama dealt with the feudists in that section of the country, Mr. Metowan, to make the picture more realistic, reproduced in every detail this noted moonshiner's retreat. "Judith of the Cumberlands" was adapted for the screen from the celebrated novel of Alice Metowan; and the picturization is forceful and dramatic. Helen Holmes in the leading role achieves new honors by her able interpretation of a tensely emotional characterization. She is supported by an able cast of players. It took five ballots to reach an agreement. The first three attempts to reach a verdict resulted in a vote of ten to two for acquittal; the fourth was 11 to 1 for acquittal; the fifth was unanimous and sent McDaniel to his home and three motherless babies, a free man. McDaniel expects to hunt down the murderer or murderers of his wife and make them answer the same charge on which he has been acquitted, he declared here today. "I believe I have the descriptions of the men who committed the murder," he said as he drew from his pocket a memorandum sheet. "At any rate, I have enough evidence against certain persons to make me believe I can catch those who killed Harriett."

The Spirit of Christmas THE spirit of Christmas is the spirit of service! The faithful carrier of parcels in Charles Dickens' "The Cricket of the Hearth" was an embodiment of this spirit. John Peerybingle typified personal service in transportation for his day and age. He never dreamed—Charles Dickens never dreamed—of the magnitude of Wells Fargo Service, nor of its thousands of devoted expressmen, upon whose efficient work the convenience, comfort, and pleasure of so many depend. Steadily the express has built its reputation for both fidelity and dispatch in the handling of its business; yet it is in the flood-tide of Christmas shipments that its service is put to the greatest test. It is at this time that Wells Fargo needs most the co-operation of its patrons in order that it may handle without delay its millions of Christmas packages. Therefore we make an earnest request that you ship early this Christmas. To help you do this we furnish attractive labels requesting the recipient of your packages not to open them until Christmas day. Wells Fargo & Co. Express

FRED BIGLER HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE Supposed To Have Caught From Stove—Practically Nothing Saved Fire last night completely destroyed the home of Fred Bigler at 2513 North Fifth street. The blaze is believed to have caught from one of the stoves. Practically everything in the house, including the family clothing, except that which was stored over, was destroyed. Mrs. E. Wallace, a neighbor, discovered the fire and turned in the alarm. The department responded quickly, and although 1200 feet of hose were laid it was impossible to save anything except the nearby houses. In the rush of laying the hose Captain Ivan of the fire department cut his lip. A chimney fire at 353 South Winter street this morning at 9:05 o'clock called out the fire department but no damage was done.

Company M Members To Become Veterans In order that the members of Company M who were on the border last summer may fittingly respond to the invitation to become members of the Marion County Veterans' association, it has been decided to meet in the armory tonight to form an organization which will be similar to the Spanish-American War Veterans. Temporary organization is planned for tonight when plans for the future will be outlined. It is planned to have Company M, because it was the first to mobilize last June, be the first to organize a military society among those who took part in the Mexican expedition. This organization is a preliminary to the meeting of the Marion County Veterans' association in the armory Thursday.

German Submarine Shells American Ship New York, Dec. 6.—American members of the crew of the steamship John Lambert, reaching New York today aboard the French liner Espagne, brought word that the John Lambert was shelled and sunk without warning by a German submarine. The attack took place, the crew said, November 22, off the Isle of Wight. The John Lambert is listed as an American vessel. She was one of 12 ships built by the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence Transportation company. The French line agreed to purchase all these vessels but the John Lambert had not been delivered. She was to have been at Havre after the trip on which she was sunk. Members of the crew declared the submarine first sent a shot through the bridge and continued firing while the men were getting into the boats. They said they rowed 40 miles to the French coast, a trip which required 12 hours.
