Mrs. Milton L. Meyers was hostess today for a charming birthday luncheon in honor of Mrs. R. E. Lee Steiner and Mrs. Harry H. Olinger.

Miss Marjorie Kay who is attending the University of Oregon, came home yesterday for a several days visit.

Miss Irene Curtis and Miss Gertrude East arrived home today from Corvallis to pass the vacation period.

Spring Valley News

(Capital Journal Special Service.)
Spring Valley, Ore., Jan. 29.—Friday evening, January 29, a number of the citizens of Spring Valley met at the Lincoln school house and organized the Spring Valley Good Roads League, electing the following officers: President, R. C. Shepard; vice-president, John Spang; secretary, J. J. Stratton; treasurer, John Neiger; press agent, J. P. McKinlay. A committee was appointed to investigate the expense of installing a gravel dredge at Lincoln. Final steps for organizing the league will be taken at a meeting to be held Friday evening, February 2, at Lincoln, at which time it is hoped a large crowd will be present.

Mrs. McCarthy has returned to her home at Ebo, after visiting here with her sister and brother, Mrs. S. H. Barker and J. E. Phillips.

Harry Crawford was a Dallas visitor on Thursday.

Rev. Pottsmith, of McMinnville, who preached here the second Sunday morning in each month, gave an interesting lecture on Mexico at the church Sunday evening, illustrated by stereoscopic views.

C. S. Dawson, of Portland, arrived Thursday for a visit with his mother, Mrs. J. E. Phillips. Mr. Dawson, who has been employed on the Portland

Jump from Bed in Morning and Drink Hot Water

Tells why everyone should drink hot water each morning before breakfast.

Why is man and woman, half the time, feeling nervous, despondent, worried, some days headachy, dull and unwell, some days really incapacitated by illness?

If we all would practice inside bathing, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of thousands of half sick, anemic looking souls with pasty, muddy complexions we should see crowds of happy, healthy, rosy-cheeked people everywhere. The reason is that the human system does not rid itself each day of all the waste which it accumulates under our present mode of living. For every ounce of food and drink taken into the system nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out, else it ferments and forms ptomaine like poisons which are absorbed into the blood.

Just as necessary as it is to clean the ashes from the furnace each day, before the fire will burn bright and hot, so we must each morning clear the inside organs of the previous day's accumulation of indigestible waste and body toxins. Men and women, whether sick or well, are advised to drink each morning before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, as a harmless means of washing out of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels the indigestible material, waste, sour bile and toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Millions of people who had their turn of constipation, bilious attacks, acid stomach, nervous days and sleepless nights have become real cranks about the morning inside bath. A quarter pound of limestone phosphate will not cost much at the drug store, but is sufficient to demonstrate to anyone, its cleansing, sweetening and freshening effect upon the system.

An extra good program is promised for the meeting of the Parent-Teachers' association to be held at the school house Friday evening, February 2. Mr. Hull, a musician of Salem, has kindly consented to help in the program, besides which there will be several numbers by local talent. No admission fee is charged—the object is simply to keep up the interest in the school and to have a good time. A cordial invitation to be present is extended to all.

Rev. G. A. McKinlay and Francis McKinlay were in Portland last week at the graduation exercises of the Washington high school. Miss Muriel McKinlay being one of the graduates.

John Van Stanton, who has been working for Frank Crawford, while cutting wood Monday, cut his foot so badly that he had to be rushed to the Salem hospital, where the wound was dressed and six stitches taken. Fortunately Mr. Crawford had just recently had all his employees put under the protection of the state industrial accident commission, so the young man will not suffer as much financially, as he might have otherwise.

Mrs. Judson, of Salem, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Jas. French.

Rogue River Courier: Elijah Davidson whose chase after a wounded bear about four years ago resulted in the discovery of the Josephine cave, was a Saturday visitor in the city, bringing in his catch of fur for the first portion of the trapping season. The interesting part of Mr. Davidson's catch was the nine bear skins, he having taken two black, two brown and five cinnamon bears during the winter. He also had six bobcats and one coyote. Mr. Davidson's trapping grounds are on the slopes of Grayback and along the upper branches of Williams creek.

Bandon, Ore.: The Robert Dollar company is taking up the walls of the logging road along Seven Mile creek and will ship them together with other logging equipment to British Columbia, where a mill is to be constructed in the spring. Stanley Dollar, vice-president of the company, was here from San Francisco to inspect the mill with the view of probably reopening it within the next few months.

New York Now Closed Port Because of Submarine War

New York, Feb. 1.—New York today is virtually a closed port to following the receipt of Germany's message warning the beginning of a blockade on England and unrestricted submarine warfare.

Only one ship of any size—the Holland-American liner Nordam—is in port today, and no sailings of any large trans-Atlantic vessels are now scheduled.

The British Atlantic fleet was en route to the waters off New York harbor two days ago, ostensibly bent on chasing the German raider which has been operating in the South Atlantic. The entire fleet is now in position to convey shipping if necessary, according to admission in British circles here.

The huge Vaterland, the world's largest ship, is the only one of the interned German vessels in this vicinity, according to reports, which has coal enough for more than a day's voyage.

By order of Dudley Field Malone, collector of the port of New York, a United States destroyer, stationed at quarantine in New York harbor, turned back all ships last night. No reason was given, but supposed the action was taken to give ship owners time to learn the gravity of Germany's message.

British naval preparations around New York harbor within the last few days give ample proof, according to shipping circles, that Great Britain knew of the approaching pronouncement of Germany.

Great Britain's North Atlantic squadron was ordered several days ago into waters adjacent to this harbor, ostensibly for the purpose of searching for a German raider. It is now believed the precautions were taken with a view to assisting the warships as convoys for allied ships leaving New York harbor.

The British and French naval attaches conferred today and announced that they could take no action until they received instructions from their home governments.

Officials of steamship lines said no cancellation of sailings had been ordered as yet. They apparently were taking no action until the situation clears.

British steamship officials announced they had no authority to cancel or postpone sailings as such action would have to be ordered from London.

Comments were bitter and ironical in their comments on the German proclamation and instructions to the American government regarding painting ships. One expressed the opinion that American shippers "would play hell" conforming to the German decorative scheme by which American ships are to be identified.

Two torpedo boat destroyers are maintained in neutrality off the harbor, steamship officials said.

It was stated authoritatively that 4,000 British ships of various classification are available for convoy duty and submarine chasing on the Atlantic.

Approximately 2,000 American citizens are now on the Atlantic, bound either for this country or Europe. In addition there are hundreds of Americans working as members of crews on ships carrying supplies to the allies.

Break May Come.

Rumors flew fast about the capital throughout the day. They ranged from rumors that Von Bernstorff would be, or had been, handed his passports to declarations that the president would pronounce a new doctrine of neutrality for the United States, urging that this country propose a course of concession and sacrifice in maintaining its neutrality for the good of humanity.

In official circles the belief predominated that a break in relations with Germany appeared impending, but that such action would be preceded by a warning from this country and that the loss of an American life would mean the end.

Ships Now Approaching Danger Zone.

American liner Finland.
American liner Philadelphia.
Norwegian-American liner Bergensfjord.
French liner La Touraine.
Greek liner Themistocles.
White Star liner Baltic.
Holland-American liner Rydam.
Italian liner America.
Cunard liner Saxonia.
Anchor liner California.

These ships are due in allied ports within a few days.

Many British vessels are undoubtedly on their way to the United States unknown to shipping on this side, due to orders of the admiralty veiling with secrecy all movements of the British ships.

German Freighter Sunk.

Charleston, S. C., Feb. 1.—The German freighter Liebenfels, lying in harbor here since the war began, mysteriously to go down by the stern and continued sinking until her after deck awash and her bows raised. Tugs standing by offered assistance, but it was refused, the captain said.

While no reason has been found for sinking, shipping men in general leaned to the rumor that the Liebenfels must have been deliberately scuttled.

Captain Klattenhoff commanded the vessel.

NOT HOSTILE TO LAFFERTY'S BILL

(Corvallis Gazette-Times.)

The senate reporter on the Salem Journal, who is doing the best daily stuff in the state on the legislature, avers that he has no hostile intent towards Mr. Lafferty's beaver bill, but is perfectly willing to have the pesky varmints put on the free list and thus completely exterminated as a home industry. He is willing, he says, to do anything to help regulate the pest. He would stand for a law compelling them to take out a steam shovel's license, as well as carry a card in the Wood Choppers' union. He would regulate their work hours and compel them to wear a bell, a honk-honk, a fog horn, head and tail lights, a calf weaner and a dog muzzle. He would hedge them about with cerise ordinances and steel traps and by law confine their work entirely to logged off lands thereby making them take the place of Coolie labor. He would remedy the damnable abuse injuria maxim by repealing it, and let the beavers dam the legislature instead of water rights or substituting the theory of damni injurie act. He says he didn't mean to laugh at Mr. Lafferty's bill but that he got so wrought up over the matter that he became hysterical, and he makes restitution thus.

The Corvallis Times, if we are not mistaken, seems to think that the senate reporter for the Capital Journal has no sympathy for the folks over in Benton county in the beaver-infested region just because he spoke of Lafferty's bill as the pestiferous busy bodies in a light and airy vein. Such is not the case. It was because he did sympathize with the beaver victims that he mentioned the matter at all. "There is many a truth spoken in jest," and in this case there was not a word about the measly pigmy submarines the reporter did not feel clear down to his sandals. Anything Representative Lafferty does to those destructive wards of a sentimentally damp pool state has his hearty endorsement, even to the consolidation of the game department with the industrial welfare commission. The latter might do something to ameliorate the former's condition of what the late Grover Cleveland called "innocuous desuetude."

Lansing Goes to White House

At noon today Secretary Lansing took to the White House what was understood to be a declaration of this government's course of action in the crisis with Germany.

The document was what he had been working on throughout the morning.

Lansing declined to discuss the situation in any way before he had talked with the president, even refusing to state whether there would be any announcement by the government today.

Passports Suspended

The state department today suspended issuance of American passports to travelers abroad. No explanation was given and the length of the suspension was not announced.

President Confers With House

The president conferred today with his personal adviser, Colonel E. M. House, who hastened here secretly overnight.

It was expected the lid would be kept on congressional discussion for the moment—if possible—and that as promptly as possible the president would consult Chairman Stone of the senate foreign committee and others high in his councils, including perhaps his full cabinet.

Corn also shared the general demoralization. Much liquidation and stop loss selling was in evidence. Profit taking by shorts caused some recovery from the extreme decline. May corn opened down 3 5/8, later declining 1/8 more to 57 7/8. July opened down 3 5/8 and regained 1/8, going to 57 1/2.

Oats, in initial transactions, were from 2 3/8 to 3 1/8 cents lower than last night's close. Liquidation had stop loss selling was general. May oats opened down 2 3/8 cents, later losing an additional point, going to 52. July opened down 3 3/4, but subsequently regained 1/8, going to 51 1/8.

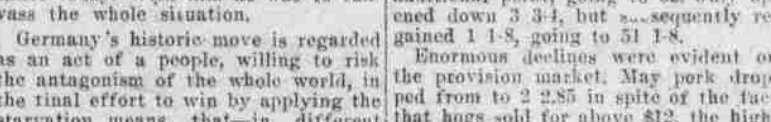

Enormous declines were evident on the provision market. May pork dropped from 2 2/8 to 2 1/8 in spite of the fact that hogs sold for above $12, the highest since the Civil war. Lard sold off 82 1/2 and ribs were correspondingly weak.
