The river is rising as the stage today is 6.7 feet above zero. It was about one year ago that the river made things uncomfortable at the dock, as on February 9, 1916, the stage was 26.2 feet above zero and just one year ago today it was 18.3 feet above. The range of temperature yesterday was from 51 to 35.

Miss Iza Constable died this morning in Pomona, Cal. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. O. Constable of this city. Last fall she accompanied her mother and sister to Pomona in the hope that the change of climate might be beneficial. Mr. Constable has been with his family about a month. Miss Constable was 25 years of age and was born in Salem. The funeral services will be held in Pomona.

Dr. T. B. Ford of this city left Monday for Forest Grove. He came to Salem earlier in the day on the stage from Stayton, where a representative of the Capital Journal was told the Salem man preached a sermon lasting exactly one and one-half hours in length Sunday night, and the discourse on Christian fundamentals was so replete with the wit and wisdom of the Capital City preacher that the length of the sermon was none too great if one were to judge by the number of persons who pressed their way forward at the close of the service to greet and compliment the visitor on his effort. The service was held at the Methodist Episcopal church. There was a large audience present. This was the fifth address of the day for the Salem man in the Stayton church. And some people say that preachers don't work.

Many an hour's comfort in a good pair of glasses, if fitted by Gardner & Keena.

In the volley ball contest last night at the Y. M. C. A., Captain Reinhardt's team overwhelmingly defeated Captain Watson's team by the score of 15 to 2. Franzsky and Staley served the ball for Reinhardt's team and Watson's men could not time or receive the serves. Accordingly, Captain Reinhardt's men are exulting over their victory, which they deem complete and conclusive. The biff ball game also went to Captain Reinhardt's men by the score of 7 to 6. While the winning team was out numbered by the losing team, it so far outplayed the losers the game never was in doubt. As time was called the score stood 6 to 6 but a tremendous biff by Alfred Schraumm broke the tie after 12 1-2 minutes of close play.

Give your eyes the attention they deserve. Consult us first. No time like the present. No place as reasonable as ours.--Gardner & Keena.
