

Some Little stories and Gossip of the Legislature

The first scrap in the senate took place yesterday afternoon when a resolution introduced by Senator Garland...

Seven Were Dropped. Seven, so to speak, had fallen before the committee's axe. This would make a saving of the blessed taxpayers' money of $1,400.

Senator Vinton brought up reinforcements and backed Dimick. Senator Pierce thought "four of a kind" was good enough to stand on and indorsed the original resolution.

Senator Smith, of Coos and Curry, was down in the southwest, wanted the committee to have all the help necessary, and no more. Few clerks were needed by these committees just now and they would not be needed for two weeks at least.

He believed the system was wrong and that the pressure brought to bear on senators to appoint friends political or other, to clerkships was responsible for extravagance in this line.

Senator Houston said the same fight had been made the session before and at perhaps all others before that, and none of these battles got anywhere.

Senator Dimick opened a rapid fire argument that the resolution did not require the clerks to be employed at once, but they could be hired when needed.

Senator Eddy dropped a verbal bomb which when it exploded left the impression that he would have more confidence in promises of future economy.

 DANDRUFF SOON RUINS THE HAIR  Girls—if you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely.

To do this, get about four ounces of ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and three or four more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid arvon at any drug store. It is inexpensive and four ounces is all you will need, no matter how much dandruff you have. This simple remedy never fails.

The property of some of Mr. Lafferty's friends, probably moved by a spirit of revenge. The friends went to Lafferty and Lafferty referred them to the game warden or commission. They put in their complaint that the beavers were damming the little streams and flooding their property.

When the senate yesterday afternoon authorized the appointment of a bill clerk at $5 a day, on recommendation of the resolutions committee, President Moser appointed Mrs. Frances H. Whitehead to the position.

But Lafferty is not through. He purpose tackling the beavers in their little dams—that is he will tackle them in the legislature—while the beavers are in their homes. He represents Benton county and Benton county insists it will no longer be dammed by the beavers or damned by the laws passed by the dam—that is to say, the legislature.

Lafferty has something up his sleeve. What it is no one knows—but it is there. It may be a long shot or it may be a law providing for an open season for beavers, game warden and things; but whatever it may be, its object will be to give the dam infested farmer some rights which even a beaver is bound to respect.

Lafferty may be loaded for beaver, but you can't tell by the looks of him.

With the resolution introduced in the senate yesterday by Senator Wilbur, of Hood River and Wasco counties, that at the end of 20 days the legislature take a recess for 20 days to digest the bills submitted, the question of dividing the session into two periods of 20 days each was officially brought to the attention of the legislature.

Representative Martin, of Marion, had fully intended to introduce such a bill in the house but on learning that the matter was brought up in the senate yesterday he decided to let the matter go.

Ben Huntington, reading clerk of the house, read several passages from the Holy Writ last Saturday in Portland in an attempt to convince a fake member of the house that he was a first class reader.

When poor legislation is enacted in the ordinary session, the legislator's excuse is that he had no time to consider the matter. With the proposed division of the session, the members can take the bills home with them and consider the measure carefully and without rush and pressure of a hotly debated session.

Much comment has been heard in favor of the division. That bit would cost very little additional expense is believed and that this amount would be saved by the enactment of wise and sane laws.

Delinquent Home Wanted. To provide for the segregation of delinquent children from dependent children while awaiting disposition in the courts of the large cities, and especially Portland, a bill is being prepared for introduction into the house.

No religious instruction is to be given, except such as may be allowed by law in public schools. Religious training according to the belief of the parents of the child may be arranged for. The proposed measure provides that "any child who shall be deemed to be an habitual truant, an habitual absentee, or an habitual school offender may be committed to the parental school by the judge of the juvenile court of the commission in which the child resides."

Secretary Cleot yesterday afternoon received a telegram from Charles E. Hughes, candidate for president on the republican ticket at the election last November, in reply to the message sent Monday afternoon by the electors for the state of Oregon stating that the vote of Oregon was cast for him.

Charles W. Fairbanks, republican candidate for vice-president, who was sent a similar message as Mr. Hughes, replied in the following language: "I am just in receipt of the telegram of Mr. Hughes from the electors of Oregon, which I greatly appreciate. Oregon has done magnificently. She has loyally pointed the way of our national duty. She is indeed a splendid republican oasis and is entitled to all praise. I most heartily thank the electors, individually and collectively, for their kindly sentiments."

John G. Schroder, who was chief clerk of the ways and means committee at the last session of the legislature, and who expects to land in a similar situation at this session, arrived in this city Monday after spending six months on the Mexican border with Troop A, Oregon cavalry, stationed. His home is in Portland and in civil life he is known as Attorney Schroder, but in military life he is "Chief Saddler." When he went to the Oregon Agricultural college he specialized in entomology. Since being on the border he says he has discovered 157 varieties of creatures that crawl and have their habitat on the human frame.

The salaries of the members of the house of representatives and the clerks were decided yesterday afternoon. There are 60 members of the house and only 59 will receive the $3 a day fixed as their compensation. The speaker of the house receives $5 a day, the chief clerk $8, and the assistant chief clerk, calendar and reading clerks each receive $6 each.

Ben Huntington, reading clerk of the house, read several passages from the Holy Writ last Saturday in Portland in an attempt to convince a fake member of the house that he was a first class reader. A friend of Huntington who knew he was a candidate for reading clerk introduced Ben to Speaker Aitchison stating that Mr. Congrave was Representative Rowe, of Tillamook and Yamhill counties. Ben backed into the pseudo Mr. Rowe with avidity and asked him his support for reading clerk. In his eagerness to impress Mr. Rowe, Huntington took him up to his room and read whole chapters of the Bible, and then later discovered he was the victim of a joke.

FISCAL YEAR OF PROBLEM UTILITIES Recommendation That It Correspond With Calendar Year

Recommendation that the statutes of Oregon be amended so that the fiscal year for public utilities and railroads operating in the state correspond to the calendar year, which change would bring the laws of the state in harmony with the rulings of the interstate commerce commission in regard to the time for filing annual reports, is the feature of the tenth annual report of the public service commission of Oregon, which was sent to Governor Withycombe last evening.

At present the fiscal year for public utilities and railroads operating in Oregon ends June 30 of each year. It requires about six months thereafter to get all the reports in shape for submission. It is proposed to change the ending of the fiscal year to December 31, and the date of submitting the annual report to June 30 of the following year.

Railroad construction during the past year, as shown in the report, compares favorably with other states, and is, in fact, some what in advance of a number of neighboring commonwealths. The S. P. put into operation the Coos Bay line, which has 118.3 miles; the O. W. R. and N. completed the Eastern Oregon Line to Craze, a distance of 127 miles; fifteen miles of the California-Oregon Coast railroad was completed from Grants Pass to Crescent City; the Portland and Oregon City railroad completed 15 miles of road on the Clackamas river; the Valley and Siletz railroad built 13 miles from Independence to Siletz, while many other lines were proposed and are under process of construction.

The total number of complaints before the commission is 95 as compared with 130 in 1915. Of these complaints, 72 are in the railroad division and 20 in utility matters. New informal railroad complaints number 242 for 1916 as against 263 in 1915; informal utility complaints in 1915 numbered 204 against 165 in 1916. Of the informal railroad matters 23 were sufficient to justify docketing, 243 were filed during the year and 17 were pending at the time of last report. Adjustment to 183 was secured informally, 9 transferred to formal or other positions, 2 carried to the interstate commerce commission, 5 dropped for lack of jurisdiction, 14 discontinued because of disinclination of the plaintiff to pursue to a conclusion, 14 dismissed as not well founded, and 32 are still pending.

Of new complaints, 187 were filed by individuals, companies or associations; 18 investigations were on the commission's own motion, and 37 with the carriers. The report goes on to cite the most important cases that came before it. Among these cases were the valuation of the Portland Railway, Light and Power company, the valuation of the properties of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company and the adjustment of exchange and toll. The car shortage situation, the car demurrage rates fixed on a graduated basis, and better protection given railroads against highway grade crossing through informal conferences and correspondence.

In the past year there has been no change in the scope of the commission but its jurisdiction has been questioned in the complaints filed. The report recounts the changes in the commission in 1916. On January 3, 1916, C. B. Aitchison was chosen chairman. On June 12, 1916, he resigned to become solicitor for valuation committee of the national association of railway commissioners at Washington, D. C., H. H. Corey, who received the nomination for commissioner from the Eastern Oregon division in the May primaries, was appointed by Governor Withycombe to fill the vacancy. He was elected commissioner in November with Fred G. Buchtel as commissioner from the Western Division, and on January 3, the commission was re-organized with Commissioner Miller as chairman.

Big Masterpiece Film Coming to Grand Theatre "Intolerance," D. W. Griffith's latest masterpiece, will be the attraction at the Grand theatre starting next Monday with matinee Tuesday.

Never within the memory of theatre goers has anything approaching the splendor and magnificence of this attraction been presented on the American stage. Nothing short of a master could conceive the story and produce it as Griffith has done. Those who have been of the opinion that Griffith had reached his limit in his production of "The Birth of a Nation," simply gasp at the magnitude and splendor of "Intolerance." As one New York critic said: "Intolerance" is to the feature of today.

Through all its thrills, pathos and comedy, "Intolerance" carries a strong argument against the throttling of personal liberty, and its moral is sent home in a manner so positive as to cause the public to think.

The musical score is interpreted by a large symphony orchestra carried by the company and many realistic effects add greatly to the enjoyment of the attraction.

Matinee starts at 2:10 sharp and evenings at 8:10 sharp. Patrons are earnestly requested to make early purchases of seats to avoid standing in line and missing the impressive opening scenes. Seats on sale now at Opera House Pharmacy.

RAILROADS BUY ARMS. Washington, Jan. 10.—That the railroads of the nation were buying arms and ammunition and engaging strike-breakers while last summer's strike situation was tense, was the direct charge made today by W. N. Doak, vice president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen in charge of the president's railroad legislative program.
